The accident happened about 2 miles southwest of Cape Cod.

STRIKERS AND POLICE CLASH

Pitched Battle at Fort William—Several Wounded

Some are in Serious Condition—Both Sides Used Guns

Battle Lasted 15 Minutes—Troops Hasten to Scene

FORT WILLIAM, Aug. 12—Eight men were wounded in a pitched battle between police and strikers here today at the docks. The fight was a hot one for some time. This morning a body of C. P. R. special police and strikers to the number of two hundred or more, engaged in a pitched battle at the corner of McTavish street at the C. P. R. sheds and seven or eight men were wounded, some of them seriously. The exact number of wounded cannot be learned as yet, but from what can be gathered, five C. P. R. special constables brought in the wounded, none of them seriously. They had lines of box cars drawn across the tracks as protection and their wounds are mostly in the legs. Dickenson, a Times-Journal reporter, also received a wound. Serg. Taylor of the local police also received slight injury. The strikers were also injured, one of them being the leader amongst the men and he received a bullet through the arm, while the other was shot through the groin.

The Wounded Those wounded were: Serg. Taylor of the city police, slightly; Dickenson, of the Times-Journal, slightly; Mr. Gail, chief of the C. P. R. police, seriously wounded in the abdomen; Carpenter, C. P. R. constable, knee badly smashed; two strikers, Greek, names unknown; John Lake, butcher at coal docks, bullet grazed forehead, slight injury; five or six others, names unknown.

About nine o'clock this morning C. P. R. brought in a large number of special constables, about thirty in all. They were taken to the C. P. R. station, where they were sworn in, and headed by Andrews, the chief of the C. P. R. police, they started for the coal docks. On the C. P. R. bridge a bunch of about thirty strikers were standing around and they followed the constables down.

Going down Hard street, at the corner the Canadian Pacific railway sheds, an immense crowd gathered, about 200 in all, and it was plainly to be seen that they were out for trouble. They stood waiting for an hour, when finally the C. P. R. policemen marched out and went across the road to the C. P. R. boarding house and then started. The men at once declared that they would not let them go back. While the constables were eating breakfast, Ald. Rankin came down and made a speech, stating that the C. P. R. were willing to give 20 cents for day work and 25 cents for night work.

Would Hardly Listen The strikers would hardly listen at all and watched the boarding house like hawks. Finally, about 11:30 the constables started to come out, and one of the constables of the door before the shooting started. The first constable to come out was told to go back, and he immediately pulled out his revolver and threatened to shoot. One of the strikers in the lead started to raise his stick and threaten to hit him, and the constables at once pulled their revolvers and then there was a regular fusillade of revolver shots. Guns appeared as if by magic, and it was scarcely a minute before there was a battle in progress in the centre of the street. Strikers used revolvers first and so did the police, who finally drove the strikers back somewhat and managed to reach the sheds.

"Bring rifles," was the cry of the strikers, and about a dozen men rushed into nearby houses and came out with rifles. Sheltered by corners of houses they continued the battle and showed no signs of retreating. Men with rifles were encouraged by their fellow strikers, and two or three could be seen in the group around the man with the gun showing him how to shoot. Men were running back and forth in and out of houses for ammunition, and as fast as it could be brought shooting continued. It lasted for fifteen minutes.

The Royal Canadian Rifles left Winnipeg for Fort William this afternoon.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 12—Samuel R. Vannat of Minnesota was elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic this evening.

Uncle Walt The Poetic Philosopher

How often, my friends, when the long day is ended, and all of its labors are gone to the whence, when the shadow of night on the earth has descended, we gossip with neighbors across the back fence; we tear into rags Giffey Gray's reputation, and call him a miser who ought to be shot; we say that old Brown's is a disgrace to the nation, and blame the police that he's never been caught. Relating old scandals with elegant diction, our bosoms are filled with the sweetest of bliss; when we run out of facts we are ready with fiction, and any old fable will not come amiss. When we have exhausted our stock of romances, and taken the licks out of friend and of foe, we go to that sleep (as him, evening advances) which only in office or stable or ice works or store, we often meet up with those terrible neighbors, whose records we shredded the evening before. With sunny smiles on our faces we greet 'em, and make a great fuss in our glad, cordial way, and people might think we were going to eat 'em—for Brown is a daisy, and so's Giffey Gray!

