INTERESTING DIS-COURSE OF CRIME

Ablly Brought Out By Rev. A. J. Prosser, Pastor of the Bridgetown Baptist Church.

Rev. A. J. Prosser gave a strong discourse on Sunday evening on Law observance. He gave many interesting figures showing the great increase in crime in the cities of the United States which illustrated most forcibly the alarming increase of lawlessness. He spoke strongly against the activities of the I. W. W. and of the Ku Klux Klan.

He also referred to matters more local with special references to gambling in its various forms which he stated was allowed, permitted or carried on by even members and officials of church organizations in town, his own church not excepted.

The N. S. T. A. he pronounced a farce bootlegging and the manufacture of home brews was all too prevalent.

There were violations of the Inland Revenue Act, the Children's Protection Act, etc. Officials were blamed for these things and while blame very frequently did attach to them, the public, the people as a whole, must also share in the blame. Bootlegger and vendors of unlawful drinks generally have been arrested, fined and given their liberty to raise the money. This gave them a chance to skip out of which they availed themselves and very possibly started up the same business elsewhere.

CHILDREN'S DAY OBSERVANCE IN ST. JAMES' CHURCH

As announced in our last issue, Sunday, Oct. 21st, was observed as "Children's Day", by the Anglican Communion throughout this Dominion.

In St. James' Church the 11 a.m. service was under the auspices of the Sunday School and a large number of children were in attendance, entering heartily into it.

For the instruction of the children the Rector took the subject of Worship as a part of our duty toward God, making the following Acrostic of the word:—

The Worship of God must be Worthy.
Orderly.
Reverent.
Sincere.
Humble.
Intelligent.
Persevering.

A similar service was held in St. Mary's, Belleisle, in the afternoon.

In the evening the subject of the sermon was "The Need of the Hour". Having his discourse on 1 Chronicles 29:5 (latter part) Mr. Underwood stated this to be—Whole-souled devotion to God and His service on the part of all who name the Name of Christ. Recalling the day and taking the home as the foundation of society there must be, he said, consecration on the part of parents if children are to be brought up in the love and nurture of God.

These advertising to the language of the God's prayer as having for its background home relationships, he asked—"I wonder how many fathers realize from the very fact that the child, when taught to pray, is taught to say "Our Father", he necessarily gets his ideas of God colored by what he sees in the life, and hears in the conversation, or his earthly father, or he draws a contrast and eventually comes to the conclusion that his father has fallen very far short."

Taking the home of Joseph and Mary at Nazareth as a model, because in it "Jesus increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man," (Luke 2:52) there must have been positive and definite religious teaching by both example and precept. This is evident from the fact that Jesus was ever ready with the word of God, which He must have learnt in His youth; also because when He again came to Nazareth, where He had been brought up, He went as His custom was, into the Synagogue on the Sabbath day. The explanation of this is that Joseph and Mary realized their responsibility before God for the whole child.

Emphasizing the potency of example over and above precept, especially as regards public worship, the speaker adapted the comment of an early writer on verse 6 of Psalm 95, and quoted as follows: "If it be so that one 'COME, LET US' goes further than twenty times go and do, how careful should parents (especially fathers) be that their examples be Jacob's ladders to help their children to Heaven, not stumbling blocks to lie in their way, and make them sin."

There is a Christian view of marriage, and there is a Christian view of parentage, which those must deliberately adopt who would have their homes fulfill their proper function toward God and man. This will involve the joint complete surrender of anything and everything incompatible with the end in view.

This is what consecration means, and inasmuch as the home is the foundation of society, and the children of today are the men and women of tomorrow, it is emphatically the need of the hour.

"Who, then, offereth willingly to consecrate himself this day unto the Lord?"

The sermon closed with an appeal for workers in all departments of the church, but especially in the Sunday School, based on the same text.

The service was concluded with the singing of Francis Ridley Havergal's beautiful hymn:—"Take my life, and let it be consecrated, Lord, to Thee."

UNITED CHURCH NOTES

The special preacher and lecturer next Sunday in the Baptist Church and in the United Church at close of the regular evening service is the Rev. Mr. Howe of the Kentville Sanatorium, where he is doing a fine work among the people there. He has been for some years in Japan and his lecture will therefore have many personal touches that will enhance its great value.

NEAR FATALITY IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Car Driven by C. W. Bowly Turns Over at West Parade-- Occupants Injured.

