STABBED IN THROAT
Mysterious Death of a Weesbeach Hotelkeeper.

Sarnia, Aug. 31.—William Hendrie, aged 58, proprietor of the Weesbeach Hotel, three miles from Sarnia, was found lying in a room on the ground floor at 9.30 o'clock last night, with knife wounds in his throat. He was taken to the hospital, and died two hours later. Before becoming unconscious he denied that he had attempted to commit suicide, but did not explain his wounds. His family was absent at the time, and three fishermen were the only men around the hotel. The police made a search, but cannot find any weapon.

An inquest was held to-day by Coroner Logue, the jury viewing the body and the scene. Surgeons say the wounds may have been self-inflicted. Deceased formerly conducted the Belchamber Hotel at Sarnia and the Dominion Hotel at Point Edward, and was widely known. The inquest resumes to-morrow.

A GREAT RECEPTION
Tendered Lord Strathcona by People of Vancouver.

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 31.—Lord Strathcona arrived in the city this morning. He was given a reception, in which the civic officials, the Board of Trade, the band of the Sixth Regiment, the boy cadets, the pipers, the Canadian Club, and all the public bodies joined. Replying to thunderous cheers, Lord Strathcona said it was eighteen or twenty years since he was last in Vancouver, and he was surprised beyond expression.

"If we may measure the future by the past," he said, "remembering that only a few years back the population was but a few hundreds and is now one hundred thousand, in comparatively short time you will have a city of half a million."

An address of welcome was presented by the City Council and the Board of Trade. Lord Strathcona was the guest of the Canadian Club at a banquet at the hotel. The attendance at this was unparalleled. His lordship remains here for a fortnight. Among those who received Lord Strathcona was Sir Mackenzie Bowell.

"Hello, my boy," said the youth of 89 to the youth of 86.

"Hello," responded the latter, cheerily.

NEW SCHOOL.
Handsome Building Opened at Paris, Ont.

Paris, Ont., Aug. 31.—The formal opening of the new Central School, built at a cost of $55,000, took place this afternoon. Upwards of one thousand citizens visited the school and grounds, expressing great pleasure at the magnificent building. Kay's orchestra furnished music which helped to enliven the proceedings. At 4 o'clock Dr. Dunton, Chairman of the Board of Education, called the large gathering in the auditorium to order. On the platform were Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, Toronto; Inspector Gilmore, of Brantford; J. H. Fisher, M. P. P., Dr. Burt, Rev. Mr. Kerruish, Contractor P. Inspector Standing, of Brantford, and members of the Board of Education.

Addresses were delivered by the chairman, Mr. J. S. Armitage; J. H. Fisher, M. P. P., Inspector Gilmore, and the speaker for the occasion, Dr. Pyne, of Toronto. An appropriation of $55,000 was made for the school and grounds, and the entire building has been erected and furnished completely without any extra call to the ratepayers, and with nearly $200 left within the grant.

At the close of the proceedings members of the Board of Education, together with citizens and their wives, assembled in the domestic science room, where a banquet was served, and speeches from a number of prominent citizens brought the proceedings to a close.

Mr. John Penman gave $15,000 toward the cost of the school. The handsome flag presented by Mr. Richard Thomson floated over the building to-day.

One of the Oldest Residents of Fergus Killed in Son's Barn.

Fergus, Ont., Aug. 31.—Mr. William Singer, one of the oldest residents of this locality, was killed at Cumnock, a few miles from here, last night. He had been living retired, but yesterday decided to go to an adjoining farm and spend the afternoon with his son Adam. He went out to the barn to see the harvesting of the crop, and while he was there a pulley broke, falling upon and injuring him so badly that he died a few hours later. Four sons and three daughters survive.

RESULT OF A WAGER
Victor Skirving Shot and Killed Near Denver.

Chatham, Aug. 31.—Archie Skirving, Peru Marquette claims agent, arrived here to-day after several weeks spent in Denver after his son's death in a hospital there. It is alleged that the shooting of young Skirving was the result of a wager between a man and his comrades that he could "hit that fellow across the lake," meaning young Skirving. The shooter's companions sold their effects and skipped, but the alleged culprit has been detained and will answer to the charge.

