

The CATHOLIC CHRONICLE...

DEVOTED TO FOREIGN NEWS

ROME Writing in The Dublin Freeman's Journal from Rome, April 29th, Mr Connellan says:

The profound and intense emotion which Catholics feel in being presented to the Pope is as keen in the natives of our colder lands as it is in those of the other countries.

Under the direction of His Eminence Cardinal Moran, Archbishop of Sydney, over fifty Australians had audience on Sunday last to the Sovereign Pontiff, Leo XIII.

Amongst the more conspicuous Australians were Mrs. and Miss Baker, with her niece, Miss Ross, all from Adelaide. Mrs. Baker and her daughter are converts to the Catholic faith.

The Rev. Father Kelly, nephew of the Most Rev. Archbishop Kelly, Co-adjutor of Sydney, and Rev. Father Mearns, both students of the Irish College recently ordained to the priesthood, and who will soon return to Ireland, were admitted to this audience.

The Rev. Father Kelly, nephew of the Most Rev. Archbishop Kelly, Co-adjutor of Sydney, and Rev. Father Mearns, both students of the Irish College recently ordained to the priesthood, and who will soon return to Ireland, were admitted to this audience.

The Pope expressed his extreme gratification in receiving this group of Australians. He received each person individually, giving his hand to each, and saying a few words of kindly welcome to each one.

His Eminence Cardinal Moran read an eloquent and affectionate address to His Holiness, in which the sentiments of the Catholics of Australia, as well as of those here present to the Pontiff, were expressed.

A revival of the ancient Pagan ceremonies with which the Romans of the Empire celebrated the Feast of the Palatine, or the birthday of Rome, will be imitated as closely as possible on next Sunday evening under the auspices of the Artistic Associations of the city.

On the same day His Holiness received, with the honors due to the members of Sovereign families, the Princess Anna, Landgravine of Hesse, nee Princess of Prussia, who was accompanied by the members of her suite.

The Princess was received by His Eminence Cardinal Rampolla, Pontifical Secretary of State, who in the evening of that day returned her visit at the Hotel de Russie where she is staying.

Yesterday morning the Pontiff in spite of his great age, began again his round of receptions by granting special audience to His Highness Prince Karl von Lowenstein-Wertheim Later on the same day, Leo XIII. received in the Throne Room the same Prince von Lowenstein-Wertheim, Baron Reuchlin of Munich, Count von Königsegg-Aulendorf, and Herr Leitz of Augsburg, heads of the Catholic Associations of Bavaria.

Herr Boeren, Privy Councillor and member of the 'Centro' in Parliament, representing the Catholic Association of Cologne, Madame Boeren, representing the Association for the Protection of Young Girls, the representatives of the Cologne Society of St. Vincent de Paul, of the Society for Furnishing Sacred Vestments, of the Society for the Diffusion of Good Books, of the Association of Fine Arts, of the Catholic Association of Stuttgart, of the Catholic Merchants' Association of Ratisbon, and many others too numerous to mention from various parts of Germany.

On Friday night, 25th April, an American pilgrimage, consisting almost entirely of priests, arrived in Rome. The pilgrims have chosen the Pension Hayden for their residence.

Queen Charlotte of Wurtemberg, who travels in strict incognito under the name of Countess Teck, has arrived in Rome with her suite, and taken up her residence in the Hotel de Russie.

The ex-Queen Nathalie of Serbia, who was recently received into the Catholic Church, arrived a few days ago at Modena, where she is the guest of a distinguished family of that city. She also travels in strict incognito.

A revival of the ancient Pagan ceremonies with which the Romans of the Empire celebrated the Feast of the Palatine, or the birthday of Rome, will be imitated as closely as possible on next Sunday evening under the auspices of the Artistic Associations of the city.

The correspondent of The Paris Figaro at Turin has telegraphed to that paper an account of an audience which His Eminence Cardinal Ritehlly, Archbishop of Turin, was good enough to grant to him, and in the course of which the venerable prelate set forth the reason which induced him, for his own part, to believe in the authenticity of the Holy Shroud.

On the same day His Holiness received, with the honors due to the members of Sovereign families, the Princess Anna, Landgravine of Hesse, nee Princess of Prussia, who was accompanied by the members of her suite.

If you expect to accomplish anything in the world, you must be alive - very much alive - alive all over. Some people seem half dormant. They impress you as partial possibilities - as people who have discovered only a small part of the continent within themselves.

A man who does things is one who is alive to the very tips of his fingers. He is alert, always on the watch for opportunities. He does not give himself a minute to dissipate him. He fights against that common malady known as a "tired feeling," and conquers it.

Many a man is wondering why he does not succeed, while his desk, at which he sits, tells the story of his capability. The scattered papers, the unfolded letters, the disorderly drawers, the dust in the pigeon-holes, the layers of newspapers, of letters, of manuscripts, of pamphlets, of empty envelopes, of slips of papers, are all tell-tales.

If I were to hire a clerk, I would ask no better recommendation than would be afforded by the condition of his desk or table, or room, or work-bench, or counter or books. We are all surrounded by tell-tales which are constantly proclaiming the stories of our lives, cover them up as we will.

Who then, could have been the incomparable artist to paint on the cloth this image, offering to the naked eye what were merely shadows, often formless, yet with details so extraordinary in the photograph? A painter would have executed the details on the cloth so that human eyes might discover a recognizable image.
