In presenting the third Number of the NOVA-SCOTIA ALMANACK to the public, the Proprietor has again to express his gratitude for the amount of patronage received. Beside the evidence afforded by an extensive sale, the Press of the Province took most favourable notice of the work in 1834, and again in 1835: Instead of copying such notices, as is usual, the Proprietor deems that a grateful reference to them may be sufficient. He feels some satisfaction in believing, that he has endeavoured to merit this patronage; and he hopes that the Almanack for 1836 will prove, that he is not unworthy of a continuance of the Public favour. A new Chronological series is given; some additional matter in the columns, and useful Tables have been introduced, to render the Almanack more servicable for Nautical purposes; Mathematical questions, to which satisfactory answers are requested, diversify the number, and the matter, generally, is closely compressed, so as to give as much information, in as small a compass, and at as low a price as is possible. With confidence, therefore, the Nova Scotia Almanack for 1836, is submitted to the public, and progressive improvement is promised for future numbers.
