How They Loved Each Other;
— or —
Then and Now.

The Daily Star, March 24, 1919:

We believe that, properly handled and placed under sane, competent management, the F.P.U. would accomplish for the fishermen of this country as much good as it is doing the moneyed few of the fishing classes; certainly it would confer on our toilers of the sea a greater amount of general good than it is doing to-day. The F.P.U. now is under the personal dictatorship of Mr. W. F. Coaker. He has used the organization for his own personal and political ends. He has departed from the straight path of duty he embarked upon at the start and to-day he is without the respect and confidence of those who were formerly his most active supporters. Evidence abounds at the present that the union is once more to be used for the benefit of the same men who were denounced by Mr. Coaker as "the greatest enemies the fishermen of this country ever had" and because this paper knows that such a campaign of deceit is about to be instituted it warns the fishermen of the dictatorial powers now exercised by Mr. Coaker.

In some respects the STAR is "a destructionist." It aims at the overthrow of the system of Coakerism which thrives on the ignorance of those who permit themselves to be hoodwinked and led astray by an insincere and double dealing politician.

The Advocate, April 30, 1919:

The Star's one aim of abusing Coaker was forgotten when Hon. R. A. Squires was a member of the National Government, and when he was eagerly negotiating for a seat in a Union District. He had nothing to say against Coaker then. His rage in the early days of 1918, against Coaker, when he "jumped" from the Government into political darkness, is equalled to-day when he finds himself a political "outcast," who can find no party to take him in. "Chickens come home to roost," and no one could act as Mr. Squires did in his political fight against Mr. Gushue, whom all respect, and expect ever to succeed, without making drastic amends. It is said that Mr. Squires' tactics are still the same; his erstwhile associates acknowledge it and say that his boyhood's resolve to "get on, whatever the cost" is with him still. If so, it is a tragedy.

UNION MEN!

Your present leader has associated himself with the little clique of men who control the Star, the same paper that said you were, IN YOUR IGNORANCE, HOODWINKED and LED ASTRAY BY COAKER. Isn't that a compliment to your intelligence? When Coaker asks you to vote for the Liberal - Reform Party, what will your answer be? Will it not be, NO! NEVER.

Sunkist Orange
Marmalade.

Sunkist Orange Marmalade is a so-called sweet marmalade, but distinctively individual in its sweetness. It provides the flavor that most people who nourish a sweet-tooth probably will prefer.

The citric acid of the orange tempers the sweetness and imparts the tang that distinguishes real marmalade from the usual preserves and other marmalades.

Everyone, who likes preserves of any kind will be delighted with this luscious marmalade.

Sunkist Grapefruit
Marmalade.

For the lovers of "bitter" marmalade our Scotch connoisseur-cook makes a limited quantity of Sunkist Grapefruit Marmalade after a special recipe which she brought from Scotland.

Sunkist Grapefruit Marmalade has that piquant tang that the connoisseur always seeks in marmalade.

Sunkist Orange Jelly.

Sunkist Orange Jelly is distinguished from ordinary jelly by a very delicate tang combined with the full flavor of fresh-picked oranges.

It is a stiff, clear jelly of beautiful, natural color. It contains oranges, lemons, water and pure sugar. Nothing else is added.

This jelly is also characterized by the real "home taste." You will want to serve it often.
