The letter stated that the petition complained of was presented with a view to prejudice the legislature against the company. The letter stated that the protection of the feasibility of sending such patients back to their own parishes in the United Kingdom was one worthy of serious consideration. There were nine deaths during the year, but no suicides. Several patients tried to escape, but were retaken. A padded room was now almost completed. The monthly cost per head last year was $35.80 or 87 cents less than in 1895. The total expenditure for the year was $34,065.80; $3,741 was received from paying patients.
