

The concert by the great Dresden Orchestra, from Germany, at the Grand Opera House to-morrow afternoon, will commence at 2.15 sharp. The orchestra will be assisted by Germaine Schuitzer, the brilliant Viennese pianist, and Mme. Macouda, the American prima donna. The latter has appeared in concert at the Metropolitan Opera House and at the production of "Venice" at Madison Square Garden; she has also been the soloist at the Maine and Worcester festivals, and with the Thomas orchestra on its western tour last season. Madame Macouda has sung before all the principal clubs and musical organizations of the United States, and has been accorded honors and praises allotted to few. Perhaps her unique position in the firmament of brilliant stars, can be attested to the incessant demands for appearances and the fact that she has sung repeatedly, season after season, before the most prominent musical societies of our country.

There will be 200 rush seats at 50 cents each on sale at the box office. The programme will be as follows:

Orchestra.
Concerto in E Flat Major Liszt
Allegretto vivace
Quasi adagio

AT BENNETT'S THEATRE.

In the merry hedge-podge of bright entertainment offered at the Bennett house this week one number, which for novelty and cleverness, will impress itself upon every theatre-goer, is the offering of Bernardi, who styles himself the pretentious character in a comedy sketch and do it with such rapidity that the movement and development of the plot does not lag for a minute, in the vernacular is "going home." Bernardi does that and more. He steps down into the orchestra pit and with the astounding dexterity of a wizard impersonates many celebrated musicians and composers. As a pleasant surprise he returns to the stage and shows how his lightning changes are made. In a little comedy he presents, transparent curtains are used and through these one can see Bernardi's assistants making the clothes fly while he is behind the scenes. Almost any act on the bill will repay one for a visit to the vaudeville house. Particularly is this true of Barry and Wolford, "The Town Topic Tickle Talkers," who have been tickling the Bennett patrons with their bright comedy, clever parodies and really excellent singing. Tom Lewis and company, in a bright sketch and a number of other pleasing attractions, make up the bill.

THE ORPHANS' FESTIVAL.

It will be gratifying to the many hundreds of Hamilton people, who, year after year, patronize the Orphan's Festival, to know that the programme this year will compare favorably, if it does not excel, any entertainment given in the last fifty-five years, in aid of this very worthy charity. The management have gone far afield to secure the best talent available, and in the Village Singers, the principal attraction, they will present one of the finest singing organizations appearing before the American public to-day. This clever company of selected vocalists sing many of the old songs of long ago and correctly interpret them. For several seasons the organization has been greeted with remarkable enthusiasm at many of the big society functions in Boston, New York and Washington, and their services are always in demand as Narragansett rier and other fashionable resorts of note. The addition of Miss Anna Florence Smith, soprano, reader and pianist to the company this season, has greatly strengthened it.

The large advance sale of tickets this year indicates that the rush at the box office when the reserved seat plan opens on Tuesday morning next, will establish a record.

"THE LAND OF NOD."

A beautiful production of musical comedy and extravaganza will occupy the stage of the Grand Friday night, when "The Land of Nod" will be presented. This is one of those organizations which are characterized by a plenitude of comedians, singers and dancers, and numerous chorus and ballet and in which scenery, costumes and effects are lavishly displayed. "The Land of Nod" has unique character creations, such as "The Man in the Moon," "Welsh Rarebit," "Sandman," "April Fool," "King and Queen of Hearts" and similar unusual personages. The locale in which they move is only encountered in tales of fairland and in Arabian Nights. It is clever and interesting and its comedy is wholesome and good. The musical score contains plenty of the jingling, catchy sort of composition which enlivens and satisfies.

AT THE SAVOY.

This week's Savoy bill, "The Prisoner of Zenda," admirably fulfills the double mission of the stage. It amuses and uplifts. It is the finest and most magnificent drama presented in the city this season. Capital acting in every part down to the smallest, a lavishness of production that puts all other plays in the shade, costumes that give it atmosphere and color, and a strikingly original effects, round out the production. Saturday will be the last appearance of the company, and seats are now selling for the farewell performances, Saturday, April 17. Joseph Selman is seen to advantage in the dual roles of Rudolf Fifth, and a Keesendell. By many, this is considered his best work of the season. He has youth, a beautiful voice, and all the qualities that go to make the popular hero of romance. A more beautiful Princess Flavia than Miss Rose Curry presents could scarcely be imagined.

THE KNEISSEL QUARTETTE.

