

SWISS HIGH TYPE OF CANADIAN CITIZEN

FEW EMIGRATE FROM MOUNTAIN REPUBLIC.

Settler in Alberta and Notre Dame de Lourdes in Manitoba Are Successful Swiss Colonies.

The probable locating very shortly of a silk plant in Toronto by Swiss capital as the nucleus of an extensive industry to be built up around this foundation, with the establishment at various points in the Dominion of colonies of Swiss workpeople, naturally raises the question of the desirability of this mountain-loving race as nation builders, their properties of assimilation, qualities of citizenship and success in lands in the making. Immigration from Switzerland to the American continent has never been relatively very substantial in numbers. The little republic has progressed generally in an enviable manner, a contented and comfortable little cosmos where there were few instances of great wealth; no appearance of great ease or luxury, no rich or arrogant aristocracy, but with practically every head of a family, however humble in circumstances, possessing a home of his own. An emigrating tide does not spring from conditions such as these; and so the Swiss people have never featured to any large extent among the new entrants to the countries of the American continent. The war has brought Switzerland her share of unrest and depression in which Europe has been plunged, and emigration to new fields is in greater favor than formerly.

A High Type of Citizen.

Canada's experience of the Swiss people as settlers has been comparatively limited, but sufficiently gratifying for the Dominion to take advantage of any economic trend of affairs which will send to her shores more people of the little mountain republic. They are universally considered as producing a high type of Canadian citizen, and class among the most desirable groups of immigrants Canada has drawn from. In the period from 1901 to 1912 only 1717 of these people came to Canada, a proportion arriving via the United States. Canada's Swiss population in 1911, the time of the last census, was 6,625, or 0.9 per cent of the Dominion's people. In the last fiscal year ending March 31st, 1921, the total Swiss immigration was 261, 215 entering by ocean ports and 46 from the United States.

The first Swiss settlers to arrive in Canada were brought out under the auspices of the Hudson's Bay Company by a Colonel May, a native of Berne, who had spent a considerable time in the company's service in Canada. They arrived on ships of the company at York Factory in August, 1821, and settled along the Red River near Pembina. At a later period several left for Minnesota, settling where St. Paul now stands, and being the first settlers there. About the year 1886, other Swiss colonies were established in Eastern Assiniboia at Alsace, Bismarck, Hohen-Holme, and Esterhazy, all now thriving farming settlements, renowned for their rich and extensive agricultural production.

Settler a Thriving Example.

A further example of Swiss success in agriculture is instanced in that rich farming territory surrounding the town of Stettler, in Central Alberta, where some years ago four Swiss farmers settled, locating ninety miles from the nearest railroad at that time. With a joint capital of one hundred dollars they introduced wheat growing into this section of the west which is now one of Alberta's first producing areas. They were the vanguard of many other Swiss agriculturists, some of whom came from the United States, who settled about them, worked intelligently and manfully and have won through to comfort and prosperity. A similar history of successful Swiss agricultural colonization is that of the settlement at Notre Dame de Lourdes, in Manitoba.

The Swiss are uniformly good citizens at home, and, bringing with them to a new country a regard and respect for law and order, for equitable government, and harmonious social relations, are almost without exception good citizens of Canada. Practically all the Swiss in Canada are naturalized Canadians, assimilating the national spirit rapidly, and working for the development of the Dominion along the soundest of economic lines. Canada can look without disquiet upon the projected settlement of industrial workers of the race which has so successfully followed agriculture here.

KEEP LITTLE ONES WELL IN WINTER

Winter is a dangerous season for the little ones. The days are so changeable—one bright, the next cold and stormy, that the mother is afraid to take the children out for the fresh air and exercise they need so much. In consequence they are often cooped up in overheated, badly ventilated rooms and are soon seized with colds or grippe. What is needed to keep the little ones well is Baby's Own Tablets. They will regulate the stomach and bowels and drive out colds and by their use the baby will be able to get over the winter season in perfect safety. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box their use the baby will be able to get Brockville, Ont.

