I made no resistance, but simply tried to bree through and get free. The people were so compacted about me that they had no space to man me budly. But the throng grow denset; I was being crushed, and my head was estimating because of the blows from the sticks. I made a wrach to one side and got my hack against a street door. Now, for what it was worth, my enemies were in my front. In a rough way I could hos a bit: and I heliese I spolled sandry of the nearest faces. I know I cut my own knuckles to the home. But the thick sticks kept hammering on my head; bothes becan I revived my first thought was to search for my note book, in which I had writ-ten out in full a description of the Long-champs review. To my horror it was gone, along with the coat tail in the pocket of which it had been. While I was internally bewailing myself, a cit-ics in a fine glow of triumph rushed into the post. "Here is evidence that the villain is a spy! Here are his notes of the he here here miting shorts the villain is a spy! Here are his notes -the lies he has been writing about our unhappy Paris!" I could have em-braced the man, frowsy as he was. His face was a study when in the gladness of my heart foffered him a 5 franc piece. The implacable patriot accepted it. By and by, under the escort of bayonets, for the mob was still dangerous, I was taken, my rags covered by a soldier's greatcoat, to the bureau of a sitting magistrate two streets off. My com-panions in duress were a man who had

I awoke suddenly to find myself sitting up in bed, and to hear the pony instrument working clearly, as if handled by masterly fingers. I was spellbound, for the appartus was connected with main fine, and there was no one in the point it differed distinctly, and my blood curdled as I recognized the call that is used on the wires only for those measages that are always sent to an operator's easy the 'death signal.' Who was sending it?
I aprang out of bed, turned my lamps higher, seized my fountain-pen and made ready to copy. The measage ran as follows:
"From Austin to C. W. G., Oelstein, Number Four Night Limited went down at Big Stowe bridge. Fifth and sixth restle wash out. Seventy three killed, K. C." of China. K. C." I read and re read this till my own writing looked strange to me as it lay on the deak, and then glanced at the clock. It was a quarier to one. Number Four was due at Westgate at hs!f-past two, So the message was sent an hour and s quarter before the train would reach the place of the wreck! At that minute. There was the New Hampton depot, with the passengers crowding about the steps, and friends meeting and parting at the door of the car door of the car. Next carpe Fredericksburg, then Sum-ner, and then—O terrible fate!—I could hear the humming roar and the panting of the engine; I could see the turbulent waters of the Big Stowe lashing the ap-proaches of the long bridge. The train was slowing up to cross it. I held my breath. It was in the centre of the great structure. The engineer was call-ing for brakes. able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and must delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired diges-tion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This South American Nervine has been found by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous derangement.

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITAS' DANCE OR CHOREA.

A SWORN CURE FUR SI. VITAS DANCE On JURE 2. CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., JURE 22, 1887. My daughter, eleven years old, was severely a licted with St. Vitus' Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Ner-vine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus' Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and for all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health, from whatever cause.
