Strength to Seven Men.

No opposition has been manifested by either the police authorities or the Humane Society, and yet the citizens of Toronto are not to witness the big bull fight which it had been planned to hold here. The reason is that a suitable place to hold it could not be secured.

Senor Enrique Robles, who claims the bull-fighting championship of Spain and that he had been assured by some local sporting men whom he met in New York that a bull fight, in which the bull was not killed, but only subdued, would be permitted in Canada, and that Toronto would be the best place in the Dominion to hold it. Believing such to be the case, the Spaniard came to this city to arrange a bull fight, arriving here on Dec. 1.

He said his proposition before L. Solman, manager of the Royal Alexandra Theatre and Toronto Ferry Company, but, although the latter declared that such an event could be successfully pulled off here if the necessary permission from the authorities could be obtained, he himself was unable to take it up, owing to the fact that the Mutual Street Arena, which would have been prepared for such a purpose, was being prepared for skating, and therefore was not available.

The only other suitable place in the city for holding the event was the arena, and Sir Henry Pellatt, the former head of the Queen's Own Rifles, was approached with a view of getting the use of the arena. Sir Henry expressed himself as favorably impressed with the idea, and said he thought the bull fight could be held under the auspices of the Q.O.R., and adopted as their annual benefit performance.

The matter was then referred to Captain Pellatt of the Q.O.R., who, together with some of the officers of the regiment, took steps to secure the arena for this purpose. Senor Robles was informed by them last night, however, that they had been unsuccessful in their endeavors to secure the building for the bull fight exhibition, and that it would have to be called off.

On his arrival in the city Senor Robles had declared that he would fight the fiercest bull that could be found here, and he states that the challenge had been accepted by Henry Walker, a Cookville farmer, who was willing to bet that he would produce a bull on the night of the fight here that even a champion bull fighter could not overcome, a bull that it took seven men to hold. I had accepted the challenge and told Walker, I would make the bull run from me like a chicken or pay over to him a thousand dollars," said Senor Robles last night.

Had he been able to hold the fight here it had been the intention of the Spaniard to bring a number of Mexican cowboys, Spanish dancers and several matadors to the city in order to make the bull fight a big event. Three or four bulls were to have been fought, and Champion Robles was to have fought the fiercest one himself.

The champion bull fighter declared that he had not entirely abandoned the project of holding a bull fight in this city, but would remain here a few days longer in the hope of still being able to arrange a fight.

SONGS!

HEART SONGS is not a mere collection of music and words! It is a book compiled directly by more than 20,000 people, who, in sending their favorite songs, told why they sent them.

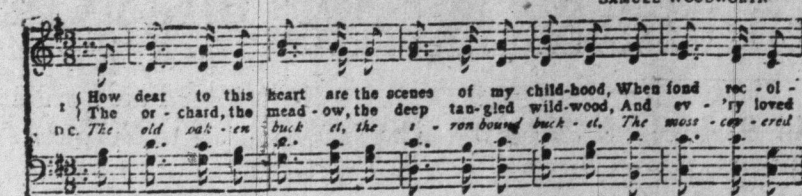

From the lone cabin on the trackless prairie—from the snowy wastes of Alaska—from the mining camp amidst the pines of the lofty Sierras—from the coral strand of an island in the far Pacific, so remote that the ships come only once a year (if they do not forget)—from the garrets of London and Paris, with only the stars above—from the sandy deserts of the Orient, somehow seemingly forgotten by even God himself—came these outpourings of the human heart—from the men and women who loved them—and the singing of which oftentimes saved their sanity and faith in Heaven.

Every song in this wonderful book has had some sacred memory—some touching experience—connected with it in the hearts of thousands. It is their song of joy—of sorrow—of thanksgiving—of love—of bereavement—of home-coming—of re-union—of all the tender sentiments that lift the human heart in worship to its Maker. It is for this—by inspiration—that this unique volume is entitled "HEART SONGS!"

ANOTHER HEART SONG

That Will Live Forever

The Old Oaken Bucket

This song to be found on page 495 of "HEART SONGS"

WRITTEN by Samuel Woodworth, the son of a poor Massachusetts Farmer. His fame rests on his exquisite portrayal of the old-fashioned well on the home farm at Scituate, Mass. "The Old Oaken Bucket" was composed one summer day when living on Duane Street, New York. He came home one afternoon overcome with the heat and drinking a glass of cold water said to his wife, "That is very refreshing, but how much more refreshing it would be to take a good long draught from the old oaken bucket I left hanging in my father's well at home." Thus inspired, he gave the world that matchless poem and song, "The Old Oaken Bucket," one of the "heart songs" which will live as long as the English language is spoken.
