

the killing were by mis-adventure, or had stollen such goods; the Delinquent shall suffer paine of death, and all the company shall endeauro to apprehend such malefactor.

Secondly, That no Ballast, Prestones, or any thing else hurtfull to the Harbourers be throwne out to the preiudice of the said Harbours, but that it be carried ashoare, and laid where it may not doe annoyance.

Thirdly, That no person whatsoever, either Fishermen or Inhabitants doe destroy, deface, or any way