A BRINSMEAD PIANO
As used by Royalty

This is the best piano built in Great Britain, and is used not only by Royalty but the most musical and best people in England. This firm was established during the reign of King Wm. IV. and is recognised as one of the greatest piano makers in the world. They ship pianos everywhere which are constructed especially for the climate for which they are intended.

One of the special features of this piano is a treatment of the strings which prevents them rusting in this damp climate and they have many other special features. You should call and see our samples of these superb instruments.

A VIGOROUS NAVAL POLICY IS NEEDED FOR CANADA NOW

(Toronto News).
During 1908-09 the United States spent on military and naval requirements $2,924,075. Only two of the Powers, Britain and Germany, exceeded that expenditure. France spent less than twenty-six millions.
Japan about fifteen millions, Russia, thirteen millions and a half, and Italy a trifle over nine millions.

In view of this how can any man say that the "vortex of militarism" is wholly European? How can it be said that North America is free from the burdens of naval and military expenditure? But such things are said.

They are used to brace spineless arguments against a Canadian contribution to Imperial defence.
Public men and journalists try to inoculate the false idea that this Continent is enjoying an advance taste of the Millennium when men shall learn war no more. Canada has no navy, not because this country can trust to the Christian forbearance of its rivals, but because it is a part of

FRANK CHANCE
ON BASEBALL
TEAM WORK

(By Frank Chance.)

Manager, Champaign Chicago "Cubs" During the time I have been playing the game, baseball has made rapid strides. In no department has such an advance been made as in team work. Some ten or eleven years ago, when I started out as a professional, there was not an extra lot of attention paid to this most essential feature of success in baseball. Of course we had the sacrifice, and the hit and run, and all the other tricks and plays that go to make up team work, but we did not begin to make the use of them that even the poorest teams of to-day do. In those days there was much left to the individual. To be sure, even now, a ball player has to depend on his own initiative, in many cases, but not near so frequent as was once the case. It seems to me that the "work together" idea has grown to be a sort of instinct with the modern ball toaser, and the good man who will not sacrifice his personal ends, says pass up a chance to increase his batting average, and do something which will, in the end, have a better effect on his team's welfare, cannot be found in big league baseball. Some of the old teams, like Boston or the Baltimore of the nineties, may have had the inside game down to the same perfection that the league teams of today have it, but they were the exceptions and not the rule.

In these times, even the weakest teams are adepts at the inside game, and are forced to suffer defeat only through the lack of real baseball ability in their players. Even at that it is no rare sight to see some tall-order pull out a victory from one of the big fellows, by a quick display of judgment, when their over-confident opponents are, for the moment, sleeping.

It is the practise of managers today, even the minor league ones, to drill their men in any number of intricate plays, each one planned to meet some possible emergency, which may not spring up until a hundred times, so that when it does crop up the men will know how to face it, and possibly win a game thereby.

In working his team into a mechanically perfect whole, the manager must be a man who is not only a good tactician, but a man who has all the chance to see some tall-order pull out a victory from one of
judgment, when their over-confident
opponents are, for the moment, sleeping.

CANADA IS
NO PLACE FOR
PAUPERS

Montreal, July 24.—Canada as a dumping ground for pauper children from England, as suggested in an editorial in one of the leading London daily papers, does not particularly appeal to charity workers. In fact, a little indignation has been expressed that such a course should be suggested itself to the social studies abroad.

In words of the English writer on the subject were to the effect that "surely the sanest and most hopeful method of dealing with pauper children is to board them out to Canada and other dominions as early as possible."

What is meant by "boarding out" is not exactly clear, but if the idea is to house the children here at the expense of the Poor Rates the scheme will find few supporters in Canada.

"The placing out of pauper children in the Province of Quebec has not been an important issue in the past," said Mr. Richard Lane, secretary of the Charity Organization Society, said Mr. Lane, "that the English Poor Rates could be taxed for the support of such children, and probably the term 'boarding out' simply means in this instance the placing of children in foster homes or with farmers. Children who were to be boarded out to the expense of the Poor Rates would not be admitted into the country.

Such children as obtain foster homes or secured situations with farmers would have their expenses paid by the organization sending them out, and not from the Poor Rates.

"A farmer who accepts the responsibility of a child's future is not always animated with a desire to simply help a child, but often wants a worker. In the United States there is a widespread movement towards the placing of children in homes and the doing away with institutions as much as possible. This necessitates the most careful inspection and such a system should be carried out most rigidly wherever it is adopted.

