WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Christ Before Pilate

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 1, Christ Before Pilate: The Trial of Jesus.—Matthew xxvii, 11-26.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

Jesus stood on trial before Pilate, but it was Pilate who was really being tried. He who posed as judge had stood condemned throughout the ages. History has been full of such strange reversals of judgment.

The despised prophet, stoned or disregarded in his own generation, has frequently been the chief occasion for the world to remember that generation. Though the Christian movement had not gathered great external strength when Paul wrote the words, he was a true seer when he wrote of God choosing "the weak things of this world to confound the things that are mighty, and the things that are naught to bring to naught the things that are." Pilate regarded Jesus with the not-unkindly contempt which the man of ambition, and power, and success, has for the impractical man, the dreamer and visionary.

There is no indication of venom, or of hatred, or even of prejudice and antagonism. If there is any prejudice, it seems more against the accusers of Jesus whose fanaticism and rabid intolerance Pilate seemed to regard with scorn.

There is evidence in the narrative that Pilate, assuming at first toward Jesus an attitude of amused and careless contempt, ended by assuming a measure of respect and fear. He discovered that he had before him no vulgar and ordinary dreamer.

WHAT IS TRUTH?

There was the calm dignity of a king in this Galilean carpenter, and when Pilate asked him, apparently teasingly, "Art thou a king then?" he was hardly prepared for the answer.

"Thou sayest that I am a king. To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth."

The cynical retort, "What is truth?" was the reply of a man on the defensive, weak and doubtful in the presence of a man of calm assurance and conviction.

What we ought to realize is that Pilate was as much responsible for the death of Jesus as Judas, who betrayed him, or the Jews who demanded his death, or the soldiers who actually crucified him.

The sin of Pilate—the sin of a weak imperativeness in relation to moral and spiritual issues, the sin of cynical self-satisfaction and worldly conservatism, the sin of a worldly ambition which flouts all spiritual considerations and questions of truth—much more widely prevalent than the sin of Judas, but it is no less deadly in its consequences.

What is our verdict? Does he fare better before us than he fared before Pilate? Do we state that we "find no fault in him," but none the less send him away as Pilate did?

KNEW HE LIED.

Pilate took water and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, "I am innocent of the blood of this just person."

FAVORITE HYMNS

"JUST AS I AM."

The late Rev. G. H. Jowett, D. D., said that if all physical suffering could be banished from the world, it might not be the unimpaired blessing which many think, because so many of the world's greatest singers have been invalids. Miss Charlotte Elliott, the author of the deservedly popular hymn, "Just as I Am," was an invalid all her life and it was true in her case that the "anguish of the singer made the sweetness of her song."

She was born in London, England, on March 18, 1792. When she was 22 years of age she removed to Brighton, where she died at the advanced age of 82. Her parents formed the center of an influential religious circle at both these places, and her two brothers became clergymen of considerable influence.

In 1836 Charlotte Elliott became the editor of The Christian Remembrancer, a publication largely made up of daily texts and carefully chosen selections for devotional purposes. It was in this little publication that "Just as I Am" first appeared. Rev. Dr. Moule, Bishop of Durham, and a relative of the family, tells the circumstances under which the hymn came to be written.

One day members of the family were going off to a bazaar in which they were keenly interested and for which they had all been actively working. Because of her home sickness she was unable to go, and seemed to be more than usually depressed by her weakened physical condition. When alone she wrote for her comfort this hymn, which is now known the world over. She was suffering at the time more than usual physical pain, but when her sister-in-law returned from the bazaar, Charlotte read to her the hymn. Soon after it was published in leaflet form by a lady who admired it greatly, and on one occasion Charlotte Elliott's physician, who did not know who the author was, brought her a copy because he considered it such an excellent piece of work.

The hymn bears witness to the mental and spiritual conflict through which Charlotte passed. Here was a day of bitter religious controversy and for a time her own faith was shaken. This temper is revealed in the third stanza: "Just as I am, though tossed about, With many a conflict, many a doubt, Fightings and fears within, without, O Lamb of God, I come!"

Charlotte Elliott wrote about 150 hymns; among some of the best known of which are: "Christian, Seek Not Yet Release," "My God, My Father, Whither I Stray," "Let Me Be With Thee, Where Thou Art."

After the author's death more than 1,000 letters of deep appreciation of the hymns were found among her papers. The famous evangelist, Dwight L. Moody, was of the opinion that no hymn had touched so many hearts as "Just as I Am." Rev. H. V. Elliott, who was an unusually able clergyman, said that his sister's hymn had done much more good than all the sermons he had preached during a long ministry.

WIPE EGGS CLEAN.

Always wipe eggs clean as they come from the market and store them in a cool place.

TEXT: Matthew xxvii, 11 to 26.

And Jesus stood before the governor, and the governor asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jews? And Jesus said unto him, Thou sayest. And when he was accused of the chief priests and elders, he answered nothing.

Then said Pilate unto him, Heardest Thou not how many things they witness against Thee?

And he answered him to never a word; in so much that the governor marvelled greatly.

Now at that feast the governor was wont to release unto the people a prisoner, whom they would.

And they had then a notable prisoner, called Barabbas.

Therefore, when they were gathered together, Pilate said unto them, Whom will ye that I release unto you? Barabbas, or Jesus which is called Christ? For he knew that for envy they had delivered him.

When he was set down on the judgment seat, his wife sent unto him, saying, Have thou nothing to do with this just man; for I have suffered many things this day in a dream because of him.

