

WILL ANOTHER BATTALION BE KNOWN AS THE 26TH, NAME OF NEW BRUNSWICK

Rev. Dr. Bruce Taylor Says With 22nd, the New Brunswick Battalion Makes Team Able to Hold Any Front—Sea of Mud Causes Virtual Truce.

Among the passengers on the C. P. R. liner Mississauga here Sunday was Major Bruce Taylor formerly of St. Paul's church, Montreal. Major Taylor was fresh from the trenches after having spent six months in France as chaplain for the Fifth Royal Highlanders (13th Battalion).

"There is no doubt about it we have the upper hand on the western front now," he said when interviewed. "For every shell they send over we shoot across a dozen, without fail."

"You can't see much of the western front nor get much of an impression of it in the trenches. You see 600 yards of mud. And it is mud I can tell you. A fortnight ago Friday there was practically a truce declared. We had a steady downpour of rain for eight days. The front trenches caved in. The communication trenches caved in. There was nothing to it but get out in front and build them up. The German opposite had to do the same. All the afternoon they worked there in open sight of one another and not a single shot was fired by either side until the trenches were repaired."

"The morale of the men is excellent at the front. Everyone is cheery and there is not a dissatisfied man in the bunch. A few days ago they sent forty-eight shells into our billet and did further damage to the ruins which we occupied. There was a Belgian woman in the room adjacent to mine. As soon as the shells began to scream she took her three children and made off down the road to hide in a ditch until the shelling was over."

"I had to come back," he said, "I would have stayed longer if I could, but my time was up."

"YES, I SAW THE 26TH N. B. BATTALION AT THE FRONT," HE REPLIED TO A QUESTION, "AND I TELL YOU IF NEW BRUNSWICK SENDS ANOTHER BATTALION OVER THERE OF THE SAME STUFF AS THE 26TH AND YET ANOTHER, HER NAME WILL BE KNOWN FAR AND WIDE."

"They are fighting in conjunction with the 22nd French-Canadian battalion and I tell you those Frenchmen are some fighters. Like the 26th they are full of fire and those battalions make a great team to hold any front."

In telling about the mud he said: "One afternoon we were going into the trenches. The kits of the Royal Scots were dragging behind them in the mud. Suddenly one little fellow slipped off the board walk at the bottom of the trench. He happened to be the smallest man in the regiment. Down he sank with his kit, ammunition, big Ross rifle and all to his shoulders and we rescued him or else he might have been drowned. That is what the mud is like on the western front."

Major Taylor leaves tomorrow for Montreal where he will enter again upon his duties at St. Paul's, although he comes back from the trenches in a reluctant frame of mind, as was evidenced by his talk.

TO STOP WASTE AND GRAVE IN TROOPS' SUPPLIES

Ottawa, Dec. 12.—With a view to keeping a more effective check on the food and other supplies issued to the troops and to prevent waste and graft, either through short weights or the sending of any unused food, Major-General Sir Sand Hughes has arranged for a staff of special inspectors. They will visit the various camps and training depots and see that all the economy is being observed. It is stated that in some places, through laxity or dishonesty on the part of some of the local officials, thousands of dollars worth of supplies have been wasted and petty graft has cost the government large sums in the aggregate. General Sir Sand is determined to stop this waste and graft, if it can possibly be done.

Lieutenant-Colonel Mullins, of Winnipeg, a well known cattleman of western Canada, will have charge of the inspection work for western Canada; Lieutenant-Colonel Joseph E. Langford, of Toronto, has been appointed for eastern Canada, with Lieutenant-Colonel Stewart, of Orono (Ont.), as sub-inspector. Other sub-inspectors are to be appointed.

Mr. Pelletier said he had known Lieutenant Coderre at Sherbrooke since his boyhood. The only witness called by the coroner today was Lieutenant-Colonel Hudson, commanding officer of the 9th Mounted Rifles, who identified the dead sergeant. He described the dead non-com as reliable and well behaved and steady. The father and brother-in-law of Sergeant Ozaime, who reside in Hampshire, were present at the inquest. Coderre appeared cool and somewhat unconcerned. Lieutenant-Colonel Hudson, told the Montreal Gazette correspondent that it was difficult to understand how a popular fellow like Sergeant Ozaime could have enemies. He also said that there had been no rivalry or ill-feeling between the 41st and the 9th.

