BULLETINS VIEWED BY LARGE CROWDS

Thousands Gathered Outside Newspaper Offices Despite Downpour of Rain.

Despite the drizzling rain which fell baruout the city early last night thousands of persons turned out to witness the election returns by bulletin in front of newspaper offices and other points in different parts of the city. Long before the first returns were flashed upon the screen in front of The World Office last night a large crowd was as sembled. This increased until shortly before nine o'clock the street was crowded to its capacity with returns seekers.

During the day and last night the downtown streets of the city were thronged by large crowds. Many persons from suburban communities and neighboring cities visited Toronto vesterday. On almost every hand election day was regarded as a holiday. The fact that large firms allowed their employes time off to vote contributed largely to this. On every side comment was heard to the effect that more interest was evinced in this year's election than in any previous contest in the province, if not the Dominion.

CHOIR SOLOISIS HONORED.

A happy little event took place on Sunday evening in Sherbourne Street Methodist Church when Mr. and Mrs. John L. Young, baritone and soprane loists, who are severing their choir connections, were presented with a handsome mahogany clock with Westminster chimes.

G. T. D. Atkinson, choir master, spoke very feelingly of the services which they had rendered in the choir and church and others spoke felicitbusly of their pleasant association,

WEAK CAMPAIGN HELPED LIBERAL

West Northumberland Re-Elected Sam Clarke With Cut Majority.

Sr al to The Toronto World.
COBOURG, June 29.—The greatest fight for a seat in the legislature in West Northumberland's history, took place here today. The result in Co-bourg demonstrates that public discussion of the temperance issue was of advantage to the government. Here, where Sam Clarke has always had majorities ranging from 50 to 100, he was in the minority by 35. The only public Conservative meeting was held here. Had meetings been held in the four townships, three of which gave today small majorities for the government, it is claimed that the adverse vote of Haldimand Township would have been overcome and the 70 votes needed to win gained. Clarke's ma-jority in the riding was reduced to 135

It was stated to The World at 935 West Bloor street, the committee room of W. O. McTaggart and A. B. Farmer, Liberal candidates in Toronto Northwest Riding, that legal action will be commenced in relation to the registering in that riding. One gentleman who is the prime mover in the action but who would not give his name, stated that he visited a registration booth, and because he said he had voted be-fore was told it was not necessary for him to register.

When he visited his poll in the subdivision yesterday morning he was de-nied the right to vote "because he had not registered," he said. He stated he of between fifty and sixty other Liberals who received the same treatment, and said he had already received legal advice on the matter and would start proceedings.

So necessary a part of the summer toilet has the neck chain become that in many cases the chain seeks to usurp the place of the necktie or bow, or at least to combine with it by putting on the chain rosettes and medal-lions made of the small chiffon flowers hitherto only seen on neck decoraions or lingerie. Clever-fingered women are making hese chains of narrow crepe de chine, these chains of harrow crops de chine, doubled on the bias, or of ordinary ribbon and fashionable pendants and medallions of the flowers or of fringes for the ribbon knotted. One may use an indefinite number of these silk or cord chains in all colors to make a change upon summer frocks. Of course the bead chains belong in a class to themselves, but these ribbon fancies in delicate tones are not only charming when finished but also make pretty fancy work for idle hours dur-ing the summer.

Steam a pint of cracked wheat until it is tender and mix it with one cup potato yeast, two cups warm water. This forms the sponge and it must stand in a warm place until light, then add butter, the size of an egg, two tablespoons white sugar, one-half cup chopped black walnuts, one-half teaspoon salt. Sift in enough flour to make a smooth consistent dough. Shape into rusk or rolls and when they are light bake as usual. Our correspondent advises that cocoanut may be shredded and used in the place of the nut meats if desired.