AMUSEMENTS

AMERICA INVADIED BY JAPS AT NICKEL

Armchair strategists are wont to tell what will happen if the Japanese ever invade North America, and today at the Nickel the great Kalem picture will give a visionary conception of the result. It is an excellent war picture and with artillery thundering, spirited cavalry manoeuvring, infantry in great battalions and a thrilling plot to the string of film, watchers will be greatly interested. A distinctly other class of picture is the Biograph story, The Cardinal's Kindly Conspiracy. Two foreign pictures are Brown's Moving Day (Gaumont), and The Rival Sisters (Lux). Last evening the Bush string quartette charmed several households of people to another delightful bill, which is to be repeated today and Saturday. Miss Mary Wylie Bush was enthusiastically encored for her artistic 'cello solo, Evening Star, Wagner's Tannhauser. The ensemble numbers were: Schumann's The Voice of Love, and Keler-Bela's wiled skirt Hungarian Lutsiel. Mr. Buchanan made a sensational hit in Tostia Good-Bye to double orchestral accompaniment. Big shows tomorrow with funny novelties for the children and half-holiday folk.

NEW PICTURES AT H. H. H. TODAY.

But I have more to tell you to see Prof. Hampton's miniature circus, and if you have not yet seen it do so, for it's well worth seeing. Prof. Hampton has the only educated goose in the world, and everybody, who has seen it has been astonished to think that the supposed to be foolish goose can be educated to tell the number of days in the week, and the year, to add and multiply figures, and many other wonderful tricks. Dare Devil Spikes, the loop the loop monkey, continues to make a hit, and the dogs, they are wonderfully clever. Yesterday Elsie and Hahn made a big hit in their new song programme. Matrimonial Squabbles is a comedy conversational piece with the married folk. Once Again, a pretty solo, was splendidly sung by Mr. Mumpkin. There's Something Nice About You, is a very catchy conversational duet, and generous applause.

STEEPLE CHASING AT "STAR" TONIGHT.

Over in Star Theatre, North End, tonight one of the famous English steeple-chasing events will be held and onlookers will imagine themselves actually on the scene. Besides this big feature there will be the following pictures: "Saved From Conviction," "The Pretty Fish-Maiden," "A Real Good Omen" and "The Youthful Couple's Elopement." It is still the best of the best and sporting interest, comedy and drama. Miss Edwards will sing a new ballad and there will be a really a good music. On Monday the "Star" enhances the quality of its picture service with a new contract with the Kinograph Co. of America for a complete new set of pictures—three times weekly, pictures entirely exclusive and of the finest quality. Particulars later.

SCULPTOR IS ENJOYING HIS VACATION IN JAIL

Cool and Quiet, He's Not Bothered by Etiquette of Dress.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12—Having served four months of a six months' imprisonment for contempt of court, Ross Hinton Perry, sculptor, is well satisfied with the advantages of a summer vacation in Ludlow jail. Perry was sentenced because he refused to pay alimony to his first wife.

Leaving the blistering heat of the lower East Side, a reporter found one of the foremost advantages when a keeper led him into the dim, cool reception room of the jail. Perry came down from the cell floor, attired in slippers, light trousers, and a thin, soft-collared shirt, open at the throat. "This is one of the primary advantages of being in jail," said Perry. "What are some of the other advantages?" "In the first place," the sculptor replied, "there is no life more conducive to deep thinking and study. While somewhat monotonous, the life here is decidedly of the safe and sane variety. I go to bed at 10. I arise at 6 and have my fruit, bread and coffee. I return to my cell, which is really a room with two windows and a comfortable bed, where I stay until 10 o'clock. Then we are permitted to roam about until dinner time. There is the yard to exercise in and fairly congenial prisoners to chat with or play cards with. Some of us play handball. Sensible hours, good plain food, plenty of light, air and exercise—such a life should put any one in good physical trim. "Of course I shall be glad when September comes and I am free. "I have commissions to execute and there are more in sight. My imprisonment has not hurt me professionally. I believe I could not pay all the money my first wife demanded, and I had the choice of leaving New York state or going to jail. My professional future would be jeopardized by banishing myself permanently from New York so I took this way out of the difficulty."

COLLIERS DECLINE BATH.

LONDON, Aug. 12—Only 150 out of 1500 miners employed by the Pffe Coal Company have accepted the company's proposal to provide bathing accommodation for its employees, at a cost of one penny each per week.

"Drap the cat!"

"What's the matter, girl?"

"Oh, the cat went to sleep on my new hat and I wore her down town and back."

Mrs. Dobson-Bridges told me she saw Mr. and Mrs. Hobson going to church this morning. I wonder what's the matter?"

Mr. Dobson, either Mr. or Mrs. Hobson has had another attack of heart trouble or Mrs. Hobson has a new hat.