What promises to be one of the most representative musical ensembles that has ever filled Association Hall will welcome that great string quartette, the Kneissel, on the evening of Monday, April 25. This quartette has acquired a national reputation for string quartette playing, which is enviable, is a matter easily understood when their work is considered and listened to. This is what that most exacting of critics, Richard Aldrich, has to say of their recent performance in New York:

"An event of the first importance to lovers of music is the return of the Kneissel Quartette, which gave its first concert last evening in Mendelssohn Hall before a large and distinguished audience. When the quartette appeared on the stage there was round about of applause, and the four men had to bow in response several times before they were permitted to play. The quartette has never played better. There was the same perfect ensemble that has been observable in the past, the same precision of attack, the same delicacy in shading and phrasing. In fact, such perfect playing as this quartette is capable of should be held up as the ideal for all quartettes."

"THE CHOIR SINGER."

"The Choir Singer" will be the attraction at the Grand next Saturday, seats for which go on sale to-morrow morning. The story, which is well known to most patrons of the popular price drama, tells of a young girl in a Virginia village, who, after singing in the village choir for several years, falls in love with the young minister. All does not run smoothly, and she goes to New York to seek fame on the stage. The comedy element is much in evidence throughout the play, quaint rural characters mingling with eccentric types of metropolitan life, with the result that numerous laugh provoking situations are naturally led up to.

MISS EDITH MILLER.

Edith Miller, the great Canadian contralto, returns to her native land fresh from her wonderful triumphs in Europe, where she has been for the past few years. She gave her farewell recital in London on the 19th of March, which was under the immediate patronage of H. R. H. the Prince and Princess of Wales, His Grace the Duke of Argyll and many other people of note. The measure of her success and popularity on this occasion may be estimated in recording the fact that she was recalled eleven times, a demonstration of approval which she acknowledged by giving two extra numbers.

Miss Miller gave her first Canadian concert in Halifax, and on April 23 she will appear at Montreal. She will be heard in Toronto on the 26th, and the following night in Hamilton.

ITALIAN GRAND OPERA.

The selection of Verdi's opera, "Aida," for presentation by the Italian Grand Opera Company, here, at the Grand next Monday night, seems to be most popular, judging by the subscription list. The artists who will appear in the cast are Mme. L. Bertossi, Miss G. Strauss, Mlle. Bossi, Signors N. Bari, A. Arcangeli, G. Gracini, A. Oteri and A. Guilianni. The list for subscribers will remain open until Thursday, and the sale will open on Friday morning to the public, after the subscribers' orders have been filed.

MR. FAVERSHAM'S ENGAGEMENT.

William Faversham will present "The World and His Wife," the most important dramatic success of the season, at the Grand to-morrow week. In New York Mr. Faversham achieved a very great success at Daly's Theatre. It was generally recognized that Mr. Faversham has brought back to Mr. Daly's famous playhouse the prestige it had enjoyed in its best days. William Winter, one of Mr. Daly's warmest friends and greatest admirers, was one of the first to recognize in Mr. Faversham a new and important power in the theatre of our day. Fashionable audiences visited Daly's Theatre nightly during his long stay there. When seen here Mr. Faversham was hailed as a new star, and the company that supported him in New York.

"MIKADO" REHEARSAL.

The work by the principals and chorus of the "Mikado" is going on splendidly, and there is no doubt that the performance on May 6, 7 and 8 will be quite up to the standard of the professional show. Last night Dr. Harris assembled the whole company to go through the music, and it must have been pleasing to him to hear the singers handle the score. The chorus is well balanced, while the principals have all had more or less experience in such work, with the result that everything is in readiness for the stage director, who will be here in less than two weeks' time.

MRS. DUNN'S RECITAL.

Mrs. Sydney Dunn gave her final recital for the season last evening in the conservatory of Miss before a large and interested audience. It was a continuation of the last recital, when Mrs. Dunn gave the first portion of her reading of Charles Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities." Mrs. Dunn read her work in her usual captivating manner. Three fourths of her recital consisted of piano numbers with artistic interpretation.

Cures Children's Croupy Colds.

At this season of cold, searching winds and changeable weather, children will catch cold, will contract croup, bronchitis and sore throat. The experienced mother knows of nothing half so good as a vigorous rubbing of neck and chest with Nerviline Porous Plaster. If the case is obstinate, give twenty drops of Nerviline in hot sweetened water every four hours.

This treatment is simply wonderful—swollen, inflamed tissues are soothed and healed, coughing is promptly allayed, hard, strong phlegm is loosened and every trace of cold and cough disappears.

