

	PAGE.
IX.—DISTRESS—(Continued.)
Conditional privilege	69
Growing crops	70
Goods of strangers not to be seized	72
Statutory exemptions of owner's goods	73
Practice on claiming exemption	74
When distress can be made	75
Where distress can be made	75
Fraudulent removal	76
Chattel mortgagee's claim	78
Amount of distress	78
Entry into premises	78
Who may make a distress	79
Warrant of distress	79
Mode of making a distress	79
Inventory	79
Removal of goods	79
Pounding cattle	80
Landlord must not use impounded things	81
Appraisement	81
Distrainor must not retain possession of goods	82
Sale	82
Action for rent	83
Power of re-entry	83
Costs of distress for rent	83
Under $80	83
Over $80	84
Penalty for extortion	85
Cases	85
X—FORFEITURE AND RE-ENTRY.
Leases generally give right of re-entry	88
Former requisites	88
Right must be reserved	88
Strict demand dispensed with	89
Landlord's right to re-enter where half a year's rent in arrear	89
Forfeiture for non-performance of covenants	91
Restrictions on and relief against forfeitures	91
Cases	92
XI.—TRANSMISSION OF INTEREST.
Change in persons who are landlord or tenant	95
Liability on covenants by lessee	95
Implied covenants	96
Express covenants, control implied	96
Privity of estate	96
"Running with the land"	96
Liability of original lessee	96
Liability of lessor	96
Express covenants	97
Liability on express covenants	97
How far assignee of estate of covenantor bound	97
Express covenants "running with the land" ..	97
How far assignees are bound by express cove- nants running with the land	97
As between lessor and lessee	98
When lessee assigns	98
When lessor assigns	98