TO PROLONG LIFE

Happy Marriage, Daily Bath, Certain Foods, Rest and Fresh Air.

To prevent old age coming on too soon, the first condition necessary is the possession of healthy glands (chief among them being the thyroid, the adrenais, the pancreas and the liver), and this de-them being the thyroid, the adventage, the pancreas and the liver), and this depends upon heredity.—

Marriage is an invaluable aid in the struggle against old age. If married life is one of the best means of resisting the approach of old age, on the other hand, it is positively certain that unhappy marriages are the surest means of hastening its oncoming.

To avoid premature old age and early death we have to follow these rules:
Wear losse collars, because a tight collar presents obstacles to the free circulation of the blood through the thyroid. De not take too much meat, because abundance of meat alters the ductless glands.

De not take too much meat, because abundance of meat alters the ductless glands.

Take large quantities of milk, this beate the extract of various glands, and especially that of the thyroid.

Be as much as possibel in the open gir, and especially in the sunshine; and take plenty of exercise, taking care to breathe deeply and regularly.

Take a bath daily, and, in addition, once a week or every two weeks take a Turkish or vapor bath.

Wear porous clothing, light hat and lev shoes.

Go early to bed and rise early.

Sleep in a very dark, very quiet room, and with a window open; and do not sieen less than six or more than 71-2 hours.

Have one complete day's rest in each week, without even reading or writing. Avoid mental disturbances or worries. Be tennerate in the use of alcohol, and also in the use of coffee or tea.

Avoid places that are overheated, especially by steam, and badly ventilated.

Replace or reinforce the functions of the organs which may have become changed by age or disease, by means of the extracts from the corresponding creams of healthy animals. But of course, the application of this precept must always be adapted to the individual case.—From the British Medical Journal.

"Among the many incendiaries de stroying the property of the American nation," says Louis S. Amonson in In-surance, Engineering, "none is more ac-tive than the 'criminal' friction match. In Harrisburg, Pa., a short time ago, a friction match dropped on the floor the cellar, was stepped upon, and resulted in a property loss of nearly $300,000.

"Had this been a safety match instead of a 'criminal' match no fire would have occurred. In many up-to-date European countries the 'criminal' match which ignites on anything is outlawed and matches are required to be used exclusively.

"Such a law in each of the States of the Union would save to the public and to the insurance companies millions of dollars annually. Three hundred thou-sand dollars is a high price to pay for one match, and friction matches are purchased every day in the year on that basis.
"The property loss resulting from the 'criminal' match unfortunately is only a small part of the damage dong. Thousands of lives are lost; a whole army has been burned to death from the use or friction matches. Women with their flimsy gowns are often the victims of matches that ignite from being stepped on. The universal use of safetly matches would save thousands of lives and millions of dollars worth of property.

"Safety matches cannot be ignited by rats or mice, by being stepped on, by rats or mice, by being stepped on, by packages or boxes falling on the floor or 'criminal' matches at present de stroy life and property. If every pub-lic spirited citizen, including agents, If every pubmanagers, insurance commission would mean increased safety for life and property. The 'criminal' match should be legislated out of existence in every State of the Union."

effective means could be taken to save them.

We have no report concerning what was said or thought by these wild mothers of the plain. But each squaw removed her blankets and placed them around her take. Then, holding their oftspring to their loving breasts, lay dowr on the prairie. When the blizzard was past and searchers went out to look for the women, they were dead; stark, stiff. But their babes were living.

In New York State there is at Clinton prison a well-equipped ward for tuber-culosis convicts transferred from the several State prisons. Since that ward was established in the early 700: the death rate from tuberculosis in the three State prisons has fallen remark-ably.

The death rate in 1891, for instance for the prisons of Sing Sing, Auburn and Clinton was seventy-six, and the death rate fifteen years later, in 1906, was only seven out of a population of 3,466. In the last three years the death rate has advanced slightly, but in 1909 was only eighteen in a population of 4,

In most prisons, and particularly in the lesser corectional institutions, an enormous amount of preventive work re mains to be done. The National Asso ciation for Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis estimates that there are in the State, Federal and local prisons and iails of the United States 12,000 tuberculosis prisoners, and that on the aver age about 15 per cent. of the prison pop ulation of the country is affected with this dread disease.

Only twenty one prisons in fifteen States and Territories have provided special places for the treatment of their tuberculosis prisoners and these have acommodations for only 800 patients.