Nerviline is so safe to use, so powerful, so penetrating—makes such a good all round household remedy that for nearly fifty years thousands of bottles are used every day.

AN ENGLISHMAN MURDERED.

Killed by Workmen in a St. Petersburg Factory.

St. Petersburg, April 13.—Max Johnston, the foreman of a big English factory in St. Petersburg, was murdered yesterday by men in his employ. The workmen were dissatisfied with the Easter gratuities given them by Johnston. They pinned him to the ground with a heavy bobbin and beat him to death with ropes.

IF A MAN GETS DRUNK.

Wife May Draw His Pay for a Year, Rules McKeesport's Mayor.

New York, April 13.—A despatch to The Tribune from McKeesport, Pa., says: Harry S. Arthur, McKeesport's thirty-year-old Mayor, who also is a police magistrate, ruled to-day that any man found drunk and brought before him must sign papers permitting his wife to draw his salary for one year from date. A six months' sentence in the workhouse will be the alternative.

If a "drunk" has no wife his next of kin will draw his wages, being the intention of the new Mayor to name, if possible, the drunken men of McKeesport into sobriety.

Give a blind beggar a dime and the chances are he will go right off and get an eye opener.

ON BOOKS AND READING.

Mr. T. C. Robinette, K. C., Before the Fireside Club.

The fourth monthly luncheon of the Fireside Club of Centenary Church was held last evening in the church banquet hall and it proved, beyond expectations, the most successful and largely attended yet. About one hundred and fifty gentlemen, prominent in commercial and professional life, were present and made an imposing sight as they sat at the long and abundantly laden tables.

The affair last evening was the closing one for the season, and really took the place of the club's annual banquet. Nearly all the young men's societies were represented, but the only speaker of the evening was T. C. Robinette, K. C., of Toronto, one of Canada's noted criminal lawyers.

The Fireside Club, since the introduction of the luncheon idea, has been very fortunate in securing distinguished speakers, being addressed only recently by the Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, and the Rev. Rabbi Levy, the celebrated Jewish divine, of Pittsburg, Pa.

President Norman Meade was chairman last evening and introduced the speaker, Mr. Robinette. In a few well chosen remarks Mr. Meade brospoke for him a hearty welcome, which was warmly accorded on the mention of his name. Seated with the chairman and speaker were about one dozen of Hamilton's legal profession and many of the trustees of the church. During the evening Mr. Robinette was supplied by Caterer Crawford, Ostler's orchestra rendered excellent music while Fred Griffith and Ralph C. Ripley had charge of a big staff of young lady attendants.

The subject as given out several weeks ago for the address last night was "Criminal Reform and Police Court Life," but Mr. Robinette decided to change for a more sublime and gave as the subject of his talk, "Books and Reading." Many of the younger members were eager for accounts of the speaker's work in connection with crime and criminals. In explaining why he did not lecture on "Prison Reform and Police Court Life," he said it required an egotist to foretell personal experiences. He remarked that he had been reading Col. Denison's book and found it abounded in the letter "L." It was full of delightful touches such as the Colonel's explanation of how he preferred to remain as a protection to the rear guard of some of the world's great men.

On motion of School Inspector J. H. Smith and Dr. Crawford a vote of thanks was tendered the speaker and the gathering immediately dispersed.

SEED TIME.

Labor and pray, and thou shalt gain A help in need, a strength in pain. Thus saith God's word, but let us pause For all earth's varied clime and time. We wait the Father hath decreed Fulfill, and hopeful sow the seed.

It lies embosomed in the field: Oh, come to act as a sowing seed. Father, Thy loving hand we trust, With spirit soaring from the dust: Crown Thou our hopes and diligence; Blessings in harvest-tide dispense.

This crave we for the Saviour's sake; Thy glory, grace, may we partake! In Christ Thou, Father, gavest peace; And heaven's rapture and release; But while we wait for things above, Earth pours the treasures of Thy love.

—Hymns of Denmark.

My soul thirsteth for God, for the living God; when shall I come and appear before God?—Psalm xlii. 2.

Life, strong and sound life—that life which lends approaches to the Infinite and takes hold on heaven—is not so much a progress as it is a resistance.—North British Review.

Oh, Christ—He is the fountain, The deep, sweet well of love! The streams on earth I've tasted, More deep I'll drink above; There to an ocean fullness His mercy doth expand, And glory, glory dwellth In Immanuel's Land.

—Samuel Rutherford.

