

of a man again because his skin is red ; but be always sure that the heart of a red man is as good as that of a white man. And when you are in Dundee, where we are all going together, if you do not find your father, as you wish, and are amongst strangers, come to us, wherever we shall be, and you shall not suffer ; and if money is necessary you shall have more."