PRESIDENT PLEASED.
SUCCESS OF THE SCIENTISTS' MEETING AT WINNIPEG.

Papers on the Development of the Grain Industry in the West, the Care of Forests, and the Labor Question—Food From the Waters.

Winnipeg, Aug. 31.—Sir J. J. Thomson, President of the British Association, declares the Winnipeg meeting the best he had ever attended.

A great many papers were read before the various sections to-day, and Canadian topics continued to hold a prominent place in the list of subjects. Prof. Harcourt, of the Guelph Agricultural College, dealt with the development of the grain industry in the west before the Engineering section, and presented an array of acts and figures which his hearers regarded as remarkable. The present production, he said, was tremendous, as far as gross tonnage went, and the area under cultivation was only about equal to that set aside for road allowances. He pointed out the development of grain-raising as concurrent with railway construction. The occupation of the Canadian wheat fields was one of the greatest economic movements in the world to-day. Law and order, educational, religious and social life have gone on with the development. There were no American "frontier" troubles. The conquest of the grain areas called for many miles of additional railway, and presented opportunities for rapid advancement in all walks of life such as few countries afforded.

Forestry problems were under discussion before the Agricultural section. Prof. Lochead, of the Macdonald Agricultural College, submitted a paper on insect pests and their effect on forests. He deplored the fact that no comprehensive survey of Canada's timber resources had been undertaken by any of the Governments, and they had to rely for data upon the material of the United States and experts gathered in the forests of that country.

Prof. Somerville, Oxford University, gave the result of the world's outlook for timber supplies and found the prospect not reassuring.

Prof. Adam Shortt before the Economic section dealt with some phases of the relation of labor to capital, and showed how the rise in price commodities had largely offset the advance in wages during the past ten years. Labor had apparently made a slight gain, but relatively it has failed to hold its own.

Prof. Coleman, Toronto, read a paper on the Yellowhead Pass.

The evening lecture was by Prof. W. A. Herdman on "Our Food From Waters."

The association meeting closes to-morrow evening.

BLOOD POISONING.
CAUSE OF DEATH SAY DOCTORS AT THE BOLLARD INQUEST.

Eyewitnesses in the Box—Girl Who Was Present at Fight Said There Were Several Struggles on the Ground.

Peterboro, Aug. 31.—That the injuries received by Arthur Bollard in the fight with Fred Jopling, on Monday night, Aug. 23, had a good deal to do with producing death, was the trend of the medical testimony at the inquest here to-day. Doctors Scott and Greer, who performed the post-mortem, were closely cross-questioned, and while they admitted that over-exhaustion might have brought on the lowering of vitality that weakened the powers of the body against bacteria, they stated that the injuries which it was evident the young man received were likely to cause such a condition as the post-mortem revealed the young man's body to be in.

Miss Ada Minns, who was the first witness, said that the Joplings were the aggressors in the affair on Monday night. She was with Arthur Bollard and Harry Marks, returning home from the dance, when Harry Jopling and another young man came running behind them, and when Arthur Bollard shot after them, Harry Jopling reached him. His brother Fred then interfered, and the fight ensued.

Miss Muriel Burritt, who was summing up at Chemong, testified that Bollard told her on Tuesday night that he had been roughly handled in a fight on Monday night.

Blake Cullen, David Tubly and Gordon Long also gave evidence as to being witnesses of the fight. Their stories were much the same as those of previous witnesses. Adjournment was made to Sept. 13.

QUAKE IN ROME.
Sharp Shock Felt in Higher Quarters of City.

Rome, Aug. 31.—Rome was visited by an earthquake this afternoon. The only damage so far reported is the cracking of the facade of the Church of Santa Anna.

The shock was felt especially in the high quarters of the city, where pictures and other similar objects were thrown down from the walls. There were considerable affections in the crowded districts of the city, and the men and women in the city hospitals and prisons were in a condition bordering on panic until the assurances were given that there was no danger.

BURNED TO DEATH.
Mr. Conkey's House in Adelaide Destroyed.

