We have in Samuel another choses essel, sent in answer to a mother's orayer and prepared for the preserva-ion of Israel and the promotion of codliness. The service of the sanctury had become an occasion of sin by he covetousness, violence and licen-jousness of the sons of Eli the Priest and Judge. If the religious centre was so corrupted what must the circumference have been, for the teaching and spiritual communication of God to Israel had almost ceased. "The word of the Lord was precious," San uel was 12 years old, the age at which young Jew became confirmed, when God revealed Himself to this youthful prophet. Although poor old Eli was not in fellowship with God he could direct young Samuel aright. Do as I say, not as I do-"Having a form of godliness without the power." The young need spiritual instruction by parents and pastors. Samuel received , although it was a dark time spiritually, 1st Tim., 3, 1-6. the old sailing days on Lake Ontario are recalled to Capt. George Stringer of Chatham, by an item republished from the Globe of 50 years ago the issue of November 15th last, in which it told how the schooner Albion and the brig Eberts had gone ashore in the bay. Captain Stringer was on the Eberts at the time and remem-bers the incident perfectly. Although he is now 88 years of age, the cap tain's memory goes back very vividly

Captain Stringer's maritime ex-perience dates as far back as 1831, when he shipped on the schooner Duke of York. Later in 1832 he shipped on the William IV., and afterwards on the schooner Prescott. When the side-wheel steamer John Boy ran a packet service from Little York to Hamilton in 1833 Captain Stringer ran on her. Here is another incident of his career: "I was on her on the way to York in a stong east gale, and the steamer lost headway near the Humber and fell round in the trough of the sea. She wallowed back to the west of the River Credit and thumped up close to shore and shipped a sea inside. The passengers all got ashore safely
