Mr. Domville wanted information about the grant for new examining warehouses at St. John, and the Premier said it was a warehouse for goods coming by rail.

Mr. Davies wanted information about he Prince Edward Island lighthouse. Twelve were promised by the late Government before their resignation.

The Premier replied that the Government would do what was necessary to promote the public interest. He spoke sneeringly of the industry of the late Ministry in passing orders in Council at the last moment for these lighthouses.

Mr. Mitchell said that as soon as the Island entered the Union steps were taken to extend to it the same vigorous policy of properly lighting the coasts as had been followed out all through the Dominion. The late Government intended constructing nine lighthouses, every one of which was absolutely necessary to safe navigation.
