

THUNBURG AGAIN INVITED TO MEET GORMAN IN SERIES HERE

Beautiful Gold Ring Presented To Charlie Gorman By Y. M. H. A.

RACES WOULD TAKE PLACE ON INDOOR TRACK

Gorman Is Ready For Series Under Both Styles

A CHANCE to partially redeem himself before returning to his native Finland for his poor showing here in the world's speed-skating championships outdoors has been afforded Charlie Thunberg, Finnish Olympic star, by local men who have wired Thunberg an invitation to come here prior to going home and compete in a series of races against Charlie Gorman, his conqueror at Lily Lake recently. Gorman says he is in hearty agreement with the move being made and is ready to meet him in a series under North American and European styles.

Owing to unsettled weather conditions and the impossibility of counting definitely on revenue that could be derived at the lake, the present move is to have the series take place indoors. Such a meeting between two possible famous skaters, starting from opposite sides of the rink, would attract great crowds. While both speeders prefer a big outdoor track, the men who have the project in mind now are not willing to run the financial risk involved in staging the series outdoors.

Although Gorman was beaten at Madison Square Garden on his first appearance in this country, conditions were all against him and since then he has become acclimatized and in good shape as his splendid time against Charlie Jewtraw clearly shows. It was not so much the turns that bothered Gorman in New York, according to a local man who saw him there, as it was the unaccustomed man-to-man competition, the stickiness of the artificial ice and the over-heated air. Despite these disadvantages, Thunberg set a world's record for the two miles under North American style, and he is confident of making a much better showing. Hugo Quist, of course, is Thunberg's mentor in all these things and his word probably will be final. Terms he may suggest may prove too big a stumbling block, but in the meantime the local men are hoping Thunberg will see this chance at another meeting with the local ace before he returns to Helsinki.

TRADE REVIVAL SEEN

LONDON, Feb. 17.—Signs that a trade revival is on the way are growing. The Ministry of Labor states that on Dec. 31 the number of persons recorded on the registers of employment exchanges in Great Britain was 1,102,400, or 66,827 less than a year ago.

SLEPT WITH COFFIN

LONDON, Feb. 17.—After sleeping with his coffin under his bed more than 20 years, Henry Quinlan finally has been placed in it, for he is dead. When his wife died 20 years ago, Quinlan ordered a coffin of the same pattern as hers, and requested that it be used in his own burial.

DOG LEAPS 35 FEET

SOUTHAMPTON, Feb. 17.—A little terrier caused a stir on the liner Berengaria here. The dog, named "Bertie," leaped from the deck into the sea and was rescued by occupants of a small boat.

DALHOUSIE WINS 34-28

HALIFAX, Feb. 17.—Dalhousie's basketball team defeated Acadia University 34 to 28 in a game here tonight.

HAIR

He was bald. He sought to grow new hair. At first he failed. Then KOYALCO DID IT.

Suppose you had become discouraged, after trying over and over again to bring back the hair you had lost? Wouldn't you be happy to make known that you had discovered a true and genuine way to overcome baldness?

Mr. Brittain was so overjoyed when he found the secret of KOYALCO, that he published in a book entitled "HE WAS BALD," which has enabled billions of men and women to stop balding hair, eradicate dandruff, and grow new hair.

A copy of this wonderful brochure and a sample of KOYALCO will be sent to you, free of charge, on application. If your hair is falling out, or if you have dandruff, or if you are partially or entirely bald, write to KOYALCO, C-130, St. John, N.B.

Along The Sport Trail

By JOHN J. DUNLOP

AN EXAMPLE of what patient and unremitting training can do for an athlete, boy or girl, is shown in the victory of Suzanne Lenglen yesterday with the world's title at stake. When but 15 years of age, her father taught her all the rudiments of the game and day in and day out would place a white handkerchief on the court for Suzanne to hit until she became so proficient that her mastery over the ball became complete. Steadiness was achieved through this grilling process and steadiness was the year in which she first won the Wimbledon championship. Lenglen has never been beaten except in the one set that she played with Mrs. Mallory, in 1921. Not even Tilden can boast of a record to equal this, although the American men's champion plays far more extensively than does the French girl. The ablest players of the world have been helpless against her. In the English championship last year she rose to perhaps her greatest heights on turf courts and the greatest demonstration of her amazing mastery over her racket was furnished at Nice, where she defeated every one of her five opponents in love sets, winning sixty games in succession. Lawn tennis as played by Mile. Lenglen has been reduced to a mathematical science. Every square foot of the court is sectioned off with the exactness with which a military master knows his terrain. So perfect is her control that she can put the ball within practically any square she wishes. Every time she makes a stroke she is thinking of the one that is to follow, working in the manner of a chess player to gain an objective which is clearly in mind. Gradually and relentlessly she forces her opening and the way is paved for a winning shot. Her uncanny steadiness and nimbleness of foot, together with her keen faculty for anticipating an opponent's move, keep the ball going back across the net until she has worked her will or her opponent has given her the point on an error. A flawless machine directed by one of the most analytical minds in tennis is perhaps the shortest description of Mile. Lenglen the tennis player.

WINNING three out of their last four games, Sussex Colts came along with a rush at the end of the season. How about a series to settle that second place with the locals?

