FIELD IN WORLD

How Science and Experience

Crust of London Clay.

The arena of the Imperial Stadium at Wembley Park—the area occupied by the playing field and the running tracks—has been prepared under the supervision of Charles Perry, who has been responsible for the construction of all Olympic games in 1906 in Athens.

Mr. Perry's experience is such that he was recently asked to go to America to lay out the finest running tracks and playing fields there; but he was content to remain in England to devote his energies to producing some of the best results of his work in this Imperial Stadium.

Just before he took up work with the British Empire Exhibition, and whilst he was, as now, the track expert at Stamford Bridge grounds, he had completed what was considered one of the best grounds in England—that for the Army, at Aldershot.

When he first inspected the ground at Wembley Park he realized that it had almost as difficult a piece of work as that at Stockholm in 1911, when he was asked to prepare an Olympic course on the solid rock foundation of the Olympic Stadium there. At Wembley Park the foundation was of clay, which would have made drainage particularly difficult if Mr. Perry's vast experience had not been brought to bear on the situation.

It was decided to deal with the Stadium in very much the same way as that at Stockholm had been treated, and that the foundation of clay should be so shaped as to form a natural drainage system. To this end, a fall was allowed for, from the centre of the arena to the outside edge, all round the playing field, of at least six inches, to allow the water to run away.

On the clay foundation, various grades of clinders and clinker were laid to a depth of ten inches, and over this again five inches of specially prepared soil was spread to form the natural bed of the turf.

Wembley Park, before it was taken over by the Exhibition authorities, had been occupied for 12 years by the

The kind of adventure that, down deep in your heart, you would have loved to live!

Here they were unloaded and reloaded immediately. The grass never ceased growing. The work was so organized that the turf was laid almost as soon as it was cut, and arrangements were made by which, on each day, no more turf was cut than could be successfully laid on that day. The turf laying was completed by October 6th, and two weeks later, owing to the excellent way it had been knitting, the grass had to be cut.

The result of Mr. Perry's work is that we have at this moment a football ground composed of a grass so tough that it will withstand the wear and tear of a season's football and yet remain as green at the end of the season as at the beginning.

The Running Tracks.
Mr. Perry has constructed two running tracks, one of which is a true quarter-mile lap, while the other gives a straight 220 yards sprint. The straight is made possible by tunnelling under the west end bank of the Stadium.

It is fully expected that the tracks will become the fastest running courses in the world, and that new records will be set up. In the "220 straight" the absence of corners or curves will at the first corner will be done away with.

THE PROBLEM OF PAROLE OF PRISONERS

(By Judge Coatsworth.)

To the Editor of the Toronto Globe:
The undue prominence given to an occasional failure under probation, parole, extra-mural permit or ticket-of-leave is leading to ill-considered criticisms of these methods of dealing with criminals. The fact is overlooked that for every one who fails from 20 to 40 faithfully fulfill their obligations. A brief outline of the official facts and figures will inform the public of the gratifying results. Probation, parole and extra-mural permits are Provincial. The ticket-of-leave is Dominion. Each of these is merely a mitigation, and not a remission of punishment, and bears lightly or heavily on the offender in proportion as he lives up to the fairly strict conditions imposed.

When a person is first convicted, and it is believed he has learned his lesson, and the ends of justice will be satisfied by giving him restricted liberty conditioned on his good behavior, his sentence is suspended, and he is placed on probation for a definite term. If he fails he is brought back for sentence. Probation as to adults is just coming into operation in Ontario, and we have to look elsewhere for results. In most of the eastern states of the U. S. A. it is in active operation, and official reports are available. In 1920 in Buffalo 46 per cent. of all offenders convicted of felonies were placed on probation, and 71 per cent. of them discharged improved.

On July 1, 1919 in New York State there were:
On probation, 15,681; surplus of probationers over prisoners, 2,903. A prisoner costs the State annually $218.65; a probationer costs the State annually $21.94; annual saving to the State on each of the above 15,681 probationers, $317.60.

Parole.
A prisoner may be sentenced to an Ontario reformatory for a term not less than three months and an indeterminate term thereafter of not more than two years less one day. The Board of Parole visits each institution every two months, and interviews any prisoner whose case is ripe for consideration on the approaching termination of his first or definite period. The Chief Executive Officer and Secretary of the Board is Dr. A. E. Lavelle. His father was surgeon and then Warden of Kingston Penitentiary for 21 years. Dr. Lavelle was brought up in the atmosphere of prison life, and is thoroughly familiar with every phase of it. He has, as the results testify, shown most remarkable qualifications for the work. He attends every meeting of the board, and without his concurrence no prisoner is at any time paroled. The work of the board covers: Guelph Reformatory, Burwash Industrial Farm, Fort William Industrial Farm, Mimico.

It will be seen from this that if we really desire to stop making criminals, we must look primarily to the parents and homes. If these can be safeguarded, and where necessary supervised, by probation or parole officers, many a lad will be saved from taking his first step, at least his second, step in crime.

E. COATSWORTH,
Member of Ontario Board of Parole.

Tickets-of-Leave.
These are granted on application to the Department of Justice at Ottawa. Notwithstanding adverse criticism, the Blue Book has the following good showing for the year ending March 31, 1923: Tickets-of-leave granted in Canada, 958; failures, 63. Lived up to standard, 840.

It will thus be seen that out of each 100 over 98 maintained the requirements, and less than 7 per cent. failed. Crime breeders.

Some American convicts last year testified that the three principal crime breeders are:

(1) Defective homes.
(2) Bad companions.
(3) Mixing young offenders with old criminals in prison.

It will be seen from this that if we really desire to stop making criminals, we must look primarily to the parents and homes. If these can be safeguarded, and where necessary supervised, by probation or parole officers, many a lad will be saved from taking his first step, at least his second, step in crime.

E. COATSWORTH,
Member of Ontario Board of Parole.

Clay Plant, Municipal Farm at Langstaff, Women's Farm at Concord and the Mercer Reformatory.

The following is the result for last year, 1922:

Cases, interviewed and investigated, 1,231; Persons paroled, 440; Failures, 20.

It will be seen that the failures were only 4.1-2 per cent. and that 95 out of every 100 lived up to requirements.

Extra-Mural Permits.
On a proper case to justify it, a prisoner in any reformatory or jail may while remaining in custody, be granted a permit to work outside and support his dependents, reporting each night. The cases of certain young prisoners who need specially strict control are also dealt with in this way instead of parole. Dr. Lavelle has charge of this work, and acts in consultation with the Parole Board. In 1922: Permits granted, 276; failed, 4. Lived up to regulations, 272.

These men, instead of being with their families a burden on the Province worked outside about 17,000 days, and earned wages, at least of $40,000. The action taken resulted in a saving to the Province of approximately $100,000 to $200,000.
