er, Mrs. Alexander McLaughlin of Oconto. Causes of the Trouble.

Mrs. Alexander atchagama to Conto, is., was sent for.

Causes of the Trouble.

The causes which led up to the trouble of their origin eight months ago, when thwell married Miss Addie Montgomery Sault Ste. Marle, Mich. Lathwell worked the barber trade in that city, and for time all was well, whout a month ago work became slack in uit Ste. Marle, and Lathwell decided to me east. He left his home, and, according to the story, had not proceeded far on a way when he met a pretty wittress in Michigan town with whom he immediate-became Infatuated. The waitress was st Toomey, and the faithless husband and wise girl started east.

They arrived in this city a short time ago, d Lathwell engaged in the barber busiss. It was not long afterwards that thwell's wife heard of his whereabouts d of Miss Toomey's relations with him, e came here and found the two living gether. But, strange to say, there was trouble. The matter was patched up, d the two women, Miss Toomey and Mrs. thwell, agreed to live together with Lathwell. As went well under these arrangements for a few days, but when Miss foomey appeared with a gold watch and ann Mrs. Lathwell was angry and denaded an explanation.

Her husband could not answer her questing to her satisfaction, and the two young to together and agreed to leave Lathwell. Without notifying him, they left for fallow the steam of the satisfaction and the two momen got together and agreed to leave Lathwell. Without notifying him, they left for fallow the steam of the satisfaction and the two women got together and agreed to leave Lathwell. Without notifying him, they left for fallow the steam of the satisfaction and the two women were apprehended, and every told a story confirming the above attements. Miss Toomey said that Lathwell had given her the watch, but that he nied. Their cases were set down for lat, and they came back to this city. The two women were apprehended, and they told a story confirming the above attements. Miss Toomey said that Lathwell had given her the watch, but that he nied. T

The See End of the Stery.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich, March 16.—Wiliam Lathwell, who shot his wife, himself and Alice Toomey at Niagara Falls yesterlay, married Addie Piquette at the Canalian Soo a year ago. Subsequently he tended bar at Pembina, Wis., while the wife remained at home. Lathwell became smitten at Pembina with Mrs. Patrick Toomey, who deserted her husband and child and cloped with him a few weeks ago. They passed through the Soo en route to Orangeville, Ont., where Lathwell introduced the woman to his parents as his wife. An acquaintance saw the couple at the Canadian Soo and informed his wife. Addie, who soon after followed them east and kept on their trail. determined to face her recreant husband and make him answer. The thre eame together at Niagara Falls and the tragedy followed. trunks and order white shoes and pipeclay, and begin to taink seriously of housecleaning, tar soap and mosquitoes. At least, that is how it used to be, but with the advent of the teephone and the pinless clothesline things are changed, and the theories of the old residents are merely theories and repose in scrap books, for mowadays people no longer watch the robin.
They anxiously await the latest developments in gears and sprockets. A mad rush is made for the attic or the cellar in quest of the magic bleycle, which is trundled forth and put in drydock for repairs. At breakfast the tails is all about rams' horns, cranks and bloomers, Mary, as she places
a dish of hominy on the table, murmurs
a theory as to the "dish" of the sprocket and at lunch the head of the house, sauntering in with an abstracted look, shocks the parson, who has happened in, with the remark: "Well, I still think single tubes are the best." Then he sees who it really is, and apologizes profusely.

And it is the same at dinner. Instead of adjourning to the drawing room for musie, Freddy and Angeline discourse the "Zipper" catalog, and the brand of chewing gum to be used for the present year is decled upon.

The Academy Exhibition continues to draw its daily quota of visitors. The more frequent the risits to these galleries the more is one impressed with the idea that the real excellence of the exhibition depends largely upon the pictures which were noted and found so satisfactory on were noted and found so satisfactory on the second continues to its its weight and starts at an alarming is very thin and slants at an alarming is very thin and slant were noted and found so satisfactory on the night of the opening. That the three strong men are Harris, Homer Watson and Brymner must be apparent to the most casual observer; it is the peatiful landscapes of Watson, the portraiture of Harris, strong in its reveiation of character and rich in harmonious coloring, which will remain in the memory long after all the rest are forgotten.

brilliant, with slowly hoving masses of soft, alry clouds; the picture is full of the atmosphere of summer.

Miss Spurr, an English artist, who has lived some time in Toronto, is among the fortunate exhibitors, for two of her picasing little landscapes are marked "sold."

Mr. Atkinson has gone to England for subjects for his paintings, and shows some charming bits of Devonshire scenery, of which the "Devonshire Woods" is the best. Miss Wrinch is represented by a figure study of a girl, which lacks decision and tone; but which holds a good deal of promise; she shows also a small landscape which is a rather bolder experiment in color, but which is too imitative to mean much. Miss Windeat exhibits a couple of little handscapes which show creditable work and color, and there are some pretty things in flowers and still life from the brushes of ladies well known in the profession. Other exhibitors whose names are familiar are T. Mower Magtin, Bell-Smith, Sherwood, Henry Martin, Mrs. Schreiber, Miss Marian Living, Miss Haggerty, Verner, Matthews, all of whose pictures are reeving their due share of notice from risitors.