GIVES WAY UNDER THE U. S. PROBE

San Francisco, Dec. 13.—Baron George Wilhelm Von Brincken, an attaché of the German consulate here; C. C. Crowley, a detective employed by the consulate, and Margaret Cornell, who was in Crowley's employ, were indicted today by grand jury on two counts each. The first count charges conspiracy to interfere with and destroy commerce between the several states of the union, and the United States and foreign countries; the second charges use of the mails to incite arson, assassination and murder. Bail was fixed at $4,000 on each count in the indictments. Counsel for the defendants, all of whom had been arrested previously, promised to appear in court tomorrow.

Baron Von Brincken and Crowley were previously charged in commission with conspiracy to interfere with and destroy commerce. They have been at liberty on $10,000 bail. The statute upon which the second count is based was discovered by Mrs. A. A. Adams, who, at the time of her appointment was said to be the only woman deputy United States attorney. The overt acts set forth in the indictments were not disclosed tonight. It was charged at the time of Crowley's arrest, on Nov. 26, that he was a directing agent in German plots to destroy by fire and dynamite ships bearing munitions from Great Britain to France and Russia. An explosion of a large quantity of dynamite in Seattle harbor last May was charged to him by government agents.

B COMPANY OF 69TH PRESENT SHIELD TO GERMAN ST. CHURCH

Soldiers Show Appreciation of Kindness by Philathea Class and Brotherhood—Enjoyable Concert.

There seemed to be more brotherly love and good will to the square inch last night in German street Baptist church than anywhere else in the city. The people of that church have been very generous to the boys of "B" company of the 69th since coming to the city and last night the latter reciprocated by giving the people of the church a concert and presenting them a shield.

All the members of "B" company were present under the command of Major Willans. Private J. N. Hoare was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair. In the opening moments of the social Major Willans made a short address in which he thanked the people of the church for their kindness, especially the Philathea Class and the Brotherhood of German street church. He asked that the prayers of the good people go forward with his men to the front. He believed that it would help them to be better soldiers and braver men. He then, on behalf of the company, presented the church with a beautiful shield. The shield was inscribed as follows: "Presented to the Philathea Class and Brotherhood of German street Baptist church, St. John, by the officers and men of the 69th Battalion, C. E. F., as a token of gratitude for the kindness extended to them while in St. John."

Underneath on a separate scroll was the inscription: "Major Willans, O.C. of the 69th Battalion, C. E. F., presented this shield to the church through the treasury of the Philathea Class and Brotherhood of German street Baptist church, St. John, by the officers and men of the 69th Battalion, C. E. F., as a token of gratitude for the kindness extended to them while in St. John."

The shield was faced with a beautiful silver scroll, which bore the inscription, with a background of wood, splendidly carved. Around the silver scroll was inscribed several regimental badges of the 69th.

After the presentation Miss L. Maud Estabrooks replied in a clever manner on behalf of the Philathea Class and H. G. Marr responded on behalf of the congregation, present. The pastor, Rev. P. S. Porter, also added some appreciative remarks.

The following programme was then rendered: Irish reel, Private J. W. Hoare; recitation, Lance Corporal Gillespie; Private Dumbay; song, Corporal Dunsmyr; song, Private McDermott; accordion solo and song, Sergeant Skene; song, Private Harris; song, Private Whitman; song, Corporal Gibson; recitation, Private MacDonald.

The evening's entertainment came to a close after the ladies served a splendid supper, during the partaking of which an informal chat was in progress between the men and the members of the congregation, present. German street Baptist church deeply appreciates the special offer of the officers and men of "B" company of the 69th in showing their gratitude for the courtesies received at the hands of the congregation.

The officers of "B" company, 69th Battalion, present last night were as follows: Major Willans, Major Hawke, Captain M. Copeland, Lieutenants W. H. Willis, G. E. Hart, O. deBeaujean, W. E. Collier and G. Howell.

