CINCINNATI FIRE DEPARTMENT TO FIGHT FIRES IN NEW WAY

Find That by Taking Fire Hoses Up to the Top of a Skyscraper They Can Govern Fires in Other Buildings More Easily.

The Cincinnati fire department recently took its fire hose to the top of the 34-story Central Union skyscraper and showered water down from the great height upon surrounding buildings for a square around.

It was a real test of fighting an imaginary fire from the skies instead of the ground as is customary.

The firemen turned the stream upward and outward and sent the water into the air another 150 feet and let it deluge house tops a square away.

The test proved to the satisfaction of the department that fires can be fought successfully from tops of skyscrapers and that automobile fire engines do the work of forcing the water up to the height of 400 feet or more above the pavement better than steam fire engines.

During the tests, the steamer maintained a pressure at the engine of approximately 250 pounds, and the pressure at a 1 1/2-inch smooth-bore nozzle on the roof registered 85 pounds.

How the cotton situation is affecting the southern railroads is evidenced by shrinkages for the third week of 6 p.c. on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas; 7 p.c. on the Texas & Pacific and 30 p.c. on the St. Louis Southwestern.

RAILWAY GROSS SLOWLY LOST GROUND IN SEPTEMBER

Greater Percentage of Decrease From Last Year in September Than in August—Southern Roads Reflect Cotton Situation.

Railroad earnings reports coming to hand cannot be called exactly cheerful reading, but they quite meet the expectations of railroad men as voiced at Washington by the committee of presidents which took the matter up at the White House.

LITTLE BUSINESS DOING ON REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE

Quotations are Only Nominal, and the High Who Wants to Sell Finds it Difficult to Find a Buyer.

The fact that many real estate and insurance brokers who were devoting all their time to the real estate side of their business are now turning their attention to insurance, is only one example of how dead the real estate market really is.

COTTON CROP TONNAGE

It is to be remembered that in point of tonnage the cotton crop itself is of no great moment to any railroad, but the great value of the crop, the dependence of certain sections upon it to so large an extent as they do and its bearing upon the purchasing power of the entire South, make it a powerful factor in the total earnings of the southern railroads.

LIFE INSURANCE APPEALS TO BUSINESS WOMEN

Canada Life Booklet Gives Much Information Useful to Women Interested in This Important Subject.

The October number of the Canada Life Echoes is entirely given over to women and their relation to life insurance.

Although there are still many agents who seem to believe that there is little chance of doing business with women, prospects now, however, married women, business women and women of independent means are taking greater interest in the subject.

It is often the woman who urges her husband to take out an insurance policy; it is not surprising that when she is able she is the first to provide for any who may depend upon her in this way.
