Sensational Story as to How a Eogus Corpse was to Have been Found in the Thames.

The Misapplication of the Clau-na-Gael Funds The Informer, Le Caron Said to be Roam" ing around Chicago.

CHICAGO, September 17.-Day by day the revelations in the Cronin case are becoming more interesting and sensational. The laying bare of that part of the plot against Dr. Cronin which centemplated the discovery of his alleged corpse in the Thames, at London, has areated the biggest sepastion yet. The clumsiness of the butchers in placing the real being gathered is of value in factening the repetition of acts similar to those which Dr. campiracy upon those who were the more ac- Cronin threatened to expose, and thereby conspiracy upon choice who were the more are tively engaged in it. Barke's box, which he had made by Kildare, the tinemith, May 6, and containing all of Cronin's clothes, hat, shees, &c., is new in New York, but where the state of the stat no one seems to know.

John F. Beggs went to Now York May 7. the Inman line was to take the box to Liverpool. A certain Chicago man sailed from New York early and arrived in Liverpool late in March. Member of the Parnell party who were anxious to put an end to Irish political and factional murders heard of his presence in made of the box and clothing is unknown. and factional murders heard of his presence in England and put a detective on his track. He was traced to a place in Frederick street, Liverpoel, where he arranged for the reception of Burke's box from the steward.

The Ohicagoan went to the Spread Eagle hetel, Manchester, and then to London, stopping at the International hotel and remaining there two months. Some of his time was spent in an endeavor to obtain a body from some hospital which resembled Cronin. The object was to dress it in Cronin's clothes and throw it in the Thames where it was to be found. Through an Irish surgeon in Finsbury park, who gave him a letter of in'roduction, he ar ranged to get a body at Guy's hespital, the general description of the cadaver being five feet eleven inches, 185 pounds, black hair and moustache

The Chicagoan leased a cottage below Woolwich, near the river, on April 6, and it Woolwich, near the river, on April 6, and it some talk of the spy's giving testimony in the was to this house the osb driver was to take Cronin case, and the story told by Mall Carbimself, the cadaver and the surgeon. The corpse was to be mutilated, dressed in Cronin's clothes and thrown into the river. To inrther complete the identification various letters in a correct imitation of the handwritthe English detective bureau, were to be put into the pockets of the coat, together with forged notes of testimony to be given before the Parnell commission, all in a good imita-tion of the dead doctor a handwriting. These alleged dublicates of letters to Scotland Yard were to cover a period of nine years. All this was to shew that Cronin was a traitor to the Itish cause and had been killed in London, having come to the British capital to give testimony in the Parnell case. Letter heads of the Scotland Yard bureau were recured through a member of the "physical force" to give his testimony before the Parnell commission.

Thomas H. Benayne, of New York. The obarges are made in this instance by James Therney, of Brocklyn, irreaurer of the exon-outive board of the order. Under date of September 12 Therney wroth a Jetter to Dr. Oamp No. 265, acknowledging the receipt of the titles from Camp No. 265 for the May term sent to him direct, and saying that he had received no percentage from Storetary Romayne for the term ending May 31. Tierney aye Remayne will tarn over to him ne money because he (Tierney) refused to pay a printing bill of $1,100 and secance he gave a printing bill of $1,100 and pecanse he gave $500 to two members of the executive board.

AN INVESTIGATION REFUSED.

Dr. Curran presented the letter at a meeting of Camp No. 265 Monday evening, and moved that a resolution be adopted demonnoing the action of the secretary of the Execu-il to board, and calling for an immediate meet-lag of the Executive board to investigate the matter. Dr. Curran's motion was lust, and he then resigned Lie office of senior guardian. Quarterly, each camp through the United States makes up an account of all moneys coming into the camp during the term. Ten per cent. of that entire amount is laid aside by the treasurer of the camp and in time turned over by him to his senior guardian. This tithe of all sums received by the camp is in turn forward d by the senior guardians of the campe to the secretary of the executive board. The aggregate receipts of all these percentages goes into a half score or more of funds, at the least so it is alleged by the board, for the furtherance of home rule in Ire'and. The money is sent directly to the executive secretary, and under the constitution should be turned over by him to the treasurer. Ronayne refuses to turn over any more money to Tierney, and the latter retail ates by informing the campe that the funds they have forwarded never reached him. In this way the effect of the deadlock in the executive beard will be extended through the order, and a merry time is in view. The clumeiness of the outcomers in pixeling the reat order, and a merry time is in view. The body where it would of necessity be found in a short time prevented the carrying out of this part of the scheme, but the evidence now by the present heads of the organization, the street and disappeared shortly after the plans John F. Beggs went to Now York May 7, for the murder of Oronin were laid, was the where he met Bill Starkey, a Chicago fugitive one to whom was intrusted the task of carryfrom justice, now in Canada, and some New ing the tin box containing Gronin's clothes to York members of the Clan-na-Gael. They London. He walted in New York for many conferred together at Sweeney's hotel, and it days until the association was consummated, was arranged that a steward on a steamer of received the box and saw it sately aboard on the ship bound for Liverpool. It was landed there safely and transferred to London, where

HAS LE CARON RETURNED.

A mail carrier in the Post office is said to be responsible for a story to the effect that Lo Caron, the British spy, who testified in the Parnell case, is once more in Chicago. The tale as published is that while O'Brien was assorting his mail a man came to the window and asked the address of a certain Englishman who used to be connected with the Western British-American O'Brien had a friend standing there at the time, and he at once declared, "Why, that's L3 Caron." He claimed to know the spy very well, and rushed outside to greet the man supposed to be Le Caron. When he got into the the cor-ridor, however the fellow disappeared. O'Briens friend said he could not be mistaken, and that he would take an oath that the man was Le Caron. There has been rier O'Brien gives some color to the rumor that Le Caron will appear on the stand. O'Brien's statement, however, could not be confirmed.

