

Mickey Kantor
United States Trade Representative

Born in Nashville, Tennessee, on Aug. 7, 1939, Mickey Kantor received a bachelor's degree from Vanderbilt University in 1961. After four years of service as a naval officer, he studied law at the Georgetown University Law Center and received his degree in 1968.

Mr. Kantor has served as consultant to the American Bar Association Special Committee on Crime Prevention and Control, the White House Conference on Children, and the Nation Legal Aid and Defender Association.

Mickey Kantor was sworn in as United States Trade Representative on Jan. 22, 1993. In this role, Ambassador Kantor is the President's chief advisor and negotiator on international trade policy, represents the government in major international organizations, and develops and implements policy.

Ambassador Kantor and his wife, Heidi Schulman, have three children.