CONSERVATIVES IN QUEBEC WILL CRY ANNEXATION

Will Try to Frighten French-Canadians With Cry That Province of Quebec Will be Annexed to United States if Reciprocity is Passed

(Montreal Witness)
A general clamor has sprung from among the rank and file of the French-speaking Conservatives here at the announcement that contrary to what is to be done in other provinces during the impending electoral period, no educational campaign is to be conducted in the province of Quebec, but a sentimental one only. The central Conservative committee at Ottawa, has so decreed, and this decision has set an entire wing of the party—the old Blue one—in open revolt, and threats have been made that unless the decision is rescinded within a week, general apathy if not desertion en masse will follow.

The "Witness" was put into possession of facts this morning to the effect that the heads of the Conservative party, at Ottawa, either through electoral literature or speeches have decided that the annexation bogie with the United States and the Nationalists' cry of "Down with the ultra-imperialist Laurier," will be used.

This would explain the total absence of any Conservative meetings in this province, while the Nationalists are allowed a Yree hand. There is more: A series of articles are to be published in the newspaper, against reciprocity. The first one of these articles appeared in the "Patriot" of last Saturday, and it is said, written by a young journalist of note.

The article in the "Patriot," which is the first one of some twenty to follow, is exactly in the note and tone mentioned by the heads of the Conservative party.

As already stated the general outcry of the same element of the Conservative party here has rung out strong and even in Ottawa, where the decision was made public, the Conservative organizers were told that a great number of their adherents in Quebec would refuse to be treated as "Coolies," and would absolutely refuse to budge.

Such is the astonishing statement repeated today to the "Witness" by some

TORIES DODGE MOTION ON LAURIER'S POSITION AT IMPERIAL CONFERENCE

Opposition, Hopelessly Divided. Do Not Permit Mr. Monk's Amendment to Come to Vote—Three Widely Divergent Complaints by Borden and His Followers

Ottawa, Ont., July 26.—The opposition amendment to Honorable Mr. Fielding's resolution to resume the reciprocal discussion in parliament today was not permitted to come to a vote. It was prudently dropped by the declared "Lost in division."
The discussion related to the premier's position at the imperial conference, and found the opposition unable to agree upon any specific criticism other than general condemnation of Canada's representation. Mr. Monk, who submitted the amendment calling for the production of the full text of the proceedings, condemned because the premier had "not stood alone for the autonomy of Canada," but had advocated and agreed to "a proposal under which there shall be consultation" between the mother country and the dominions.
Then Mr. Borden also condemned because the premier had worn "the well-recognized and somewhat threadbare garb of a slave of the autonomy of Canada," and finally, W. F. MacLean, condemned a somewhat straddling condemnation. He sided with his leader, but insisted that the premier for permitting Britain and the colonial office from "filling regarding Canada as a mere colony" adding his submission that Sir Wilfrid should "wake them up and show them what Canada is."

The discussion served to emphasize the schisms which exist in the opposition ranks in relation to imperial relations and the effort which is being made to face both ways.
The text of Mr. Monk's want of confidence amendment set forth that the government should communicate to parliament forthwith "The complete report of the proceedings of the imperial conference of 1909." He argued that while Sir Wilfrid Laurier was being extolled by the ministerial press of Montreal for retaining the status upon Canadian autonomy, he had in reality lent himself to the development of colonial imperialism.

Notwithstanding that parliament was asked to vote large sums for military and naval matters, no light had been given as to the authority of imperial generals and admirals, and the Canadian premier had advocated a proposal under which there should be consultation and co-operation. The Canadian navy had been established by the premier for the purpose of carrying out the policy for the imperial conference of 1909, and it was incumbent upon the government to give the house the full text of the proceedings of the recent conference that the facts might be determined.
Sir Wilfrid Laurier heartily concurred in the statement that this information should be placed before the house as soon as it reached the government from the colonial office. He would consult with the governor-general on his return to Ottawa tonight with a view to calling for it.

It was the decision of the conference that all its proceedings, reported verbatim, should be made public and with that end in view the colonial office was printing the proceedings. These, however, had not yet come to hand.
For himself, he had given out nothing to the ministerial press of Montreal, nor to any other source. The official report would speak for itself.
"I shall be only too happy to lay it upon the table of the house upon its arrival," added Sir Wilfrid. "I am anxious to have my conduct at the conference discussed in this house and in the country. It will be a pleasure to have the opportunity of vindicating my course."

There were those who had not waited to see what he had said before under-taking to discuss and to criticize his attitude, and the sooner the report came to hand the better it would be for the government.

The premier added that it was unusual to submit a want of confidence resolution condemning the government for something for which they were in no way responsible, but were in the hands of the colonial office.

Mr. Borden applauded Mr. Lancaster and other of his supporters who had been approving Mr. Monk's utterances by stating that he entirely agreed with the position regarding the official report. He held, however, that the report would speak for itself in ministerial organs throughout the country, many had emanated from the ministerial colleagues of Sir Wilfrid who attended the conference.
"Wherein had the premier saved the autonomy of Canada?" he asked, "make any difference whether it was Balfour or Chamberlain or Asquith or Haldane, or Sir Wilfrid Laurier, or Sir John A. Macdonald? This time it was Mr. Asquith who had committed the assault on the autonomy of Canada."
"If," interrupted Sir Wilfrid, "and Liberal cheers, 'my honorable friend had studied the situation of the report regarding the official report, he would have seen that it was a good Liberal like Lloyd-George and Churchill, it is always necessary for my right honorable friend to do his sword and shield and white plume and save the Canadian people. Canadian autonomy has been so well preserved that it ought to be in cold storage by now."

OBITUARY

Harry Newcombe

World has been received in the city of the death of Harry S. Newcombe, which occurred at Boston on Saturday after a brief illness, brought on by heat prostration. In the course of a year or more spent in this city while singing in several of the moving picture houses, Mr. Newcombe made a host of friends who will regret to hear of his death. For a brief time he was engaged as manager of the Star Theatre in the North End, and in this capacity he proved himself to be a capable business man. He made his last appearance on the stage here when he took part in an entertainment given by local talent in the Nickel Theatre at Christmas.

Of a genial disposition and always obliging and courteous, he was quick to make friends. His home was at North Windham (Me.), though for some time he had been in Boston, first as a barber and later as a vaudeville. His funeral was held from the home of his father, Levi S. Newcombe, at North Windham, Thursday. Besides his father he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. William Coffey and Mrs. Elizabeth Linnell, and one brother, Howard E. Newcombe. A letter from Mrs. William Coffey, sister of the deceased, was received in this city yesterday by Mrs. John Golding, Waterloo street.
