Butch in Church.
 It was one big surprise for everyone in the machine gun company when the chaplain at that got Butch into the church for Sunday services. Butch is rated as pretty hard home—honest, efficient, and faithful as they make them, but not very careful about his language and more than willing to scrap with anyone any day. The chaplain got him one day when Butch was applying some harness for one of the mules. "His life was about like this: 'Now, Butch, I'm going to ask you to come to church Sunday morning. I know you don't want to, but I want you to come as a favor to me. If you were out selling lightning rods you'd at least get a farmer to let you put one on his house, or if it wasn't going to cost him anything. Now, we've been good friends ever since I came to the regiment, haven't we?' Butch admitted they had been.
 "Good," he said. "Now, I'm dealing in an article which I claim will cure a lot of troubles. I'm only asking you to try one sample—just one."
 The chaplain had been called away just before services, and a visiting chaplain occupied the pulpit. The rest of the fellows, seeing Butch up in front, were glad to have him with them.
 The visiting chaplain looked over the congregation of freshly-returned, half-dazed runners for some one to lead in prayer.
 The little congregation of soldiers grew tense as they waited for the chaplain to speak. You could just feel he was going to call on Butch.
 "Will this young man kindly lead us in prayer?" he asked.
 Butch got up. Every eye was on him. Everyone wondered how he'd make out, being called on like that the first time he had been to church in years.
 "But Butch was equal to the emergency.
 "Let us have five minutes of silent meditation," said Butch.
 He sat in the Army.
 Capt. Harold Eric Thomas, Canadian Army Service Corps, was court-martialed in London on June 17. The charges alleged that he had while controlling a workshop at Shoreham, employed soldiers in repairing private motor cars and had supplied tires and other military material for the purpose. He was also accused of having built a motorcycle in the same way and of selling it afterward for £150. The cycle was said to have been built secretly and placed in a pit by day. There were also several charges of obtaining money improperly.
 It was alleged that while he was acting for Gen. Odium he bought a car for $625, but charged the general $150. In another case he was charged with selling a car for Major Ewing and returning the price as $375, instead of $500.
 Lieut. A. B. Anderson, Army Service Corps, was guilty at the court-martial in London of applying 50 gallons of army petrol to his own use, and confessed that he sold the petrol because he was penniless owing to the expense of his wife's illness.
 Shot a Trooper.
 When Pte. Esther M. Ellis of the 1st U.S.I. went on entry go at Saint St. Marie locks his orders were to shoot any trespasser. He obeyed orders, and the result is a dead black bear, weighing 175 pounds, which had to be advanced and strangled by the post.

LAND FOR SOLDIERS.

Important Order-in-Council Affecting Returned Men.
 By the order-in-council making reservations of Dominion lands for returned soldiers under the soldier settlement act it is provided that all vacant and available Dominion lands within appropriate military reserves on either side of railways in the districts where there are sufficient available lands to warrant reservation shall be reserved for the purpose of the soldier settlement act. A line is drawn along the township lines approximately fifteen miles from the railway on each side, making a belt of thirty miles in width within which all remaining vacant lands are held for returned soldiers.
 The reservation is effective against all applications for entries on Dominion lands, except returned soldiers who have their ordinary homestead right and except as to existing rights prior to the reservation. A returned soldier who has not exhausted his homestead right may make ordinary homestead entry in the reserved areas as if the reservation had not been made. Soldier entries under the soldier settlement act will be allowed as soon as the regulations under that act have been completed and passed by council.
 All entries throughout the Western provinces which in the last few months have been cancelled or abandoned as homesteads or cancelled grazing leases or lands coming out of reserve, except where rights had been previously acquired, have been reserved for selection by the Soldier Settlement Board, and this process will be continued.
 It is further provided that among many of the railway lines throughout Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta and the railway belt of British Columbia, where lands are held under entry and the duties are not being subject to cancellation proceedings for the benefit of the soldier settlement act.
 Any returned soldier who produces a letter from the Soldier Settlement Board certifying to his right under the act to apply for the cancellation of any existing entry in default, with a view, if cancelled, to re-entry by himself under soldier entry.
 Any returned soldier having his right under the Soldier Settlement Act will have the privilege of applying for a quarter section of any vacant and available Dominion lands, whether it be in a reserved area or not.
