THE COOK QUITS AND HE FINDS OUT WHY.

"Hello, now, what's the meaning of this?" demanded Mr. Bowser, as he came home the other evening and found Mrs. Bowser with the cook's apron on and engaged in placing dinner on the table. "Oh, this is a little picnic," she laughingly replied. "You can sit right down, and I hope you will find your dinner all right."

ON THE OPPOSITE SIDE OF THE STREET WAS A WOODEN LEGGED MAN.

"I've come for my money," was the stiff reply. "And you shall have it and welcome, my dear girl, but I should like to know why my wife flung you into the street at a moment's notice. Had I been at home—"

My son, it won't be any news to you to learn that there is an American game called poker. About ninety boys out of a hundred learn it before they are sixteen. Later on about ninety-eight out of the ninety-nine will lose it.

When I finished the town of Come Off a few days since I was warned by a fellow critter who was always clearing in the footsteps of Integrity that a job to be laid low and my gray hair scopped in a pool of sorrow. The plot soon developed in my mind to run my old horse in a race against a frisky young steed and offered five lengths the start in a mile race. It was hooted at until I finally consented to a race. I called on Integrity, gave my horse the go, and won by twelve minutes and saved $25. It is needless to add that I am a richer man for the loss.

up your shekels and grin with assurance when the start is made, and then you'll come down with a bump on hard ground and begin to talk about the ingratitude of the world. All serious 'astute' men have been trying to beat the horse race for the last two thousand years, and might have done so in a better way if they had only had the horse race.

well as a bookkeeper or salesman, but they insisted on his filling the niche they selected, and so we fall asleep under his oratory and have no interest in keeping up our part. As smart a young man as you are, let me suggest to you, should you be in politics at an early stage, to talk reforms and the demand for honest men in office. Sound the tocsin for the rascals and corruption that such part of this country are not owned by the Trusts, but owned by the railroads. If you do not do enough you can show a hundred things that the honest voters ought to go up and how about the railroads? You can secure a nomination yourself. If you do, give it to the people and hot. Appeal to honor and honesty. Give figures to make the public see a stand up. Be a young Moses to lead us out of the wilderness. When the campaign is over and the votes counted up, you'll find that you can reach clear down to your shoulders. The politicians are still in the ring and the rascals are still suffering. You haven't changed a vote. Things are left just as they were when you passed and their folks made you believe that you could change them with your gab.