"There is no better place in which to bring up a child than in the home.
It makes for individuality, but there is always a possibility of children being overworked or abused. When the Charity Organization places a child in the country the home life is always carefully inquired into.
"If healthy children were sent to this country from England and they were well placed once they got here,

EFFECT OF NEW
U.S. TARIFF ON
CANADA TRADE

London, July 22.—The Times today follows up its recent Empire Day supplement with a tariff supplement, showing the effect of the new rates of duty imposed by the U. S. Congress on the trade of the different countries of the world with which the United States does business. A comparison of the old rates of duty with the new ones is given, and special articles, written from the chief centres of industry in Great Britain as well as continental cities are published. Canada, as the nearest neighbor to the United States, occupies considerable space in the issue, and the opinions of many representative men, as to the position which the Dominion should assume in trade and tariff matters, are quoted.
There is a remarkable consensus of opinion that Canada should pursue a national policy, irrespective entirely of outside considerations. This is the new taken by representative men like Mr. R. Hobson, of Hamilton, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association; Mr. Farquhar Robertson, president of the Montreal Board of Trade; Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, Mr.
D. Mann, and others. "The opinion of these men is quoted as follows: Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway:— "With a population of approximately eighty millions, with enormous wealth created by the development of their natural resources, and with knowledge that these conditions are largely the result of the trade policy of the country during the last half century, the United States, if the action differ from the policy of the public sentiment, have decided upon a continuance of a strong protective tariff, although many manufacturers pressed for a reduction with an object to secure more experience and more conclusive results, this is to Canada, whose situation and conditions are identical to those which prevail in the United States, and what safer or more logical course the government pursue than to adopt practically the same lines in Canadian tariff legislation?"

Mr. Farquhar Robertson, president of the Montreal Board of Trade:— "Canadian business men are greatly interested in the proposed changes in the United States tariff, partly because there is a general belief that when that tariff is finally adopted it will be found that its provisions do not materially differ from those of the present tariff, and partly for the reason that the time has passed when Canadian interests can be much affected by U. S. tariff legislation."

Mr. D. D. Mann, of the Canadian Northern Railway:—"I believe the people of the United States desire a lower tariff generally, and especially as regards products imported from Canada, but the influence of local and highly protected interests is most powerful against a revision downwards. My private information from business men indicates strong dissatisfaction with the Senate's attitude and a coming agitation for lower schedules, tending towards freer relations with Canada. Importers of wood and other products from the Dominion keenly desire lower tariffs, and manufacturers are working strenuously for Canadian trade. The whole situation strengthens the case for enlarged trade between the United Kingdom and Canada, the ultimate mutual preference between all parts of the Empire, and the upbuilding of commerce, which will not be subject to the whims of a form power."

Mr. R. Hobson, of Hamilton, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association:—"The revision of the United States tariff is a matter that has not been of very much interest to Canadian manufacturers. The rates of duty under the Dingy tariff, and the same condition will no doubt exist under the revised tariff, were so high as to be practically prohibitory on nearly every article we make in Canada. With the farmers of this country the proposed tariff will be a very serious matter. With a higher rate of duty on agricultural products, he will find himself in the same position as the Canadian manufacturer, that is to say, he will no longer be able to profitably export to the United States.
In my opinion, to make up for the curtailment of business, he should press for such legislation as would further encourage the expansion of Canadian manufacturing interests, the interests which are the largest employers of labor, and thereby enlarge the most profitable market for his products, viz., the home market."

TORONTO
SEES SIGEL
DEATH MORAL

Special to The Standard.
Toronto, July 23.—In this morn-ing's police court the magistrate announced that in future he would punish severely all white girls brought before him, charged with frequenting Chinese places of business or resorts, and he gave two more girls six months in the House of Correction for a warning.

There would form a valuable asset to the country. But any child, whether adopted or placed on a farm as a worker, should be protected by a careful system of inspection."

Al Kaufman seems to have gotten himself in bad by taking Morris Levy of San Francisco, for his new manager. When Willis Britt was asked to match Ketchel against Kaufman in California, Britt said: "While Ketchel is in my charge he will never box Kaufman so long as Levy has anything to do with the blacksmith. Levy is the Abe Ruef of the fighting game.
He is the man who tried to send the rest of the promoters to San Quentin. And now he wants to manage a champion, and challenges Ketchel.

'DOWN WITH
WAR' SHOUT
THE CROWDS

Hendaye, France, July 23.—Mall advices received here from Madrid tonight say that the demonstration against the war continued Wednesday and Thursday. When King Alfonso visited the barracks to say farewell to the soldiers bound for Morocco, the troops and their wives made violent manifestations. Three companies of chasseurs mutilated but finally were surrounded and deprived of their cartridges.
During the rioting at the railway station the crowds shouted "Down with the war," and tried to wreck the cars. Troops were ordered up to aid the police in restoring order. Women and children were crumpled under foot and many injured.
Advices add that all meetings called to protest against the war are repressed and that the newspapers have been forbidden to publish false despatches from the front under penalty of confiscation. Public excitement is increasing.

Miss Almada Edgett was in the city yesterday, en route from Boston to summer and renew old acquaintance.
