A London Man Charged With Smuggling in a Wheel From Detroit.

Chief Wills left Windsor last evening and came to London to take back Sam Wolford, a resident of this city, who was arrested on Sunday on a charge of smuggling a bicycle into Canada from Detroit. It appears that Wolford purchased a bicycle in Detroit on the installment plan, and, it is alleged, afterward brought it to London without paying the duty. He is said to have disposed of it to another person in London and refused to settle with the owner of the wheel. Then the Canadian customs collector was informed of the act, and at once Inspector Stunden came to London to investigate. He secured information that warrantswearing out a warrant against Wolford, who was taken back this morning, and will be brought before the Windsor magistrate today.

Conclusion of the Inquest Re the Death of P. C. Toohey.

Misapprehension Regarding the Post-Mortem and Inquest-The Police Recommended to Carry Revolvers in the Day Time.

The adjourned inquest into the circumstances surrounding the death of P. C. Toohey, who was killed on the night of June 24 by an unknown tramp, was concluded before Coroner Flock at the police station last night.

John Pike, 898 Elias street, the first witness, knew nothing about the murder until he was informed of the occurrence by young MoIndoe, who came to witness' house and said: "There is a policeman after a tramp. He fired two shots and wants help." The boy then ran away. Witness went in the direction the policeman had gone and found the body, lying face down. He then had the police informed. To all appearances Toohey was dead when witness arrived there; did not hear the shots fired, and would not know the hat or revolver picked up on the night of the murder again.

Q.—How were you assaulted? A.—I told him he could not go up the track. He came back two steps and said: "What's that you say?" I told him he could not go down nor up; the tramp replied: "Well, — it, I'll go up anyway." I put the hand-flag in front of him to stop him, when he struck me in the face, but with what I don't know, and knocked me over. Witness said the train the tramp came off had just pulled in from the tunnel. He walked up the yard at a pretty brisk gait for a peg-leg.

Q.-Do you think you would know him again? A .- Yes, I think I would. Mr. McGillivray-Which leg was off? Witness-Well, now, I can't say

Dr. Edwin Seaborne deposed to having been called to the scene by tele-phone. When he turned the body over it was 9:50. He saw no revolver when the body was moved, but one was is spending her vacation with friends handed him by a man a minute or two afterward. Detective Nickle picked up the bullet that had smashed the watch in the breast pocket of the tunic. The condition of the dead policeman and the vomited matter near by were indicative that death was not instantaneous. Witness, with Dr. McLaren, had made the postmortem examination at Ferguson's rooms, and found several marks of violence. There were one or two punctures of the skin on the forehead, and also a slight contusion on the left arm between the elbow and shoulder. In the abdomen was found a large quantity of bloody fluid and blood clots. The ball had entered the left side just above the nirth rib, coursed a little downward and backward through the right lobe of the liver, and then through the cartilaginous portion of the ninth right rib, and passed nearly to the outer skin. The immediate cause of death was hemorrhage, caused by the bullet from a 44-calibre revolver or gun. The wound was such that there was no possibility of recovery. Dr. McLaren corroborated the evidence in every particular. Juryman Pocock asked the doctors the great delay had ensued by which the post-mortem was not begun until 5:20 the following evening. Coroner Flock offered a full explanation, stating that the confusion which followed the murder, the police having all gone on the hunt after the criminal, was in a measure respon-sible. Another delay had been caused in locating some of the dead man's relatives, so that Mrs. Toohey might be informed, and again, in procuring witnesses. There was abroad a general misapprehension concerning the case. If, however, any of them felt aggrieved, there was a way open to them to have an investigation. Chief Williams gave a similar explanation, and thought Dr. Flock was not to blame. Israel Dowdy was called to prove that the revolver had been picked up, as he had handed it to Dr. Seaborn. Cyrus Edy, recalled, would not be positive that it was not a pair of handcuffs Toohey had in his right hand, instead of a revolver, as he had stated one week ago. P. C. Hobbins gave evidence regarding the revolver and hat, and P. C. Campbell to the finding of the handcuffs in Toohey's pocket. Chief Williams was called, and explained that the revolver found was Toohey's, that it was loaded in the regular way, one empty and four full chambers. Detective Nickle was called to testify to the untorn condition of Toohey's tunic before the deceased went on duty. Dr. Flock gave a most exhaustive address to the fury, in which he said nue, was at camp that night, and when coming home went by way of Ontario street. She could not walk, and very seldom got any sleep. It became so bad that she was perfectly raw from the toes to the knees. After trying every available remedy without receiving any benefit, and almost hopeless of relief, she was advised to try Dr. Chase's Ointment. She has altogether used 8 boxes since commencing, but with the happiest results, for she is now completely cured. There is but one scar on one of her feet, a memento of her fearful suffering condition. Any person desiring further testimony in this case is at liberty to communi-
