

brandy, while cases remain unchanged. This reduction, however, can scarcely be characterized as legitimate, as it is based merely on the probability of a successful vintage. Wines are also for the same reason somewhat easier, but not to influence prices in this market. There is some probability of easier prices both for brandies and wines for spring shipments. The portion of the Pragnal's cargo of DeKnyper gin, consigned to Montreal houses was brought into port last week by barge, the admiralty suit by which she was detained in Quebec, having been decided to that effect. The cases from the cargo are in an unmarketable condition, and are being offered at $7.25 for red cases with no demand. Size is the only guide as to color. There is some inquiry for uninsured green cases of Geneva. Brandies and whiskeys are in light stock, owing to shipments to St. John. The demand from the West for goods in this line has been very light of late, owing to the progress of the Dunkin Act, which it is not very improbable may pass also in Toronto. An examination of our Prices Current will show still closer quotations, and more in accordance with the actual condition of the market.

Wool.—A slight lull is perceptible in the United States wool market since last writing, which we then observed was unusually excited. Sales have been less rapid, but prices have stood the same, viz: about 12½ p.c. to 15 p.c. higher than two months ago. As regards Canada, we have no change to report. A steady enquiry continues for clothing wools for Canadian manufacturers uses, while the long combing wools have not found ready sale, owing, as we noted, to the duty to be paid the United States Government when exported to that country.
