Arena Committee To Start Work At Once

Will Go Into Every Angle of Project and Report At Another Meeting—E. R. Dennis Heads Committee.

The arena project was taken for a thorough airing last night at the meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, attended by representatives from various clubs and public-spirited organizations of the city.

A committee to be named by E. R. Dennis, who acted as chairman of last night's meeting, with Gordon Philip as honorary secretary, and which will look into every phase of the project and report back at another meeting, was the main objective attained last night in the way of something definite.

Last night's meeting, however, besides getting this far, brought out most of the angles by which the proposition will have to be approached, and this was badly needed, with so many rumors going the rounds and more or less loose street-corner arena-building.

Clearing It Up.

George Little, who has been interested in the project from the first, appeared before the meeting and probably succeeded in clearing away most of the haze, both with regard to site, the costs of building and the position of the Western Fair board up to the present.

Plans which were got out last year calling for an arena to seat approximately 3,700 people, and to be erected at Tecumseh Park, with a grandstand at one side of the building, which was to answer in the way of dressing-rooms and showers for both baseball and hockey, were quoted at $80,000. This would be without the artificial ice plant.

This was estimated at present prices as coming at $70,000, perhaps lower. The Tecumseh Park site was given free to the arena because the purpose of its purchase was to provide a home for amateur sport.

Thirty-five thousand of the total amount was in sight last year, but the balance, in Mr. Little's opinion, was an insuperable obstacle at that time. The speaker suggested that if the Western Fair board went ahead with the arena proposition—and they have given the assurance that they did—there would be suitable for hockey—the $35,000 in sight last year could be applied for an artificial ice plant.

Certain members at the meeting doubted the fair board's ability to undertake the proposition at the present time, because of the fact that their powers of borrowing were somewhat limited.

Jack Greer brought forth what seemed fairly a conservative estimate of the probable revenue from an arena from hockey, skating on to motor show, and it totaled $10,000.

Much discussion arose as to the advisability of starting out with an artificial ice plant, but the best of the gist, the installation of a complete artificial plant, will be favored, if it can be financed.

SITE OF ARENA IS OF FIRST IMPORTANCE

The question of the site for London's proposed arena, should be one of the most important factors in connection with the whole problem, because in the general rush for an arena for next year at least, the possibilities of a quarter of a century hence should not be overlooked.

Queen's Park and Tecumseh Park sites are the chosen now before those who will eventually get behind the actual proposition. The first named, is a purely problematical site, because of the fact the fair board may find the erection of an arena not feasible at this time. More, is generally acknowledged that a move for the Western Fair is imminent and such a move would be to the outskirts of the city, therefore, rendering the question of accessibility a vital one, and a nasty one. Lastly, the hockeyists would be purely tenants and they've been in that position long enough.

Tecumseh Park on the other hand, presents at once an ideal site and its there for the asking with few strings attached other than those effecting the permanency of the building to be erected. It would mean that if an arena were erected over the river, a nucleus of an athletic plant would be at hand to enlarge into one big home for athletes of all kinds with club houses, and all that goes with an up-to-date plant, as the city grows and the demands for such an institution inevitably came along with such growth. In fact, the demand is here now for just such an institution, which would look after every angle of athletics without going very far into the future growth of the city.

While an arena is first of all for hockeyists, the latter cannot isolate themselves away from any plan which would tend to develop the whole athletic growth of the city. And any plan that might have this in view, merits the careful consideration of the hockeyists, for their own good and for the good of the city at large.

In addition to the Interchurch League football enthusiasm has manifested itself in the formation of a town league, consisting of three teams, G. W. V. Sons of England and the Sons of Scotland. The following officers have been elected: Honorary patrons, R. B. Hutt, S. Gilchrist, president, R. W. G. Bloor; first vice-president, H. E. Hutt; secretary-treasurer, James Richardson. The executive committee will be composed of the officers and the captain of each team.
