as Dominion politics

The "World" asked J.S. Martin, Northumberlands Labor representative in the provincial legislature, how Tuesday s election was likely to affect his own political future.

Mr. Martin smilingly replied "I am not losing any sleep over that question. I know that, because of my being a Liberal, some people thought that I should have been actively engaged in supporting the Liberal candidate. I know also others thought, if I were looking after my own political fortunes that I should have endeavored to swing the votes of the working classes to the Conservative standard. The latter people took that view because of "Premier Veniot's declaration on the night when Lt. Hon. MacKenzie King appeared before a Chatham audience. You will remember that the Provincial Premier at that meeting expressed the hope that in future provincial elections would be run on Dominion party lines. Mr. Veniot later revised that statement by declaring that the Liberal party of Canada was big enough to include Labor. presentatives. Without any apolagy for my policy of masterly inactivity in the federal campaign just ended I may remind the able to meet a united Labor party-"World" that I owed my election of some four years ago in a large measure to the splendid support I got from the working classes of fully, they will take care of my this county. They included both future politically when the time of Liberals and Conservatives so far battle comes."

cerned. Why then should I have quarreled with either Liberals or Conservatives in the Dominion contest in which no greatlabor principle was involved? I see that the "Gleaners" news confirms the frequently expressed view of the "World" that there will be no pro vincial general election this year, and that there will be another sitting of the legislative assembly before they are called on. In the meantime_I may frankly tell you that I hope to call a meeting of the working classes of the county and give them an account of my stewardship as their representative in the provincial legislative assemb ly. After I have done so I will be guided entirely by their wishes, as to whether Labor would be best served by my forming ar Independent Labor ticket or pursuing a different course. It has those in authority seek to divide the working classes and in that way That lessen their influence. what would have happened had I taken sides in the Federal contest just ended and then I would have divided to some degree at least the Labor Vote, as it is, I shall be made up of all sections of wage earners-and I have no doub while I serve their interests faith

Moose Plentiful In The Province

L.A Gagnen chief game warde has received reports from many sections of the province to the ef fect that partridge are much fewer in number than they were last year These reports are numerous but not entirely general as some sections report the birds plentiful.

The thery that an epidemic had reduced the number of partridge has been advanced but the chief game warden has not committed hintself to fa . holding that the opinion that owls and small animals destroy so many partridge eggs or young that they would seriously reduce the number and unfavorable weather conditions in the spring also would tend to duce the number.

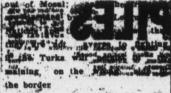

A close season for the protection of the partridge has been advocated but the chief game warden ha not expressed that opinion

Reports to the chief game warden are that moose are plentiful in many sections of the province. American hunting parties already have brough their moose out of the woods from widely separated districts. The lower section of Albert county reported 15 of the animals killed