The professor—“Please tell me where the nearest fire alarm box is to my house. My laboratory is on fire, so I must know immediately.”

The Prairie Town.
Lovers of beauty laugh at this gray town.
Where dust lies thick on ragged curb-side trees,
And compass-needle streets lead up and down
And lose themselves in empty prairie seas.

Here is no winding scented lane, no hill
Crowned with a steeped church, no garden wall
Of old gray stone where lilacs bloom, and fill
The air with fragrance when the May rains fall.

But here is the unsoftened majesty
Of the wide earth where all the wide streets end,
And from the dusty corner one may see
The full moon rise, and flaming sun descend.

The long main street, whence farmers' teams go forth,
Lies like an old sea road star-pointed north.

Surnames and Their Origin

MacKENNA

Variations—McKenna, MacKinney, McKinney, Kinney.
Racial Origin—Irish.
Source—Given names.

There are two forms of this name, or rather two separate names in Gaelic from which the anglicized family names in this group have been derived. It is unfortunate that in so many family names the Irish and the English forms should be so different as to cause confusion in the translation of the name from one language into the other.

Here is another case where you'd have some genealogical record to make sure whether your ancestors were members of that clan known as the “MacDonagh,” which played a vivid part in the wars of Irish rebellion in the early seventeenth century, or of the ancient “Clann Cionnotha.”

The early records of this latter clan are clear. It was founded by a chieftain named Cionnoth (the meaning of the given name being “without servile work”) about the year 250 A.D., thus establishing this family name as about twice as old as the majority of English family names. The stronghold of this clan was in Tirowen.

The name “MacDonagh” is derived from the given name “Donagh,” which means a “dunk.” It is not certain at just what period the clan was established, but it was a branch of the ancient clan of the O'Harts, and it was well established in Ardmore, County

Waterford, as well as in Dundalk and in Truagh, County Monaghan.

LAUDER

Racial Origin—Scottish.
Source—A locality.

Who had not heard of this name, the name of the famous Scottish comedian? But how many know what the origin of the name was?

It is not, however, as one might suspect from the costume so often worn by its widely known bearer, a Highland name. It is just a place name, indicating that the original Lauders came from, or dwelt in that section.

Lauder is a burgh in the County of Berwick, Scotland, near Edinburgh. Near it is the Castle of Thirlestane, which in olden days was the seat of the Earl of Lauderdale.

Such names as these grew up naturally as addition to given names at a period when populations were increasing so rapidly that given names were no longer sufficiently numerous to indicate a man's identity. The name of the place in which a man dwelt or that where he had previously dwelt often was added to his given name to distinguish him from others in the same community of the same name. In the course of time their descriptive meaning became lost, and they were accepted merely as the “age” of the individuals or families, just as the meanings of given names were early lost in the thought of the person whose identity was indicated.

“Those Who Dance Must Pay The Fiddler”

There's a settlement in profit or loss, for nearly every indulgence.

Sometimes the pay day is long deferred, and in that case the settlement may bear compound interest.

Often a payment in ill health is required for the dance had with tea or coffee during earlier years. Sometimes the collection comes in sleeplessness, sometimes in headaches, sometimes in high blood pressure, or in nervous indigestion—sometimes in all these penalties.

Nerves won't always stand the whipping of tea and coffee's drug, caffeine.

If you've been dancing to tea or coffee's fiddling, why keep on till payment time comes? If you're beginning to pay, now, why not cancel the contract?

There's an easy and pleasant way to avoid tea and coffee's penalties, as thousands have found who have changed to Postum. It is a delight with any meal—rich, comforting and satisfying—and it never harms. Even the little children can have a breakfast cup of Postum, with no fear for what may happen to sensitive nerves.

Instead of paying penalties for your meal-time drink, let it pay benefits to you, by giving natural health a full chance—and begin the new arrangement today. Any grocer will sell you, or any good restaurant will serve you Postum.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in time) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

WHY BEAUTY FADES

A Condition Due Entirely to Poor, Watery Blood.