But the chief priests and elders persuaded the multitude that they should kill Barabbas, and destroy Jesus.

The governor answered and said unto them, Whether of the twain will ye that I release unto you? They said, Barabbas.

Pilate said unto them, What will ye then with Jesus which is called Christ? They all say unto him, Let him be crucified.

And the governor said, Why, what evil hath he done? But they cried out, saying, He would not obey the Jews, but he said, I am the Son of God.

When Pilate saw that he could prevail nothing, but that rather a tumult was made, he took water, and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this just person; see ye to it.

Then answered all the people, and said, His blood be on us, and on our children.

Then released he Barabbas unto them; and when he was scourged Jesus, he delivered him to be crucified.

But he knew that he lied. No ceremonial can cleanse the guilt of a man who has consented to wrong, by not doing what is in his power to prevent it.

It is easy to say that Pilate was a coward, but it is more important to discover the things that made him a coward.

What were they? Vanity, ambition, lust of preferment and power, cynicism, and the failure to find any law of justice and right and service.

There have been many, but there is only one Jesus of Nazareth. They have been seemingly triumphant, but the world is strewn with the wreck of their rule and empire, while the King of Truth still goes forth conquering and to conquer.

True Tales From Bible Books

Dear Little Friends: We are going to change our tactics to-day and, instead of having a story we are going to follow the example of our ministers and speak from a text. I have seen some little boys and girls who think that the announcing of a text is a call to cuddle up to mother and go to sleep. Now, I do not want you to start yawning as soon as I announce my text to you. I will try to make my sermon as interesting as possible and, anyway, it can't last very long, for my space is limited. I am going to talk about names, and I want to prove to you that sometimes, at least, there is a great deal in a name. The Lord Jesus Christ has many names; many more than any of you have, and they all mean different things. You were probably given the name you bear because your mother and dad particularly liked it or because some relative who was dearly loved bore that name. The names of the Lord Jesus each show a different characteristic of His lovely person.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

The text is a very familiar one to most of you. It talks about two things—a wage and a gift. A wage and a gift are two very different things. My smallest son knows that you have to work for wages and that you get a gift for nothing. I think, too, that all my readers would agree that to receive a gift is a much more pleasant pleasure. As a general rule wages are given without any special show of affection, but on the same principle gifts are usually sent with the love of the sender. Now, God stands near you with wages in one hand and a love, which he offers to you, in the other. He is the Father of the one or the other from Him. Because you have sinned, you have earned the wages of sin, which is death, and God is too just to let you work without giving you the wages. The death wages are your due and it means that after you die physically you will be banished from the presence of God for ever and ever. On the other hand He offers you a gift and with it goes the love of His heart. It is a costly gift. It cost God the giving up of His dearly loved Son, and it cost the Son, Jesus Christ our Lord, His life-blood. Because it is free to you you need not think it cheap.

There was not other good enough to pay the price of sin. He only could unlock the gate of heaven and let us in.

The gift is eternal life and if you will take it in preference to the wages that you have earned, God will give it now. Remember, however, that you must take one or the other. Would it not be infinitely better to take the gift, with all the love of God included, than just to take the wages that you have earned by your own wrong doing? For a few minutes I am going to answer my little question, "What's in a Name?" Listen while I tell you. If you are going to accept this gift it is only fair that you should know something of its value, the attributes which go to make it up, and the authority of the Giver. The gift is the love which through "Jesus Christ our Lord," who is He and why should the fact that it is through Him affect your taking the gift?

First of all, we will deal with the name "Jesus." The name Jesus means "Saviour," and the gift is for your taking because the giver is your Saviour. When He first came into this

The last of these three names of His is "Lord." In reality He is lord of heaven and earth. His dominion is from sea to sea and some day He will reign therein. There is another sense, however, that He would be Lord. He wants you to accept the gift of eternal life that He offers and He wants you to do it now. He does not promise to offer the gift to-morrow, and truly it would be a dreadful gift to miss, especially as you must take either the gift or the wages. Well, if you take this gift He asks to be Lord of your life and actions. He wants to be to you your Saviour, your God and the Lord of your very being. Let us review. Got the Father offers you the gift of eternal life or the wages of sin. You must take one or the other. The wages are merely your due; the gift is offered with all the love of His heart. The wonderful gift is offered through the Saviour, the Son and the Lord. The question is, which will you have? Accept the gift to-day. To-morrow may be too late.

To-morrow has no promise that it may give to you.

To-morrow is eternity, just hidden from your view.

Your own,

STORY GUY.

FAMOUS NILE PILLAR SUBSIDING INTO MUD

Anxiety for Fear Curious Relic of Antiquity May Be Lost.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—Anxiety has been caused by the possible loss of a curious relic of the past in the shape of the famous Nilemeter in old Cairo. The instrument is subsiding into the mud. A committee is at work trying to save this monument of unknown antiquity.

The Nilemeter consists of a pillar with graduated markings indicating the height of water in the river. The pillar stands in a well which communicates with the Nile. In ancient times if the water reached only the 12 cubits mark (a cubit was 18 inches) it meant famine for Egypt. If it touched 13 cubits it spelled scarcity, and 15 safely, but if the 16 cubits mark were reached there would be a year of plenty. Some authorities place the date of the building of the Nilemeter at 718 A. D. Inscriptions on it refer to restoration in the third century. In ancient times the rate of taxation was determined in accordance with the height of the water.