A LITTLE ENGLISH DOG

Signal Circuit, a wire-haired fox terrier, won premier honors at the Westminster Jubilee show in New York last week, and, writing about the winner, Frank F. Dole says: "Champion Signal Circuit of Halesworth, a pert, little wire-haired fox terrier, cocky and swank, is the grand canine of 1925, best of dog of all breeds at the golden jubilee show of the Westminster Kennel Club, which came to a close in Madison Square Garden. Signal Circuit is an all white-bodied fox-terrier, with tan ears and a tan patch on the left side of his head. He has a clean head of the proper conformation, straight, fine front, clean shoulders, a good middle piece and nice hind quarters. He is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Hall, of New York. Signal Circuit was purchased by Percy Roberts in England nearly a year ago and has never been out of his hands. It was evident from the way they appeared in the ring that there was a perfect understanding between the dog and his handler, and the importance of such an understanding in the show game. And dogs do understand, and none more than this one. When he first came in the ring he stood at ease, never making a move and quietly biding the time when the judges should ask him to go through his paces. He went down the ring like the champion he is, head and tail erect and looking like a regular racehorse. He knew who was on the other end of the ring like a regular racehorse, a young Englishman, who has done wonders since he came to this country a few years ago, was backing him up. Keen, clever, always the job of a real square-shooter, who has loved dogs from the day that was unbreakable. Would there were more dogs and more 'professional handlers of their type'."

N. Y. Dog Show Echoes

(By A. K. M.)

In Scottish terriers, W. L. McCandlish, president of the English Kennel Club, who came over to New York for the dog show, awarded the best of breed to W. J. Hutchingson's Argus Von Birkenhof. The best bitch was Ruffus owned by a farmer's wife who lives near Pollstown, Pa. She bought her when a pup for $60. Dog fanciers who saw her urged the owner to enter her at the Westminster show. Finally she did. In cash prize she won $150 and incidentally a lot more in worth money $60.

In Wire-haired Pinschers, of Schanzen, another German dog that is becoming very popular, the Judge, Otto Seitz, gave best of breed to the Brookmeade Kennels, Toronto. Von Schanzen. One of the sensations of the show was the best of breed of the Champion Shikona Brilliantine of Manchester. This latter dog was imported from England a few months ago and the price paid for him was $10,000. Both of the above mentioned dogs, one owned by Mrs. H. E. Hoover of Chicago. In Boston terriers, the best of breed was awarded to the best of breed of the Champion Shikona Brilliantine of Manchester. This latter dog was imported from England a few months ago and the price paid for him was $10,000. Both of the above mentioned dogs, one owned by Mrs. H. E. Hoover of Chicago.

In the final day when the judging for best dog of all breeds came up, five of the best judges were to make the selection. They were Judges Beard, Neilson, McCandlish, Reeves and Morse. Excitement ran high and the dog by the English Kennel Club for best of breed was the champion of the show. The dog was a favorite. The dogs to be judged were Nanoceth Belle, a pointer, as best of the sporting group, Laird Lero of Bellhaven, a collie, as best of the working group, Glen Rose of Flashaway, a Pomeranian, as best of toy group; Champion Victorious of Tien Hsia, a Chow, as best of non-sporting group; and Champion Signal Circuit of Halesworth, a wire-haired fox terrier, as best of terrier group. The latter received the awards as best dog in the show. He also received the cup awarded by the English Kennel Club for best of breed. He is by Fountain Crusader-Peter, whelped Aug. 11, 1923, bred by A. Kirk of England, and won in his next three shows he took five points at each show, and as fifteen points were required to gain his championship he won quickly. He was beaten once in Philadelphia by his son, Signal Warty, but later beat his son. Before gaining his title to "best in show," he had to beat a strong field in the terrier class, composed of the best of each of the following classes: Highland White, Kerry Blue, Cairn, Bull, Welsh, Irish, Alsatian, Smooth Fox terriers, and wire-haired fox terriers. The choice narrowed down to the Irish and wire-haired fox and the fox won.

A Pomeranian, Glen Rose Flashaway, the best of the toys, and weighing 3 pounds, is valued at $1,000.

WILL MOVE INTO THIRD PLACE BY WIN THURSDAY

Boston Scores Its Sixth Victory In Seven Starts

MONTREAL, Feb. 17.—Boston's victory over Pittsburgh last night was the high spot of the three games played in the N. H. L. The Bruins victory was their sixth in seven games, the other being a draw. As a result they are now but one point behind Pittsburgh and third place. And tomorrow night they play at New York, where they are expected to add two more points to the large number they have amassed in their recent sensational spurt from the cellar.

Canadians' defeat puts the local team properly up against a stiff climb for third place, as they have three heavy games ahead in the immediate future. They play the Canadiens here on Tuesday, the Bruins on Wednesday, and in Pittsburgh on Thursday. The Bruins are now three points behind Boston and four behind Pittsburgh, though they have played one game less than each of these two teams. St. Pauls have shaved New York further into the cellar and themselves escaped dropping into a tie in the bottom through their win over the Americans last night. New York has not won in its last 14 games. Boston plays at New York Thursday and Canadians at Ottawa.

THUNBERG AGAIN BEATS JEWTRAW

Lake Placid Flash Falls When Leading Near Finish of 1-3 Mile

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Feb. 17.—In swirling snow driven by a bitter west wind, Clas Thunberg of Finland, and Charles Jewtraw of Lake Placid, former International champion, completed their four-day series of matched races on Pontiac Rink yesterday. Thunberg skated to victory in the one-third mile event after Jewtraw fell just before he reached the tape. The latter led until he was within fifty yards of the finish. The time was 52.3 seconds.

After his fall in the shorter race, Jewtraw withdrew from the three-mile event, Thunberg skidding an exhibition race, paced by Eddie Murphy, of Chicago, and O'Neill Farrell, of Chicago, National champion.

In the seven races at Lake Placid and here, Thunberg won six events, establishing new world records in four of them, and lost one race, the 220 yards dash on the opening day.

He amazed Adirondack skating fans with his speed and endurance, reaching his true form for the first time since his North American invasion began several months ago.