After an illness of a few days, Mrs. John Macdonald, widow of the late Senator Macdonald, of "Oaklands," died suddenly early yesterday morning at the residence, 138 Balmoral avenue, Toronto. Death was due to an attack of bronchial pneumonia.

A man is never too old to learn that there are certain things it is better to forget.

THE PANIC-MONGER.

Generally an Out-of-Office Partisan Trading on Ignorance.

(Sheffield, Eng., Independent, March 18.)

There is a certain type of Tory paper which seems to know no political honesty and no sense of proportion in dealing with a grave situation of the present kind. And some journals lost their heads and muddled their statisticians yesterday in a fashion complimentary neither to their intelligence nor their sincerity. But even assuming the cry of panic to be altogether honest, if misguided, it is a weak and insulting view they take of the national spirit, and of the ship-building capacity of the firms involved, to assume, as it pleases them to do, that we do not possess resources to maintain the margin of safety on the seas. There is no bigger and more miserably-minded Little Englander on the face of the globe than the Tory pessimist who elevates panic into a gospel of positive despair.

Hectic figures of the number of Dreadnoughts in the German fleet, based on Mr. Balfour's stupid method of adding four ships twice over, are of no use in a problem of this importance. In the Dreadnought yesterday the Secretary for the Navy denied any such spurt as would give Germany seventeen of such ships in 1912—a flat repudiation of the Balfour estimate. Laying down only the first four ships, we should be at 16 to 13; on eight new Dreadnoughts, as 20 to 13.

While it is incumbent for the present to keep our eyes fixed on Dreadnoughts, let it not be forgotten that fashions in battleships are a fickle quantity. The type may be superseded by the time 1912 is reached. Furthermore, Dreadnoughts are not the only ships. We have an immense superiority in other ships of our fleet in being, and behind that is the mercantile marine—a most important factor in estimating the contingency of war or invasion. Last night, Mr. Asquith was emphatic on the sufficiency of our two power strength in 1912.

But if it is only a question of turning out Dreadnoughts, the 17 ships Germany will soon possess (14 already and 3 in early prospect)—does not compare with the number in this country. Mr. McKenna last night gave 17 as the present minimum, with others available on notice to private firms. One of the scare-mongering journals gave the capacity of British yards as no less than 50—He is refuting his own panic preaching. Thanks to the fact that we can build more cheaply as well as more quickly than our rivals, it is one of the deadliest objections to tariff "reform" that it would sacrifice our imperial advantages in that respect by making raw materials dearer and the cost of manufacture again.

Tory party is the "Perish England" party. Foremost among the private yards capable of meeting the Admiralty's need for cheap, efficient, and speedy building are our Sheffield firms. For these firms have the right to expect a share of orders proportionate, at the least, to the plant laid down according to the Government requisitions. Beyond that the bounden obligation is to stand loyally in with national necessity as fixed by the Cabinet, no more and no less.

OWNERSHIP LIGHTS.

Cost Unknown in Detroit but May be as High as $80.

(Detroit News.)

The council committee on public lighting met to-day to consider the estimates of the lighting commission for the ensuing year and before it had gone very far it encountered an item of $6,000 for making a new inventory of the property of the plant. Without much consideration it was cut out and other matters considered. Just before adjournment Commissioner Lynn asked the committee to hear an argument on the allowance and call on Commissioner Hinckman to address the committee.

"The lighting commission," said Hinckman, "refrained this year from making an estimate of the cost of lighting per are light, because we felt that we did not know what it is costing and we are unwilling to go on placing the cost at $22 or $33 a light, as we have done in the past, because the truth is we would not know whether we were telling the truth or not."

"For thirteen years we have gone on estimating the cost of lights on the basis of original cost of the plant and extensions, allowing 3 per cent. for depreciation. If a man had a hat for 23 years, he would hardly figure its value by calculating that it depreciated at the rate of 3 per cent. We don't know whether we have anything or not and we want an expert to take hold of the books and the plant and tell us what we have."

DON'T KNOW COST OF LIGHTS.

"This is not the result of any anti-municipal ownership criticism, but we feel that as business men we ought to take an account of what property there is in the plant and what it is worth. A little while ago we figured that we had the finest pole system in the country, but we went out one day and discovered that it would cost us $20,000 to bring our poles and lines up to the point where we thought they were. Nobody knows really what our lights are costing us, and if we took account of all the items we might discover that instead of $32 a light the lights are really costing us $70 or $80."

Charles Young, who had his arm torn out of its socket when his hand was caught in the belt of the Maple Leaf harvest tool works in Tillsonburg, has died from his injuries.