Strathroy, Aug. 31.—One of the saddest fatalities that Adelaide village, eight miles northwest of here, has seen for many years occurred to-day, at 2.30 o'clock, when Florence, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Conkey, was burned to death. The little one was alone with her four-year-old sister, Catherine, when the accident happened. Mrs. Conkey, the mother, went across the road to visit a neighbor, Mrs. Cleland, and left the children alone. There was no fire in the house when she left. By some means Catherine tried to extinguish the flames, but her efforts were fruitless, and in a few minutes she was driven from the burning building. Her cries were heard by Miss Bessie Wilson, who came rushing to the scene, and gave the alarm. Neighbors quickly responded, but were powerless to do anything. The house was burned to the ground. When the fire had burned out the charred remains were found burned beyond recognition.

WANT A NEW ISOLATION.
Board of Health Declares In Favor of Separate Site.

Asks to Have Work on Addition at Hospital Stopped.

Wm. Farrar Criticises the Aldermen For Their Course.

Spurred to action by the scarlet fever epidemic, the Board of Health last night seized the opportunity to make one more appeal to the City Council not to enlarge the old isolation buildings on the City Hospital grounds, but to erect a new building for infectious and contagious diseases on a new and properly isolated site. Nearly four years ago the people voted $75,000 for this purpose, but it was side-tracked from the time by the Council until the by-law became void. It has been the subject since of several lively debates in the Council, and at Board meetings, but the aldermen this year decided that a $10,000 addition to the present buildings would answer the purpose for some years to come.

The opening shot was fired last night by William Farrar. It was improper, he thought, for the city to proceed with the proposed addition. A new hospital on a separate site to avoid danger from contagion, he urged, was what was really required. He advised that the matter be brought before the Council and the aldermen asked to stop the building of the addition. Mr. Farrar handed out some hard raps to the civic solons. The Council's position, he stated, seemed to be that anything was good enough for the poor.

Charles Peebles was not impressed with the need of stopping the work on the addition, planned by the Hospital Board, and thought that it would answer the requirements for some time.

Dr. Roberts, the Medical Health Officer, pointed out that he had frequently urged the Council to make a separate site for the Hospital Board, and that there was danger of a serious outbreak at any time, and that the danger was greatly increased through the lack of proper accommodation. The time had come. There was no place now to properly care for the cases the city had on hand. It was a somewhat similar case to that of Engineer Barrow, who had continually and vigorously warned the city of the danger of the position at the pumping station.

As a result of the city's poor accommodation for fever patients, children were dropping off one by one, and the doctor then resigned his office. It was little short of a crime, he considered, to continue as at present. The only remedy was a hospital on a separate site for contagious and infectious diseases, where patients could be properly isolated.

On motion of Mr. Peebles, seconded by J. C. Boligan, the Board decided to ask the Council to submit a by-law, in January, and to request the ratepayers to vote enough money for a separate hospital on a new site.

Mr. Farrar, seconded by Jas. Dowling, moved that the Council be asked to stop work on the proposed $10,000 addition and this also met with approval.

It was decided to quarantine the Boys' Home, as a result of the seriousness of the scarlet fever outbreak in that institution.

The resignation of Miss Kate Macleod, clerk in the Board of Health office, was accepted, and Miss Ethel Quinn was appointed to fill the vacancy. Miss Macleod has accepted a position in the Hydro-Electric Commission's head office in Toronto.

Public and Separate School principals will be notified that pupils who have suffered from scarlet fever this summer, or in whose family the disease broke out, must not be allowed to attend unless provided with a health certificate by the local Health Officer.

ESTABLISHED 66 YEARS AGO THOMAS C. WATKINS HAMILTON, ONTARIO

SCRAP BOOK POETRY

AN ANTI-JINGO ODE.
 (Sydney Bulletin.)
 Sing a song o' Hemptire
 Mother's took a fit,
 Nasty Germany buildin' ships—
 An' never mentioned it,
 Buildin' beasty warships,
 Quite a tidy fee,
 Mother's up a tree;
 Baby's got it, too.

The King was in the Customs House,
 But couldn't find a penny;
 The Lords were at their country seats,
 And didn't offer any;
 A military pauper moaned about
 With notin' much to eat,
 When down came Australyzer
 With a Dreadnaught for the fleet.