There are but three more days for the workingman who is tired of swaying on the workingman who is tired of swaying on the workingman who is tired of swaying on the end of a leather strap going home at night wheel, which is generally observable on racers.

The day of the chainless has not yet come—the price is prohibitory, and it is even yet, so far as the consumer can see, in a state of experiment.

This will be a season of cheap wheels. The price for the high grades will—be about $75, and from that there will be descending grades till $50 is reached, when we get a wheel which will be ridden by a large majority of wheelmen who don't care altogether for style, but who nevertheless, do not enjoy having the familiar word "ice" called after them.

The popular demand is for a cheap wheel, that is at the same time good and serviceable. This wheel is now on the market and will find a ready sale this season. The workingman who is tired of swaying on the end of a leather strap going-home at night will now find pleasure in using an up-todate wheel, which is now within his means.

The season of '98 ushers in a few novel-

The season of '98 ushers in a few novelties—a pair of clips which can also be used as a lock, one clip locking the bleycle and the other being the key.

Pressed leather grips are a novelty, with ventilated handles.

The invisible brake, set in operation by back pedalling, is being placed on quite a few wheels, and a whole host of saddles may be observed, a great many of which look bad and feel worse. However, this will be a record-breaker in wheeling annals, and the rush has begun already.

will appear at the Grand this evening. The role of Clorinda Wildairs is one of the most severe that any actress has attempted recently, but in it Miss Arthur has made one of the most clear-cut characterizations of late years seen upon the stage. By anyone who has read the daring, unconventional Lovel of Mrs. Burnett it will be readily understood how an actress of Miss Arthur's beauty and temperament will make the character of the dashing and impetuous Clorinda one that will long be remembered. The great scene in walch the Lady Clorinda strikes, by mistake, to death the villian, John Oxon, and her niding of his body beneath the divan while the guests arrive, as interpreted by Miss Arthur, is remarkably intense and thrilling.

Next Week at the Grand.

"Under the Red Robe" will be the attraction at the Grand Opera. House during all of next week, with Wednesday and Saturday matiness, and the box office sale for the engagement will begin Friday morning. This play had a run of more than 300 nights at the Empire Theatre in New York last season, and has proved one of the most successful plays on the road since that time. The period of the story is 1630, and the location France. One of the dominant characters is Richelieu, the great "Red Cardinal," who was the King's right hand at this time. Mr. Frohman sends a company of real merit, the leading man being William Morris, the leading lady, Mary Hampton, not to mention some 20 others who fill important roles.

Toronto's Cut Rates. Theatre-goers, remembering the great success of the last production of "Uncle Success of the last production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" by Peter Jackson here five years ago, will take an especial interest years ago, will take an especial interest in the announcement that the old play will be put on here next week by the original Stowe Company, a combination of phyers who have done more than any other factor in keeping public interest in the great play alive. The production given the great play alive. The production given yuncle Tom's Cabin" by the Stowe Company is said almost to make a novelty out pany is said almost to make a novelty out put into the story, which has never grown put into the story, which has never grown old to the theatre-goers of this continent. For the benefit of those who prefer seeing the piece in the afternoon, Manager Small the piece in the afternoon, Manager Small the special and cut-rate price of 15c to any part of the theatre. These prices, it must be remembered, will prevail for the week only.

The program at the popular little theatre is an excellent one. McIntire and Rice are comedy sketch artists, Carmanelli and Lucilie give fun and music in a butcher shop, Alma Howard, a California nightingale, has a sweet soprano voice; Manning and Weston entertain the audience with a funny sketch, Master Weston is very clever for one so young; Miss Pearl McIntire is a clever, graceful and neat dancer. The star of the show, however, is Miss Pearl Andrews. Her personations are different from last week. Her imitation of Miss Anna Held is exceptionally fine. Her animated music sheet, when the notes are represented by 30 negro heads, cannot but please all lovers of sweet melodies.

Scats for Plancon,

The sale of seats for the great Plancon popular concert in the Armouries on Monday evening next at Nordheimer's is very encouraging. The rush to hear the greatest basso of the day in the finest auditorium in Canada promises to be very great. The stage will be erected in the centre of the building on the north side, and the seats will be arranged in semi-circular form around it, giving everybody an easy view and easy hearing of the performers. The Pikncon concert, under the auspices of the Queen's Own has struck a very popular note, and it is likely that even the splendid capacity of the Armouries may be taxed next Thursday.

Bispham is Coming.

The appearance of the great baritone, Mr. David Bispham, in Massey Hail, on April 5, will undoubtedly draw an audience even greater in size than that which gathered to hear this eminent of many last season. The admiration and enthusiasm which Mr. Bispham exertes by his artistic singing is well recognized by all who take a critical interest in the events of the musical world, and a concert of unusual excelence is anticipated. The Parkale choir, an organization under the leadership of Mr. A. M. Gorrie, will furnish a program of high class Scottish music on the above named date, for which occasion they have engaged Mr. Bispham as so.oist.
