TO INVESTIGATE COST OF MILK

Toronto Officials Going Into Matter Thoroughly—Fixed Price For Milk May Require Same Action Re Beef.

(Toronto Star, Friday.)

The decision that Toronto must have an ample supply of pure milk at a price within the reach of all classes was strongly affirmed at this morning's session of the committee of the Milk Producers' Association. The result of the meeting was the drawing up of a form of questionnaire to be sent to milk producers and distributors, asking for information which the committee felt should be in its possession. The morning session was given over to a discussion of the situation from the viewpoint of the consumer.

In explanation of the part to be taken by his department in the inquiry into milk costs, Dr. Hastings, medical and health officer, said to The Star this morning:

"In regard to the investigation into the cost of milk, Major Duncan and I have been talking this matter over, and

I am delighted to say that we see eye to eye in regard to the methods and ways, and means by which an efficient investigation into the cost of production can be conducted, and which will guide the board in the fixing of prices.

"We both quite appreciate the fact that in investigating the cost of milk production and in determining what a reasonable price should be, it is essential to investigate the entire problem of the cow. The Health Department is co-operating in every way, and we have loaned our expert, Dr. Pollock, of the milk and dairy instruction department, to act on the committee."

Not only is the price of milk involved in the enquiry, but quantity, production and the price of beef. In past winters has been claimed that the low price of milk made it more profitable to sell milk cows for the beef than to keep them through the winter. Any price set for milk may necessitate the setting of a price on beef, so that the milk supply may not be jeopardized by the selling off of milk cows.

Miss Harley was not posing for the movies, neither is she seeking a theatrical engagement, she told reporters. She has worn just such combinations, designed and made by herself, since 1914, when she was doing research work in Mexico and found the trousers more comfortable than skirts.

"I approve of trousers for women," she said to a woman reporter. "I contend that women are hampered by the swaddling clothes they wear and that they spend entirely too much time and thought on their clothes. If they wore loose and comfortable things their brains would function more freely, and women would be of more value to the world."

All of Miss Harley's costumes—and she has twelve combinations with her—are made on the hips. She does not wear corsets nor high heels. Her evening costumes are made of exquisite materials, elaborately trimmed with pearls, laces and heavy embroideries, but all are made on the same lines—the trousers and the upper part, which is like a fitted smock.

"I have nothing tight over the hips," she said, "nor do I mutilate my body in any way with cramped shoes or holes pierced in my ears for rings."

She said that there is no excuse for women being fleshy (she weighs 130). "Plenty of the proper sort of exercise and every woman would be slim," she declared. "Slender lines show good breeding."

Her morning costumes are of ginghams; the afternoon costumes of serges, silks and satins and the evening creations of soft clinging crepes. For every afternoon and evening outfit she has a special hat and a walking stick or parasol to match.

All of women's savage instincts for adornment should be saved for the evening, when she is 100 per cent woman," she said.

Miss Harley has to make all of her own things, because every dressmaker and tailor she seeks thinks her a joke and will not make the garments properly.

SHE ADVOCATES TROUSERS AND WEARS 'EM TOO

New York, Sept. 24—Comes to the city a lady individualist—a lady from Mexico and environs, who believes in trousers (although she doesn't call them by that name) for the female of the species, and who has the courage of her convictions.

Miss Fanny Harley made her first public appearance on the streets between 4 and 5 yesterday afternoon. In a very short skirt down 34th avenue in a costume of white serge trousers and a cross between a waist and jacket of the same material, trimmed profusely with white buttons and ribbons, the lady from Mexico succeeded in creating considerable attention.

She had a crowd following her the moment she stepped from a taxicab in front of the public library, and when several news photographers snapped her picture the afternoon promenaders nudged one another—and explained the scene. "Something for the moving pictures," was the usual verdict.

Miss Harley was not posing for the movies, neither is she seeking a theatrical engagement, she told reporters. She has worn just such combinations, designed and made by herself, since 1914, when she was doing research work in Mexico and found the trousers more comfortable than skirts.

U. S. LABOR LEADERS DENOUNCE THE O. B. U.

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 23—Scathing denunciation of the One Big Union, the principles of the organization the methods adopted by those who seek to foster the movement and practically everything connected with it was made this afternoon by J. W. Hayes and Matthew Wall, members of the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor, in speeches before the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress. They denounced the One Big Union as a scheme to divide the labor movement and was an attempt to revive a scheme that had been attempted thirty years ago in the United States but which at that time "had been found wanting."

Courting Room in Houses

London, Sept. 24—While considering a proposal to build a new house in rural areas, the Eaton Bray Council are including one in the cottages and fore-going a bathroom. DAN ON HANDSHAKES AS A HEALTH MEASURE

Montclair, N. J., Sept. 24—"Don't shake every paw that is extended to you," says Health Officer John Gaub in a bulletin which he has issued warning the people of this town of the danger that attends indiscriminate handshaking. Mr. Gaub said the intensive political campaign which is coming to a close was not the inspiration for his warning. "The clean hand habit is a good one, and should be adopted by all," says the bulletin. "It means much in promoting community health, due to the fact that the human hand has been shown to be the medium through which many diseases have been spread. Handshaking is almost universal, and while it stands for friendliness and sociability, it has its dangers. Medical men are agreed that the infection of influenza is often conveyed in this way."

Sterling Silver Inlaid at the Wear Points

The black spots on the diagrams above indicate the wear points at the back of the handle and bowl of spoons and the back of forks. The shaded area shows the tip of spoon bowl.

These are the points at which the wear shows soonest on ordinary silver-plated ware, because of the wearing away of the silver deposit.

But in HOLMES & EDWARDS "Silver Inlaid" flatware, a piece of sterling silver is welded in at the two spots while the spoon tip is super-plated. In "Super Plate" flatware, all three points are protected by a heavy extra coating of pure silver, giving spoons and forks protection at the wear points.
