WHY IS THIS?
A recent despatch from Ottawa gives a list of the various towns named as recruiting centres for the third contingent, and among the many places is found the town of Dalhousie, but no word of Campbellton. Now while we have no desire to detract from the shiretown, we in Campbellton feel aggrieved that a town, the main business town of the county, should be passed over and the recruiting centre sent sixteen miles down a branch line.

It would be hard to find in the province of New Brunswick a town of our size, which has given as many volunteers to the two contingents as we have. From a population of about four thousand, we have sent, if we are correct, one hundred and twenty-seven, including four officers, and most of these volunteers were boys from our own town.

Surely the authorities at Ottawa are not very well posted as to the recruiting places available when they pass over a town which can do this, and put the recruiting centre in a town which did not recruit a dozen men for the two previous contingents. This must be remedied, for it is the wish of the young men in this town to keep up the record they have made in the past, and make a good showing for the third contingent. We trust the militia authorities here will get busy and have the town of Campbellton added to the list of towns for the honor of New Brunswick's share in the next contingent.

A PRECEDENT
The Wall Street Journal thinks the Kaiser's treatment of Belgium has a precedent "in a book which he apparently invokes often when he reads." "And the word of the Lord came to Elijah, the Tishbite saying: Arise, go down to meet Ahab, King of Israel, which is in Samaria; behold he is in the vineyard of Naboth, whither he is gone to possess it. And thou shalt speak unto him, saying: Thus saith the Lord, Hast thou killed, and also taken possession? And thou shalt speak unto him saying: Thus saith the Lord, In the place where dogs licked the blood of Naboth shall dogs lick thy blood even thine."

To avoid confusion it should be pointed out that the January thaw is merely the Indian summer of early winter.

A LESSON
Admiral Sturdee, speaking before the British committee, said: "I am proud to see how splendidly our men, with those of France and Russia, are holding their own against superior odds. But it is not only guns and men that win fights nowadays. Great mistakes have been made by business men in England for the sake of economy. They have employed Germans to do the work they should have entrusted to their own countrymen. Germans are cheaper, but among them are paid spies. We have learned a lesson. Where are the great German steamship companies now? When in future a German applies to you for work tell him to go next door."

SOME INACCURACY IN CASUALTY LISTS

Corp. Alexander in Letter Home Relates Remarkable Case From Salisbury Camp

Corporal Fred Alexander in writing to his mother Mrs. A. E. Alexander of Campbellton, tells of a remarkable inaccuracy in the casualty list and warns Canadians against relying implicitly in the published list of deaths appearing in the papers. A case somewhat like the one Corp. Alexander mentions occurred in connection with Col. McLeod of Fredericton, only a few days ago when a Halifax paper published his death and obituary. Corp. Alexander writes in part as follows: "I saw some Canadian papers the other day. They said that half the Canadian Contingent had gone to the front and even gave a list of dead and wounded. I know for a fact that none have left yet (Dec. 27). One of the 'dead ones' sleeps with me in camp and belongs to our Company. The paper had him in the C. A. S. C., so you can't put much faith in the Canadian papers."—Gazette.

FOREST FIRES IN NEW BRUNSWICK
Damage Was Less by Ten Thousand Dollars in the Year 1914

(Moncton Times)
Mr. A. E. O'Leary, chief game warden and provincial fire inspector, in his usual annual comprehensive report says there have been thirty-three forest fires during the past season. Nineteen of these occurred during May and June. From May 24th to June 4th fires raged around St. John. The conclusion, says the report, is obvious, viz., fishermen on the holiday. The same applies all over the province. The accounts for one half, at least, of the forest fires in New Brunswick. During May eleven fires were reported, June eight, July two, August six, September three, and October three.

Total estimated area burned—four thousand, eight hundred and eighty-one acres, 3,345 of which are crown lands. Estimated damage to crown lands, $4,740. About 1,536 acres of private property and granted lands were destroyed at an approximate value of $4,688.

Total cost of fire fighting, of which a small portion was paid by individuals and companies carrying on the lumbering industry in the province, amounting to $1,352.81.

The most destructive fire was that which broke out at Blissfield between Boilestown and Doaktown, on June 11th, destroying a large amount of private property. This conflagration was traced to the property of Wardlow Wilks, of Blissfield, who was convicted for setting out fires contrary to the law, before Justice Connors at Chatham, and fined.