HELD ON CHARGE OF DYNAMITING PLANTS

Charles C. Crowley, who is under arrest in San Francisco, charged by Federal authorities on information furnished by Louis J. Smith, a confessed dynamiter, of being with Baron von Brincken, attaché of the German Consulate at San Francisco, the supervising head of the dynamite action which has destroyed munitions plants engaged in making supplies for the Allies all over the United States.

GERMAN MONEY CHEAPEST KNOWN IN UNITED STATES

made liquid and we were given time," he continued.

"We have immense resources. Despite the large amounts which are being earned by shipping and the large amounts paid in dividends and interest, these sums are insufficient to restore the balance of trade, which is now against us. In order to meet our liabilities in the United States we are obliged to go outside the ordinary course of trade."

Mr. McKenna assured the house that whatever steps were taken under the mobilization plan every care would be exercised to avoid anything that would affect the American markets injuriously or be detrimental to American financial interests.

"I have conferred with insurance companies which are large holders of the desired securities," he continued. "They fully approved the plan."

"Purchase seemed the simplest and best course, where the holder of American or Canadian securities was in a position to sell outright."

The chancellor said the government had gone over the ground fully and believed the securities available would be sufficient to meet all liabilities and give the needed support to the exchange market as long as the war lasted.

He was unable at the time to give the total amount of available securities now held in this country, or the length of time necessary to bring about their sale on deposit subject to the right of purchase," he said. "In the case of unquoted or unlisted securities or of any whose current quotation might not be regarded as representative of the true value, the chancellor explained, the price will be fixed by agreement with the person offering them. The New York dollar price will be reckoned in sterling on the basis of the exchange rate of the day."

Anticipating criticism of the scheme as too generous, Mr. McKenna said: "The offer to give British credit in exchange for American securities at current market prices, can only be justified by the absolute necessity for mobilizing our American securities in order to make them of the utmost value to the nation as a whole."

"While American securities today have a good price, it is true that British securities—owing not only to a failure of credit, but to our having such large demands to meet—are comparatively low."

Borrow if Selling Refused.

Mr. McKenna turned to the details of the second part of the scheme, namely, the provisions for borrowing securities whose owners were unable or unwilling to sell.

"The treasury will accept such securities on deposit subject to the right of purchase," he said. "The securities will be transferred to the treasury for a period of two years from the date of transfer, and the lender receive all interest plus one-half of one per cent calculated on the face value of the securities. The treasury will sell the securities, at any time, on a request from the depositor, and pay the proceeds in sterling at the exchange rate of the day, or the lender may make his own arrangements for the sale on condition that the proceeds are remitted to England through the treasury agent in New York."

"The treasury reserves the right, if it thinks it necessary, to sell all or any such securities after notifying the depositor. In the event of this right being exercised the treasury will pay the depositor New York middle prices, plus 2 1/2 per cent. At the end of the two years' period the securities, if unsold, will be returned to the depositor in exchange for the treasury certificates."

It was further stated that the treasury might find itself in a very awkward position. These securities could be used by institutions here as collateral for borrowing in the United States, but if the lender knew that the borrower could not realize on his securities, the borrower might find himself in great difficulties with the lender. It is really essential to put the two parties to the bargain on the same footing."

Approved By Bankers.

After emphasizing the voluntary nature of the scheme, Mr. McKenna said that a large gathering of leading institutions, directly concerned, had unhesitatingly approved the proposal, apparently making its success certain. He said that estimates of the amount of American and Canadian securities held in Great Britain ranged between £300,000,000 and £500,000,000. In the course of a few weeks he expected to possess fuller information on this point.

"No doubt exists, however," he added, "that a sufficient amount is in sight to meet our requirements for a considerable length of time."

In closing, he declared impressively, "I look upon the acceptance of my proposal as a matter of urgency."

Replying to criticisms and suggestions, Mr. McKenna said he desired to make it absolutely clear that there was no intention to swamp the American market with vast masses of securities. The government intended to hold the securities
