Number 47.

Gentlemen of the House of Assembly,-In compliance with the injunction of His discredit of the ricious Constitution Majesty I have again to recommend to your has been appointed to maintain? attention the estimates for the current year and also the accounts showing the arreats. due in respect of the civil Government, which were laid before you during the last Session. The King has observed that you were induced, in that Session, to grant the supplies on-ly for six months, and to prefer the complaints ly for six months, and diverse, apparently in the other, supported by that is bad,) remains consequence of the publication of a few de-tached passages from the instructions to which I have alluded, and of inferances drawn from them, which a knowledge of their entire contenis must be expected to remove. Ilis Ma. esty therefore thinks it but just that you should not be held to be committed to a course adopted under a misconception, but should have an opportunity of re-considering your conclusions with the full information as to the views and intentions of His Government, which you will derive from a perusal of the whole of the discuments to be laid before you; and he trusts that upon your becoming acquainted with their generel tenor and spirit, you will accede to the application which I made to you at the commencement of the last Session, and which I am commanded now to renew, for payment of the arrears due on account of the public Service, and for the funds acessary to carry on the civil government of Province. That the business of Government cannot be carried on successfully whilst the salaries gislative Body. of the public servants remain unpaid, is too obvious I hope to leave room for a suspicion on the min ! of any one that in making this renewed demand for the liquidation of these ast claims, either Ilis Majesty's Ministers in England, or I who bear His delegated authority in this Province can have any object in view separate from the public good. Gentlemen of the Legislative Council, Gentlemen of the House of Assembly. As it is meeting of the Legislature has been onvened for the purposes 1 have already menened, and as a prolonged absence from your homes at this particular season of the year may be attended with inconvenience to you it is not my present intention to recommend tionals. any other matters to your consideration. It then presumes to know what were His Excellency's motives for not calling their atcention to other matters; makes him pay a compliament to the gealous labours of the House for the good of the country in the long Session of last winter, "to the great discredit of the ricious Constitution which it

The address then makes His Excellency and the authorities of the mother country declare, that they are "convinced" that all attempts at minor reforms must be fruitless, while the assembly, on the one hand, "supported by the mass of the Canadian people of all origins," and the Legislative Council on the other, supported by a part of the people. irreconcileable, and the House concludes that His Majesty's Government has pronounced between the two "in a way "conformable to our humble prayers." In that case, they inform It is Excellency, that His "caution, torbearance, and liberal policy" cannot fail to have their effect. The rest of the address assures His Excellency that the House is pursuaded that he is "sincere" in his declarations and notwithstanding their conviction; as before expressed the House thinks it necessary to warn him against trusting to minor reforms; but begs him to become the "bienf aiteur perpetuel" of the country, by aiding to his utmost, in obtaining the changes asked for by the House and 'the people ;" particularly, in the Legislative Council.

Such is the address ; and such the fruits of conciliation and indecision. A more un-parliamentary, undignified, and disingenuous document, has rarely issued from a Le-