The girl who returns home from school or from work thoroughly tired out will be fortunate if she escapes a physical breakdown, because this getting tired so easily is probably the first warning symptom of a thinning blood that must not be disregarded if her health is to be preserved.

When the blood becomes thin and impure the patient becomes pale, haggard and angular. She not only tires out easily but suffers from headaches, palpitation of the heart, dizzy spells and a loss of appetite. This condition will go from bad to worse, if prompt steps are not taken to increase and enrich the blood supply. To make the rich, red blood that brings the glow of health, no other medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. If given a fair trial their use brings rosy cheeks, bright eyes, a good appetite and good spirits. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made thousands of pale, languid girls active and strong. On the first sign of poor, thin blood mothers should insist upon their daughters taking a fair course of these pills. They will not only restore health, but will save further doctor bills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Boys' and Girls' Club Work in New Zealand.

A little over a year ago the first boys' and girls' clubs were organized in New Zealand, and the movement, which started in the South Taranaki district, bids fair to extend widely. Mr. J. W. Deem, Field Instructor of the Department of Agriculture at Mangau, in an article in The New Zealand Journal of Agriculture for July, gives a full account of the methods adopted and the results of the first contest. A committee representing the Farmers' Union, the Agricultural Department, the Education Board, and the school teachers had the matter in charge, and the success achieved was largely due to their enthusiastic and united efforts. For local supervision, a resident member of the Farmers' Union was appointed in each school district; the school teachers were asked to assist, and the writer states that, after a season's experience, he can testify to the great importance of the teacher's influence, as on their attitude largely depends the success or failure of the work.

The first contest was limited to the growing of mangolds and swedes, and it is interesting to note that the two most successful schools had a lady teacher in charge, and that the champion mangold and swede crops were grown by girls. Nineteen schools entered the competition with 140 entries for mangolds and 52 for swedes. The Department of Agriculture supplied the seeds, the manures, and the printed instructions.

In judging the crop a scale of points was used: one-half point for each 5 cwt. of roots; quality 10 points, cultivation 20 points, and records 40 points. Cultivation and records were thus made the strong feature of the work.

An arrangement was made whereby the competitors accompanied the local supervisor and judge from plot to plot. In several instances during the judging, the supervisors of adjoining clubs brought their members along. The opportunity thus afforded for comparison aroused keen rivalry, and many a competitor who had a poor plot, on seeing a good one and listening to the complimentary remarks of the judge, resolved to do better next year. Each school was allotted a first, second and third prize, while each group of schools was awarded three prizes for the three best crops in the group. There were also three championship prizes for the three best crops in the whole district. A handsome challenge shield was also presented by a business firm to the school securing the highest aggregate number of points.

In addition to field root clubs, calf clubs are being started for the coming season and are attracting good entries. Accounts that have appeared from time to time in the Agricultural Gazette of the methods of conducting Boys' and Girls' clubs in Canada were of much assistance in planning the work in New Zealand.

Original Bluebeard

The original Bluebeard was the hero of a well known story of that name, written in French by Charles Perrault. It is claimed the character in real life was Gilles De Laval, Lord of Raz, made marshal of France in 1429. He was distinguished for military genius and intrepidity, and was very wealthy, but made himself infamous by the murder of his wives and his extraordinary impiety. He was sentenced to be burned alive at Nantes in 1440.

Child and Gets Up Feeling
Fine Every Morning.

“I had heard so much about Tanlac I expected great things from it, and I was not disappointed, for it does just what they say it will,” said Mrs. Wm. Robinson, 331 Gladstone Ave., Toronto, Ont.

“I simply feel like a different person since taking this grand medicine. What I needed was something to build me up, and this is exactly what Tanlac has done.

“I have a splendid appetite now, nothing I eat gives me any bad after effects, and I sleep like a child all night long. I feel so well and happy in the morning that it is just like living my girlhood days over again. Tanlac has certainly been a wonderful blessing to me.”

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.
