The mining market was decidedly brighter to-day. Advances were recorded in several of the shares and there were no marked declines. The whole list was steady and the market had a better tendency than has been

For some weeks past efforts seem to have been made after each raily to suppress prices again, and these efforts have been generally successful, but the raily made early to-day was held well, the market displaying good signs of strong support of strong support.

Brokers point out that altho the mining market has eeen a bad slump, the shares have held up well considering how the other markets have acted. Everywhere else stocks have been badly depressed, and with circumstances against them the mining shares have held their own much better than might have been expected.

With the exception of Hollinger, the market to-day was a good deal better than at the close of last week. Hollinger seems to be the victim of circumstances. And also with the general public asking themselves if the development of the property has warranted the high market reached, there is bound to be some depression. However, the insiders have every faith in the ultimate success of the property. They are proceeding as rapidly as possible toward the producing stage, and one of the big men of the Hollminger seems to have voiced the opinion of the management when he said that it made no difference to him what the market fluctuations were, he was quite certain that the stock would some day market fluctuations were, he was quite certain that the stock would some day be worth far above the present value. Its fluctuations to-day extended from 990 to 960, with close at 970.

Dome Extension had a good day opening at 55, it climbed to 57 3-4, closing at 57 1-2. This stock showed much better buying and after being the target for bears for a week past, it needed little purchasing to send it up.

Preston East Dome's activity has not entirely died down; it made a half point on the day's trading, at one time touching 29 3.4

rouching 29 3-4.

Rea declined to 290, but rallied again, closing strong at 300. Vipond soared to 46 1-2. There was some demand for North Dome, 160 being bid. It is an

Word of Sensational Discovery in Porcupine Comes Thru Stoneham's Office.

An accurate knowledge of the suc ground workings on a number of the Messrs. Playfair, Martens & Co.'s cable uoted Hollinger in London, 9% to 3% ceived last night in this city by the firm of Charles A. Stoneham & Co., 23 Ask. Bid. Ask. Bid. Me inda-street. These telegrams come to this progressive brokerage house from their special representative in the camp, Edward S. Little, and can be see at their offices at any time by those sufficiently interested. The news service maintained by Stoneham & Co. is of great benefit to the mining public, and in whose interests this department is conducted:

'Insiders in Big Dome mines have placed an order to buy up every outstanding share at any price whatever on the latest strike. Dome Extension also has this same strike."

"Developments in this camp last week would set any other mining camp in the world crazy. Old Goldfields and Klondyke miners who are here say they never saw anywhere in a single week never saw anywhere in a single week two such strikes as those made on the Dome and North Dome last week. I went thru the Jupiter on Friday, and it continues to be a whale. On developments am absolutely sure that latest strikes will cause big rush into camp. Requests for rooms already pouring in by the hundreds."

"Imperial struck another rich body of ore at the 100 foot level on Saturday night. This strike is, away ahead of previous ones."

"That solid gold strike on the Dome,

"That solid gold strike on the Dome, is now 19 inches long and from two to five inches wide. It is a world-beater and has set the camp wild." "I have personally seen the new Big Dome vein, which runs right up to the Dome Extension lines. Nothing better ever seen in the Goldfields of Republic Dealt With Chocolate Strike in 1908.

The realization of a full measure of democracy takes from the workingman the weapon of the strike. This has been amply proved in Switzerland, which is, perhaps, the fost democratic country in the world. In 1908 I had the opportunity of seeing how easily and quickly a strike could be handled by the Swiss, who, according to their democratic ideals, regard the striker as one who infringes the liberties of his fellow subjects.

In the first place, I should mention The realization of a full measure of fellow subjects.

In the first place, I should mention that the machinery for arbitration is the so perfect in Switzerland that there is 2.160 no excuse for a strike. And yet, from the totime, the workers do organize 23.600 strikes which are speedily suppressed by the government.

A number of girls employed a chocolate factory in the Capton Vaud thought that they were not working under fair conditions, so they decided to strike, and all other trades agreed to strike in sympathy. The employes of Nestle's factory were the only peo-ple who refused to come out. This occurred in the early spring of 1908. At a given signal one morning at 8 'clock, all the work people in the Town of Vevey, and in the surrounding dis-trict, threw down their tools and lert their work. A general strike was thus
