New Rules in Changery—The Parliament Buildings—Meritt's Speech—Great Employion between the Clear Grits and the Ministerialists of the Cleary Reserve Meeting.

Tonourro, May 9, 1850.

Part of the new rules in Chancery were proclaimed in Court on Tuenday, by the Chancellor, They will very much shorten the proceedings, falliants the progress of cases, and leasen the costs. A Bill that before would have extended to 100 folios, will not now reach to more than about 50, and an Answer that would before have extended to 100 folios, to about 30 or 40. The examination of all witnesses residing in the County of Tork, will, in future, be made before the Chancellor in open Gourt. As it is deemed impracticistant parts of the Province, the old system will,

to aducation, he thought there were other questions of more pressing and immediate importante requiring adjustment. He confirmed the statement in one of my previous letters, that this will not be made a Cabinet question; but the Maintipy will leave themselves at fiberty to vote as shall suit their, several sotions, and diversified political interests. In the course of his speech, Mr. Merritt touched on the subject of banking, and expressed himself in favor of the Frice Banking system of the State of New York. He wishes to see the Canala completed in such a way that every one of them will draw 10 feet of water, and vessels be enabled to pass along them at the rate of 200 miles for every 24 hours. Respecting the public lands, he said he was in favor of disposing of the whole of them, funding the process and loaning the money to Railroad Companies. The Customs he would abolish altogether, but not immediately; seeing that we have neither army nor navy to support, we ought to be able to do without them. He then came to the question of Anagaztion which the has seeme emongs to see its not to be I flowled out to be a grave question, header the passes of simpletons and him brance or the jours of simpletons and him brance or the jours of simpletons and him brance or the passes of simpletons and him brance or the jours of simpletons and him brance or the jours of simpletons and him brance or the jours of simpletons and him brance in the simpletons and him brance in the simpletons are army nor nawy to support, we ought to be able to do without them. He then came to the question of the income of the process of simpletons and hired knawes. He admitted it to be a grave question, to be settled by argument, and not by the ridicule with which some stupid newspapers have set it. The fact of his admitting that every one has a right fairly and fully to argue this question, is proof that he could not have approved of the dismissal of a large number of persons from the magistracy and the militin, for exercising that right, and at the same time a condemnation of himself and colleagues for punishing men for doing what he admits they have a right to do.

Yesterday the Semi-Annual Fair and Cattle Show of the County of York was held in this city. On the whole it was rather a poor affair, the number of entries being but 77, while on some occasions they have amounted to 130.

Last night, the great meeting got up by the Anti-Clergy Reserves Association took place between the Clear Grits and the Ministry, and a tremendous explosion followed. The origin of it was this: The Ministerialists, from the first, were desirous of excluding Maleolus Cameron from the meeting, or rather from taking any part in it; but, at several meetings of the Committee of the Association, when the question came up, they were overpowered. On Monday the Committee finally disposed of the matter by an unanimous vote—after three opposing members, finding themselves in a minority, had left—that Cameron should move a Resolution 2; that, in the opinion of the meeting, the Government should make the Clergy Reserves question a Cubinet measure. Defeated in Committee, the Ministerialists, yesterday, set themselves to work to pensuade the Trustees of Knox's Church not to permit the building to be used if the Resolution in question was to be proposed. And so far they succeeded. Cameron then determined to move the substance of his Resolution as an amendment. Dr. Burus, who was to have seconded the Resolution, and purposely kicked the fat into the fire lines and Lilly, each and ill not one learned describe, but hall need for the lives depended upon the fate of that amendment. Dr. Burns seconded the amendment in a speech of great force and decision, avoidst deafening shouts of applause. The Government lickspittles fairly shrunk into themselves. Lesslie quoted a speech delivered by Mr. Baldwin in 1846, condemning in the strongest terms the late Ministry for not making this very question a Cabinet measure. Lilly and Jennings attempted to reply, but the fury of their temper nearly choked their utterance. Lilly, seeing the current running strong against them, pointed to the fact, that, by the Constitution of the Association, the Executive Committee hat power of making representations to the Government, by Deputation or otherwise. As this was precisely what the movers of the amendment wanted Came-Deputation or otherwise. As this wanted, Camewhat the movers of the amendment wanted, Cameron offered to withdraw the amendment, if the Comron offered to withdraw the amendment, if the Government of the Governm mittee would undertake to represent to the Government, as the opinion of the meeting, that the question should be made a Cabinet measure. This the Committee promised to do; thus in substance yielding up everything to the Clear Gritz. The meeting, after the introduction of the amendment, became very stormy—the cheering and hissing of the speakers being positively deaftening—and did not break up till—near one o'clock.

The wreek of the Commerce you will probably have heard of. It took place on Monday night. The following the only account received.

In the North Union Workhouse of the City 464 panes of glass were broken, and in the Conservatories of the Botnine Garden 2500 worth of glass was shattered. In the Cellege Park 19 trees were sprooted, 11 of which were of large size. All this damage was done in the space of about 10 minutes,—the greater portions of it during the last 4 minutes.

I mentioned in my last that a. "Supplemental Bill" to the "Encumbered Estates Act" had been brought into the House of Commons by Sir J. Romilly, the Solicitor-General of England, and which has been read a first time. The object of this Bill is to enable persons who purchase land under the Act, to borrow money from Government on the security of these lands, for improvement on the security of these lands, for improvement of the past week, to consider the provisions of this Bill, when Petitions to Parliament were agreed are not now, or balvery slightly ectumorers, which is the past week, to consider the provisions of this Bill, when Petitions to Parliament were agreed are not now, or balvery slightly ectumorers, which is the past week. One in the County Limerick because when this Supplemental Bill becomes law, it will be unterly impossible for the present landlords to raise money—the security they can offer being so much inferior to what the purchaser of an estate in the County Mayo, valued at £121 per annum, sold for £100; another in the County M me county Limerick. The victim of the first was a pensioner, who was supposed to have saved a sum of money, and was known to have a gun in his possession, the latter was taken, but the money was left. The victim in the second instance was Aghar Channell Factor Channell

Arthur O'Donnell, Esc., of Derrynalicke, County his own hall-door at an early hour of the evening. It is supposed the deed was committed by some persons, whom, in his capacity of Poor-Law Guardian in the Kilrush Union, he had caused to be dian in the Kilrush Union, he had caused to be struck off the list of recipients of our-door relief. The third victim was a man in humble circum-stances, the herdsman of a gentleman in the County Limerick.

In the North of Ireland, where outrages upon person or property were formerly very rare, and which in fact has been hitherto a pattern to the rest of Ireland, numerous incendiary fares have occurred within a comparatively short space of time. During the last week the cow-house of a process-server in the Parish of Garten, County Donegal, was set fire to, and his house broken into, by an armed party, who carried off the book in which he kept the entry of processes, heaides all his papers; they took likewise a gun and pistol, and, after breaking all the windows of his house, swore him not to attend at the Quarter Sessions to
