

'She Looketh Well'

To the ways of her household... Yes, Solomon is right; that's what the good housekeeper everywhere does, but particularly in Canada.

Miramichi Advance.

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR.

Christmas Day was well observed on the Miramichi and, so far as we have learned, all over the North Shore. In former times, there was, perhaps, more outward demonstration of the fact that 'Merry Christmas and Happy New Year' were with us, but we believe the festive season was never more rationally and satisfactorily enjoyed here than now.

But her ways are not always old ways. In fact she has discarded many unsatisfactory old ways. For instance, to-day she is using

S. J. FRASER was educated at the Northumberland County Grammar School, and in 1846 began the study of law at the office of Messrs. Street & Davidson, of Newcastle. He was admitted an attorney in 1850 and called to the bar in 1852.

E. B. Winslow was admitted to professional partnership with Mr. Fraser in 1866, and E. L. Wetmore (now Judge Winslow) joined the firm of Fraser & Winslow in 1877. Mr. Fraser devoted his attention closely to the political arena and was returned to the provincial Assembly as representative for York county in conjunction with John C. Allen, George L. Hatheway and W. H. Neill as champions of the anti-conference movement, confederation being the then burning question of the day.

He was again elected to the Assembly in 1870, 1874, 1878, 1882, 1886, and 1890. In 1878, he was appointed a member of the legislative council and president of the executive, but resigned both positions in the following year, and accepted the office of provincial secretary in the King administration, appointing some more to the people of York county than had been appointed by the late Mr. King.

Amongst the few who wonder that the government does not consider their little personal feelings when a governor is to be appointed.

The Times' grievance is even more about than those of the G. or T. or S. The wife of the editor was accused of manslaughter, and because she was not permitted to live at a Dorchester hotel or private house, instead of a well furnished room in the jail, where she had all reasonable comforts and many of the luxuries of life, her husband had been on the war-path against our judges ever since.

With the general satisfaction expressed over Mr. Fraser's appointment to the governorship, he will probably be able to arrive at the objection and fault findings of the gentlemen with their pet grievances to vent, wishing them, meanwhile the compliments of the season.

At Bridgeport, Ct., the other evening three men were saved from drowning by a plucky school teacher named Annie Hallock. The New York Herald's dispatch gives the following particulars:

Among them were Miss Hallow, A. C. Culver, telegraph editor of a Bridgeport paper; T. W. Joyce and Lacey E. Black. The ice in most parts of the pond was thick and strong enough for an army of skaters. But the most tempting spot of all was a bit of black ice near the "Hallowlocks," where there is always a current and where it rarely freezes solid.

Last night the elasticity of the "ticky" bander had been severely tried before Black attempted to cross it, but he did it, not recklessly, and went through with a black duck bander. Mr. Culver was one of those who saw the accident, and sprang to the rescue. The ice parted under him, and into the water he went to struggle with young Black. T. W. Joyce was not daunted by the fate of Culver and tried the rescue from another point of approach.

The ice was equally treacherous, and Mr. Joyce joined the other unfortunates. Miss Hallow is reputed to be one of the best skaters in the city. That she is one of the swiftest is attested by the speed with which she covered nearly a quarter mile of the frozen surface of the pond. Before these things had happily happened she was within a few feet of the unsafe ice. The idea of attempting the rescue herself did not first come to Miss Hallow. A crowd of men and boys were as near as safe and were watching the young men crowding, but making no effort to save them.

She threw herself flat down on the ice, skates and all, hastily calling to one of those near to follow and gradually to be saved. She had time to glance at the dangerous circle of still unbroken black ice bordering the clear place in the water which the black boy Mr. Culver and Joyce had made in their struggles.

John Brady had the courage to follow at a respectful distance the schoolmaster's step, and he had time to glance at the dangerous circle of still unbroken black ice bordering the clear place in the water which the black boy Mr. Culver and Joyce had made in their struggles.

Directly and the rest of the stable of horses belonging to M. Salisbury were shipped to California last week, and the king of Canada, this great Britain's daughter, January 1st, to his owner, John G. Green, an old Irishman who came from a land when a poor boy and has since made himself comfortable for the rest of his life by mining. Mr. Green owns the dam of Diving, old Stenwinder, and other places in the city that have been better 30, and now has a pending that next year Mr. Green says will "bate the devil" in a race.

O'Shea appeals he will be gazetted as a bankrupt. STARTLING NEWS WASHINGTON IN THE MAY-BRICK CASE. LONDON, December 22.—In an interview with the solicitor of Barones R-ques, the lawyer said that fresh and somewhat evidence had been discovered for the purpose of causing Maybrick and her husband to open an independent inquiry.

The newly discovered evidence comes from the captain of a Hallow (N.S.) ship. He was intimate with Mr. Maybrick, and he has often seen the deceased put a white powder in the food which he was cooking on an oil stove at his office in Halifax.

The captain thought that the white powder was some peculiar kind of pepper and questioned the deceased about it, but the latter said that it was arsenic, and added: "You must have something to keep yourself up. I take enough to kill you."

A reporter to-day had an interview with Solicitor Harris in regard to the case of Mrs. Maybrick. Mr. Harris said: "We have communicated with the home office, asking for an independent inquiry into the case, at which the crown and Mr. Maybrick should be represented by counsel. Mr. Archibald, the home secretary, has promised to consider the application. We have seen accumulative evidence that Mr. Maybrick is a regular arsenic taker."

The Brazilian Rebellion. LONDON, Dec. 20.—The Times will publish the following despatch from Rio de Janeiro, dated Dec. 16th, via Montevideo, Dec. 20th. Since my last despatch, the insurgents have directed their main force and machine guns on the shore front, driving the government troops from the custom house and other points. Consequently, all business in the city is practically stopped, the banks are closed, and there is no communication between the ships and the shore. The heavy artillery fire continues.

On Thursday afternoon, when the garrison of Villegaignon was dining, a shell from a ten inch Armstrong gun on Fort San Juan penetrated the basement, killing five men and seriously wounding nine others. On Friday five men at Fort Villegaignon were killed. Nothing is said and only occasional shots from the batteries are fired against C-barr island.

The government troops on landing began firing at a small inn for congenial diseases, and then the main body appeared and advanced without seeing Admiral Da Gama, who, with 500 men and four field guns, was concealed in the brush wood on rising ground.

When the government troops were 400 yards distant the insurgent battery opened fire from the four guns, firing 600 rounds in two hours and also directing a heavy machine gun and rifle upon them, killing and severely wounding many. Gen. Telles was one of the first to be wounded.

The government troops broke immediately and fled in all directions. The insurgents have seven wounded. Steam launches posted near the fort report that the fugitives have not attempted to re-cross the main land, and it is thought probable the government troops were untrapped and that they will surrender. During the skirmishes on the shore fronts, all during the past week, the insurgents last five killed and 15 wounded, and the government lost 100. It is impossible to obtain the exact figures.

Admiral Da Gama's manifesto has elicited many expressions of sympathy from the provinces of Minas Geraes and Rio de Janeiro. The general impression at Rio de Janeiro is distinctly favorable to Admiral Da Gama. The cruiser Cal passed Casra on Wednesday under the Brazilian flag.