A near fatal auto accident occurred at West Parade on Thursday night when a Ford Sedan driven by Dr. C. W. Bowly, Chloractor, and occupied by Miss Irene Cox, of Middleton, and Miss Ritchie, of Annapolis, attempted to pass another Middleton car, both proceeding home from Annapolis. The scene of the accident was a level stretch of excellent roadway and Bowly passed the other car by running slightly into the narrow ditch but bringing his machine into the road again too sharply it turned over. Miss Cox was most severely injured being unconscious for some time, while Miss Ritchie was painfully bruised and Dr. Bowly received bruises and some cuts. The other car contained two nurses who gave instant attention to the victims. Miss Cox was carried to the next house, W. B. Rymer's, and later removed to Middleton.

AGAINST FILTHY LANGUAGE

The Stipendiary Magistrate of Hamilton, Bermuda, is determined to put a stop to the use of obscene and filthy language on the street. Three youths were recently brought before him, and in convicting them he said: "This sort of thing has got to stop because there is far too much of it. One can hardly walk along the street at the present time, unless he hears a lot of improper language. It may be heard all times of the day and night, and particularly Saturday nights, when there seem to be more people about to hear it. It is my duty to make an example of these cases, so that decent people who are entitled to walk the streets without having to close their ears for fear of hearing filthy language, may do so. In order that others may take heed the sentence of the court is that each of you be imprisoned in Hamilton goal for 10 days at hard labor."

HENRY THE FIRST

Henry Ford owned the first motor car in Detroit. It made a racket and it scared horses. Also it blocked traffic. It left alone even for a minute some inquisitive person always tried to run it. Finally he had to carry a chain and chain it to a lamp post whenever he left it anywhere. And then there was trouble with the police. He got a special permit from the Mayor and thus for a time was the only licensed chauffeur in America. He ran that machine about 1,000 miles through 1895 and 1896, and then sold it to Charles Ainsley of Detroit for $200.

The week-end, the guest of his mother, Mrs. Y. E. Hoyt, and of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elias Messenger.

BURYING APPLES

Novel Method of Keeping Apples For Spring and Early Fall Use.

(By A. Rutledge in The Country Gentleman.)

As in a well-settled rural community I do not know more than a few people who use the following method of keeping apples for Winter and early Spring use, I must conclude that the method is not widely known. If it were it would certainly be adopted, for there is nothing superior to it. The cellar with the dirt floor is a mile behind it. This device can be employed to keep a considerable quantity of apples, but I had in mind just a few bushels for use on the family table.

Select a spot in the garden near a path. Be sure that the place is well drained, preferably on a slight slope. Sink a barrel or a box to a depth to be determined by the number of apples it is to contain, the rule being that the topmost apples in the container should be about eight or ten inches below the level of the ground. In well drained situations I have used receptacles that had bottoms and those that had none—there is no apparent difference—but in the bottom put a little clean straw or hay. If the holder has cracks, tack pieces of pasteboard over them. Some people line the receptacles throughout with paper, but if the holder is clean I have found this is not necessary.

Store only choice apples and lay them in by hand. A spotted apple may affect the whole adjacent group. If tumbled in, many of them, being bruised, will rot. When the container is sufficiently filled, spread loose newspaper over the apples, but don't tuck them down tightly so as to exclude the air. Fit a good top that extends like a roof away from the lips of the container so that rain will be shed. This top need not be tight on the container, but it must not leak. It is well to tack a piece of tin, sheet iron or even oilcloth over it for safety. A stone on top will keep the wind from blowing it off. If the top fits snugly, cut an air-hole near the top of the container, on the south side; this is for ventilation. If the container is not wholly sunk and if the apples are heaped high in it, pile the loose earth about it.

I remember buying a barrel of choice Baldwins in November and sinking the barrel as described; there were nearly used by March. Buying a second barrel then out of cold storage, of the same grade as those purchased first, I found the buried apples far superior in condition. They seem to retain, under this treatment described, their firm consistency and their delicious flavor. Though I have a cellar for storing fruit, I don't know what I should do without a box or a barrel for burying choice apples in the garden.

"SKILLED" HUNTERS

Wednesday morning, Oct. 10th, a number of people of Mulgrave were excited by what they thought was the presence of a moose or deer swimming in the Strait between there and Hastings. They could even distinguish his huge antlers. Accordingly a number of aspiring Nimrods and even some seasoned hunters took up the chase. Long range shots were first tried but availed nothing, although they did cut several electric wires on the posts. The hunters then followed the feeling moose in a boat. They overtook the object of their chase near the Hastings side of the Strait, and to their chagrin found that it was an old tree carried over by the tide and the spreading antlers were branches of the tree.

KILLED DEER AND WILD CAT WITH ONE BULLET

While hunting in the woods near Coal Branch a short distance from the city, Mr. Louis Beers, of Coal Branch, it is reported, shot at a deer and upon approaching the animal he discovered that he had not only killed the keen scented animal but had also mortally wounded with the same bullet, a wild cat which was clonched by the breach of the deer—Moncton Times.
