JURY CANNOT SAY

How Fred Carey Came to Drown in the Rondeau.

He Was Apparently Stunned in Some Way—Those With Him Exonerated.

The inquest into the death of Fred Carey was concluded at Blenheim yesterday before Coroner Hanks. The following were examined:—Robert Carey, father of the deceased, James Mace, his half brother; Dr. Langford, who made the post-mortem examination; Hubert Murphy, Geo. Hibbert and James Kerr, who were in the boat at the time of the accident; William J. Taylor and W. R. Fellows, who were mainly instrumental in the finding of the body.

The general tendency of the evidence went to prove that Carey must have been stunned in some way before he struck the water or immediately afterwards. Dr. Langford testified that he might have received such a shock, but from the decomposed state of the body it was impossible to tell whether or not such was the case.

The jury returned the following verdict:—We find that the said Fred Carey was drowned in the Rondeau on Sunday, July 29, but the direct cause leading to his drowning has not been made clear to us. From the evidence adduced we would exonerate all those who went with him in the boat from any culpability in his death, as every effort appears to have been made by them to reach him and rescue him before he sank.

and high fighting spirits. Peitsang was reached Saturday, and the allies took position for battle during the night. The attack was made Sunday at daylight. The resistance of the Chinese was most stubborn. For seven hours the result of the battle was in doubt. Then the allied troops rushed the Chinese position and the Mongolians were driven from their trenches. The American troops did splendid execution, fighting most gallantly. The losses of the allies were very heavy.

The Japanese artillery did splendid service, in the face of a galling Chinese cross fire, under which they lost heavily. The Chinese were forced to retreat, but saved their guns. Their rear-guard was attacked and practically decimated. The total allied loss was about 400.

CATTLE TRADE DULL.

How Nathaniel Massey Found it in Montreal—What he Says.

Nathaniel Massey has returned from a business trip to the eastern Eye stock market. He reports the cattle trade dull just now and he had some difficulty in unloading the consignment which he took with him. Speaking of his trip he said:

"The cattle trade was very bad last week, in fact the market was the dull-est it has been this season. The chief cause was the high ocean freight rates, spaces selling at about $17.50 each. Then, too, owing to the South African and Chinese wars, boats are scarce. When the eastern buyers can't get space the market is blocked, and that is just what happened last week. The farmers in this section should understand that under all circumstances it pays to raise a better class of cattle. There are plenty of good beasts in Kent's country, but they are not fat, and so are not fit for shipment to Europe. The Durham or shorthorn breed is the best class that walks as far as the European trade is concerned and the farmer can make no mistake in raising these. They will pay him well."

FOR SEVEN HOURS

The Chinese Stubbornly Resisted at Peitsang.

Battle was in Great Doubt but the Allies Finally Rushed the Enemy's Trenches.

New York, Aug. 8.—A despatch, dated at the camp of the allies, Peitsang, is printed here to-day. Some new facts appear, as follows:—The expedition moved slowly, because it was found that the Chinese had placed many mines and torpedoes on the Po River. The Japanese in the advance soon struck a force of the enemy near Tien Tsin, and skirmish followed. The Chinese fought well, and the Japanese suffered a loss of twelve men. The Chinese then retired upon Peitsang. Scouts reported that three large guns and many smaller cannon were in place in the Chinese intrenchments at Peitsang. A spy who had come out in advance of the allies brought in the information that the Chinese forces consisted of fully 40,000 men, well armed and strongly entrenched. The American and British troops marched up the west bank of the river. The Russians and Japanese moved along the east bank. Light draught transport boats with supplies and artillery moved slowly up the river between the columns. The weather was ideal, and the troops were in good condition.