Sing a song o' Warships,
 'Tried ede blow,
 Mother's up a tree;
 Lay'n down his Dreadnaughts—
 And didn't let us know
 Didn't advertise it,
 Till the Cablegram
 Spread the awful tidings
 'An' the Hemptire shouted "Damn!"

Sing a song o' Hemptire
 Mother's up a tree;
 Put the Melbourne Stock Exchange
 'As swore to set 'er free,
 Does the German catiff
 Build upon the sky?
 Then seventeen suburban mav's
 Will know the reason why!

Seventeen suburban mav's
 Of the Building Breed,
 Fly to succor Hingland
 In her hour of need,
 What of "Constant Reader?"
 "Pro Bono Publico?"
 Will "Subscribes" see old Hingland
 Flabbergasted? No!

A really, truly battleship,
 With guns an' things galore,
 An' splendid sails of calico
 From MacMillan's store—
 The Stock Exchange will float it
 On a sea of gush,
 Wo's two million quid to us?
 We don't care a rush?

(But whisper—Stile mother,
 If, later on, some day,
 We want ter suffer flat a loan,
 To 'ship us on our way—
 Borrer of it back, 'Sve—
 After wot 'as passed,
 Don't you go an' crool our patch,
 Like you did the last.)

Sing a song o' Britain's fleet
 ("O the Tories rag'd!)
 That's goin' to guard Australyzer
 (If not 'ompletely engaged),
 Sing of 'Umpty Dumpty—
 'Tm that 'ad the fall,
 Rob Australian Peter
 To pay old Hingling Paul.

Sing o' topey-travvy:
 Sing of inside-out,
 Of back-to-front and upside-down
 An' 't'her way about.
 Spend ten bloomin' milliyun,
 Buy yer ships galore,
 An' send them all to Hingland
 To guard Australyzer's shore.

Sing a song o' Hemptire!

MURDER AT DETROIT
A. W. Orendorf Identifies His Brother's Body.

Windsor, Aug. 31.—In the Detroit county morgue this morning Arthur W. Orendorf, of Ridgeway, Ont., claimed the body of the man murdered at the dock, foot of Second street, Detroit, on Sunday night, as that of his brother, Charles D. John McTague, of Cleveland, thought that the body was that of his brother, Martin McTague. For several minutes the two men closely examined the body, and then McTague admitted that he was mistaken. The body will be taken to Ridgeway for burial.

DOGGED SUFFRAGETTES.
Will Picket House of Commons Until Christmas if Need Be.

London, Aug. 31.—The picketing of the House of Commons and Premier Asquith's residence by the suffragettes is not to be a spasmodic effort in behalf of their cause.

"We shall continue to picket the House of Commons even if we have to go till Christmas. And we shall picket Downing street just as often as a meeting of the Women's Freedom League at Caxton Hall.

Every delegate, said Mrs. Martyn, had been on duty outside the House of Commons for an average of 299 hours—"and all," she added, "because one man will not give half an hour of public time to hear a public grievance."

"One member of parliament has said this picketing has converted, to his knowledge, 18 members. What argument has failed to do, the good, quiet, womanly standing outside the House has accomplished. If we stood long enough we should convert the 670."

"Mr. Asquith is the blackest cloud on the Suffragist horizon. Now I will tell you of the silver lining. We have added more members, we have received more money, during this past six weeks than in any other six weeks of our whole career. Mr. Asquith is acting as a recruiting agent for the ranks of the Suffragettes."

Dogs in Germany.
 The dachshund is the favorite dog in Germany, and a very useful and pleasant companion he seems to be. The English bulldog is a good second in popularity, and the nearer he is to our standard points the better he is liked. The fox terrier varies a good deal in size and marking and is evidently not so well known in Germany as he deserves to be. The ladies there are as fond of their little Poms and their King Charleses as are their English sisters of their pet dogs at home. Some few dogs in the streets are harnessed to four wheeled trucks. Usually a man and a dog pull. The work seems too heavy and exhausting for the dogs, which are generally mongrels of the mastiff type. They look in fair condition and are not ill-treated.—Farm and Home.
