Dunn and Linneborn were out when Blerbauer walked, and Lamy hit one, which Deneau should have caught, but misjudged, the ball dropping behind him and bounding over the fence, scoring two runs. Reldy walked and was out stealing. This ended the scoring of the game, and London made it two straight.

London got away with the first two runs, making singles in the fourth and fifth innings, and Brantford tied the score in the eighth, making two homers. Again in the ninth the Cockneys took a two-run advantage on four hits by Snyder, Mullin, Dunn and Whiteraft, who made a homer. The Sox came in for the ninth, and getting home twice, again tied the score, Taylor's batting for two bases to left, with two on bases, making the teams level.

The tenth inning found Taylor pitching for Gero, and Beebe for Heck. The score was not increased, both pitchers working a brainy game. The eleventh it we out found conditions unchanged, but the twelfth marked the down fall of Deneau's tribe, the chief himself letting the Tecumsehs in for a win when he misjudged a long middle-field fly by Lamy. The ball bounced over his head and over the fence. Bierbauer was then on a base, and the hit counted for two runs, which the Red Sox could not overcome in their final rally.

Craven's Men Started Rally in Ninth, But Schaefer Went in and Rescued the Game.

[Special to The Advertiser.] ST. THOMAS, July 7.—The Saints dropped today's game to the Toronto Beavers through their inability to come across with hits in the pinches. Victory looked almost certain in the ninth, when they got the bases filled, with none out, but one run was all that could be secured. Wilkinson and Graham both twirled excellent ball. The victors scored in the third on a walk, a stolen base, and Kroy's single. They secured their other in the single. They secured their order in the fifth on hits by Schultz and Graham.

The local's lone tally came along in the last inning. Inker opened with a clean hit, Graham developed a wild streak and passed both Hadley and Kustus. Manager Lee pulled him out and sent Schaefer to the mound, and by so doing probably saved the game, he made a very inauspicious start, plugging Kading in the ribs, allowing Inker to score. With this run in, and the sacks still populated, with none down, Schaefer struck McNellis and Gillespie out, and compelled Nevitt to fly out to right, ending the rally

"This manager will stick," retorted Shaughnessy, "I guess he will be ahead of you again when the season ends. Don't blow about your work in the last souple of games. Freeman handed you one and we made you presents of the other two."

Nevertheless, the London team impressed local fans as being mighty strong in every department, and Ottawa will certainly have to brace in order to overtake them. Some of the Ottawa stars of 1913 have fallen so far below form that they will probable be tinned and replaced by others. However, with "Lefty" Rogers back in the outfield things may go smoother and a brace may folow. "This race is just beginning," was Shaughnessy's parting shot to Manager Reisling.

[St. Thomas Journal.]

The Cockney scribes are raving that the president's decision to refuse to allow the protest to stand is a joke and is making a joke out of the league, etc., so on and so forth. In fact all they appear to be doing is complaining and threatening the president because, for once, they are not getting their own way. It is credit, not President Fitzgerald who is the joke around the circuit, but the Cockneys.