NEW YORK'S SITE CHOSEN

For the Proposed World's Fair-A Magnifi cent Site Chosen.

NEW YORK, September 19 .-- The site for the World's Fair will be selected by the committee appointed for the purpose this afternoon. The site is on Manhattan island. The permanent buildings may be located on the plateau on the northwest corner of Central park, near Eight avenue and Ose Hundred and Tenth street. The northern-most portion of Cautral park above Ninety-Sixth street will be used. The lands north of the park to Oas Hundred and Fifteenth street, from Fifth avenue to Morningside park, will be also taken. Riverside park, Morningside park and the Bloomingdalo, Lake and Watts properties form the remainder of the site. It is also proposed to connectall of the parks, as in London. This would take in Mount Morris park, which would not be used for fair purposes, however. The site, exclusive of land covered by water, comprises 400 acres, easily accessible from east, west, north and south, and is ample for a world's exposition on the largest scale.

Found Dead Side By Side.

WINDSOR, Ont., September 19.-The dead bodies of a man about 28 and a woman about years of age were found in Dougall's Nursery here to-day. There was a hole di-rectly in the centre of the man's forehead and a buraed place and hole in the breast of the voman's dress. A search of the man's clothing brought to light a well-worn pocket-book containing a receipt from Nathan Weeks, treasurer and collector of Rushville, Rush county. Ind., for the taxes of Silas Dinsmore for 1888 and an other receipt from O. C. Hill, express agent of the Pacific Express company at Lake View, Miss., for a package consigned by Silas Dinamore to Silas Dinsmore, Brookfield, Ind. In the trousers pockets were found three cents. On ther left hand the woman wore two rings, and on the inside of one of them were the sters "N A. D." The couple lay side by side, and blood from the man's head had flowed over the woman's neck and head. It was evidently a carefully planned affair, as a quiet, retired spot was chesen, and the heads rested on a woman's shawl, which had been neatly folded. From the fact that they had no money the police think they came to the Detriot exposition determined to have a last good time together and then ended their perhaps uphappy lives. WINDSOR, Ont. September 20.-Mrs. Ruth Lacroix, of Detroit, came over to Windsor to day and identified the bodies of the man and woman found shot in Dougall's nursery yesterday as those of her second cousin and his wife. She said that a week ago the de-ceased Silas Dinsmore, her cousin, and his wife came to her house from his father's home in Indiana. Tuesday they both left. and he said they had tickets and were going down to Ypsilanti to his grandiather's. could not assign any cause for the suicide and murder.

COILS CLOSING ABOUT BEGGS.

It would appear that Mr. Edward Spelman, of Peoria, protests too much when he denies that he had turned over the correspondence between himself and Beggs in reference to the appointment of a trial committee in Camp No. 20 to the State's Attorney, inasmuch as the correspondence in his possession. It was largely on the strength of this correspondence that Beggs was indicted, and both Mr. Mills and Mr. Hynes regard it as strong evidence in itself and as atrongly corroborative of other circumstances developed in the case. Had Mr. Spelman not produced this corre-spondence he would have gotten into serious trouble himself. In the correspondence Beggs insisted that he, as senier guardian, had the right to name the committee for the trial of Cronin.

The raising of the fund for the defence of the suspects is causing an anxiety to the friends of the accused only second in its intensity to that attendant upon the outcome of the trial. In fact, it may be considered in some respects greater than the verdict, inasmuch as about it there is no uncertainty. The money for the defence must be raised. There can be no dodging it. The size of this fund can sourcely be real zed by the general public, and It is safe to say that its present size, together with its inevitable growth, is almost overwhelming to those who are en-gaged in raising it. The payment of the legal talent engaged in the defence forms by no means the greatest part of the expenditure. The expenses of a number of fugitives wanted badly by the prossention are to be paid, together with those of their families. Bat what is believed to be as great, if not the greatest item to be met is that required by a large sized contingent of squealers, who insist upon hush money to keep their mouths shut. The number of persons in this contingent is estimated by a prominent member. of the Clan-na-Gael to be between thirty-five and forty. The committee representing the defence has kloked hard against paying this much meney, but without avail. If it is not paid the contingent can quickly get it from the prosecution by selling their knowledge. It is estimated that the entire expense at tendant upon the defence and the collateral branches represented by would be squeelers and families of fugitives which must be sup-plied is not far from $100,000 Cuitoaco; September 16 The Times to

LONDON, September 18 -- Speaking at a political meeting at Huddersfield last evening Joseph Chamberiain predicted that the elliance between the Liberal-Unionists and Conservatives would continue until the agitation In favor of the separation of England from party in Parliament, and letters to Ireland was killed. He thought at the time Cronin written thereon specifying as to money to be paid him for coming to London ficing for a long time many cherished polltical objects, but he had found that he had not been called upon to make any savrifices. The Government was carrying much Liberal legislation through parliament. The Unionist leaders had learned to work together and trust each other. He agreed with the suggestion of Lord Harthington that a new national party ought to be formed, pledged to effect internal reforms in Great Britain and Ireland, Mr. Longnecker is free to ary that he has and whese policy should be the maintenance of the unity and strengthening of the Empire. The Gladstonians, he said, are breaking up. Their centre of gravity is now in their toil ; their head has lost all its directing energy. The sections of the Gladatone party are adopting political heresies and favor resistance to the law and Socialism. If a new party was formed, its programme should be, as far removed from the doctrines of the ultra-Rsdicals as from the foss'il Torylam of the past. He was confident many Gladstonians would be glad to adhere to such a new party, which would constitute a strong parliamentary
