Hints That Help Housewives

Gasoline is excellent for cleaning a chiffon scarf or vell. Another simple method is to soak the filmy garment in a bowl of alcohol, lifting it up and down from time to time until it is quite clean, then hang it up in the open doorway, where there is a free current of air, to dry. Gasoline, of course, must be used away from fire; in the open air is best open air is best.

Medicine closets, and good-looking ones, have never been cheaper than now. One of these will be found a great convenience in the laundry; in it may be kept not only the bluing and starch, but bottles of various stain re-movers, so helpful when emergencies

Something new in pastry boards are those made of steel, enameled. They are not heavy to lift and are provided with rubber rests at each corner so there is no danger of the board marring the table on which it is put. They are to be had in several sizes.

· Dress.

With the opening of the Grand Opera House on Monday evening, Aug. 19, the historic old play house will commence its forty-first season, a record that few theatres on the continent can boast of. Last season the house was open for forty-nine weeks, and would have run into the complete year had it not been found necessary to close in order to give the auditorium and entrances a complete new dress designed by the famous decorators, the McAndrews Bros.

Never has the old playhouse looked more comfortable, nor has it had a color effect more artistically worked cut. The lobby has received more than ordinary attention with a handsome floral design in each of the ceiling panels done in oils, and the two centre be emptied immediately from the con-tainers in which they come from the representing music and the drama, representing music and the drama, richly executed by an Italian artist.