Fire set out by an American picnic party destroyed the Fish Hatchery at Rapids de Femure, in Victoria County; about one million fish were lost.

In connection with the report is a summary of the fires which occurred in the province last season, and an estimate of the area damaged, cost of extinguishing, and name of wardens reporting same.

TRACTION ENGINES FOR USE IN WOODS
Lack of Snow Causes Serious Situation for Operators.—Cannot Haul Out Cut

Owing to the lack of snow in the woods, where it is about as scarce as in any other section of the country, some lumber operators are being seriously impeded in their winter's work. All the cutting has now been finished and the logs have been yarded up, but the hauling out cannot begin for lack of snow, and in consequence men are coming out of the woods in many instances, to wait for the much-needed snow. If this does not come soon the situation will be serious for many operators.

Some traction engines such as the one purchased by the Richards concern would be useful in the woods this winter.

These engines could be manufactured right here if the rights to a suitable type could be secured. An engine that would sell at $2000 to $2500 would be purchased by the big lumber companies in considerable quantities. At the present time the warping nations would take a hundred if they could get them. For use in the woods these engines must not be too heavy nor too expensive and yet they must have plenty of power.—Gazette.

GERMAN WOMAN LOST THREE SONS

Writes to Relatives in Seattle, Giving Details of War Conditions

(St. John Globe).
Mrs. A. E. Macaulay is in receipt of a letter from a sister in Seattle which tells of a letter received by a German family living in that city from the mother in Europe. The old lady reports the loss of three sons in the army of the Kaiser, and says the regular army of Germany had practically been wiped out by the war. The fighting is now being done by boys between the ages of 16 and 21. The old lady's letter presents a dismal picture of conditions in Germany, and suggests that the wearing down process is making good headway.

The Seattle letter further states that the Belgian government has placed contracts there for 10,000 portable houses to provide homes for the homeless of that country.

The war has hit the ostrich trade so hard ostriches are being sold in South Africa for less than single feathers used to bring twenty birds recently selling for $1.25 each. Feathers that formerly sold for $200 a pound bring only $87.50.

DRESS AND AGE (Youth's Companion)

"Suit your wit to your time of life" (Il faut avoir l'esprit de son age), said a clever Frenchwoman. Most of us are glad to have any wit at any time of life. But it is certain that, to some extent, dress and age should be adapted to each other. Without wholly forgetting the lilies of the field, whose wardrobe is no doubt admirable in its untailored simplicity, we are perhaps justified in giving such thought to our raiment as will insure a decent propriety with the progress of years. Above all is it advisable to leave experiments to the age when life itself is an experiment. New fashions, odd vagaries, whims of commission and of omission may be permissible and each winning in those whose fresh and native grace can carry them off. To persons well established in middle age or beyond they are distinctly perilous. Not that we in any way commend carelessness in the dress of age. On the contrary, scrupulous care is required, and too often forgotten. Never say or think that your body is not worth care any longer. Remember that others have to live with you, and that your untidiness means their discomfort. If you brushed and sponged and mended when you were young, do it three times more when you are old. A trim old lady is a charming object. So is a trim old gentleman.

There are people who maintain that as we grow older we should be doubly anxious to be more than neat, to be elegant and finished in every article of our apparel. Perhaps even that is not unwise—at least, if we avoid all suggestion of vanity and foppishness, which are unpleasant in the young, and which in the old are utterly abhorrent.

The great rules for dressing at any age are, first, order and neatness; second, not to give the impression that we consider the husk of more importance than the kernel, the garment than the soul. A thoroughly well-dressed person is one who does not permit his clothes to distract attention one moment, for good or evil, from his character. In fact, whether we will it or not, our characters are certain to be revealed by our clothes. Let us take pains, then, to see that our clothes exhibit what is best in us.

HOW AN EARTHQUAKE SPREADS DESTRUCTION TO LIFE AND PROPERTY

Herein is shown a scene of soldiers searching for bodies in the streets following the disastrous earthquake in Messina in 1908. It gives one a good idea of how the recent earthquake in Italy carried destruction in every direction, thousands of lives being lost and sixteen towns destroyed.
