

need for sustained-yield management programmes, multiple use of the forests for recreational and other non-vocational purposes, and the role of research in achieving optimum management of the resource and to better the competitive position of the forest industries. Generally speaking, however, the major emphasis is still on the fire-prevention aspect.

A wide variety of communication media are used --- press, television, radio, the provincial departments of education and youth organizations.

RP/A