

A Crushing Defeat.

Special to Evening Telegram.
WASHINGTON, To-day.
The ex-Shah of Persia met with a crushing defeat in his attempt to reach Teheran, according to information supplied by the Department of State by the Persian Legation. The cables advise that the Government troops encountered rebels on Monday and Tuesday. On the first day, the Government forces united and made a general assault upon the rebels, capturing all the guns, taking prisoner the commander of the rebels, and killing or capturing five hundred men. The defeat of the rebels is complete.

The New Agreement.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, To-day.
The Franco-German Agreement, according to the Daily Mail, will take the form of a Convention, signed by the European powers and the United States. It will acknowledge that France has both political and military interests in Morocco and that the dispute regarding the interpretation of the treaty (Algeiras) have been referred to Europe and the States.

Dutch Anxiety.

Special Evening Telegram.
AMSTERDAM, To-day.
The Dutch reservists are being kept under arms for an extra period of 23 days, and naval manoeuvres are being carried out in the North Sea. These courses are due to the anxiety of Holland over the Moroccan negotiations.

Wanted on a Charge of Bigamy.

We learn from people who arrived from over the Bay by yesterday's train that a warrant was sworn out at Harbor Grace for a man of the North Shore, on a charge of bigamy, and that officers went down the shore yesterday afternoon to effect the man's arrest and convey him to Harbor Grace Jail. The story told of the occurrence is that about 9 years ago, shortly after this man married, he left his wife and proceeded to the United States. He never wrote a line to his wife after deserting her and she concluded that he was dead, and married another man after a period of 7 years had expired. The woman now lives with her second husband and has a family, and about a year ago she received a shock when her former husband came back to his native place. She remained with the father of her children with whom she lives happily. Since returning this man became enamoured of another young woman belonging to the North Shore and they determined to marry. The man approached the clergyman of two denominations asking that they perform the marriage ceremony, but they refused having heard of the man's previous marriage and his desertion of his wife. He then, it is alleged, proceeded to Harbor Grace and was married by a clergyman from whom he withheld the knowledge of his previous matrimonial venture. The police went down the shore looking for him yesterday afternoon and hope to arrest him to-day.

McMurdo's Store News

FRIDAY, Sept. 8, 1911.
A drink of Partridge Berry Soda has been compared with the mythological nectar—the drink of the Gods of Greece. But there is nothing mythological about it, and it has a sharpness and pungency to which nectar has never laid claim. We fancy the latter drink to have been over-sweet and cloying to mortal palates. That is just what Partridge Berry is not. It is delightfully "more-ish." It has in fact, just the characteristic taste of the real thing, and few flavors equal it—certainly none surpass it. In appeal to the palate, but our arguments will be wasted if you do not try it; and unnecessary if you do. Come in and have a glass, anyway. Price, 5c.

Caviar.

Caviar has been found to be an antidote for cholera, according to a report from St. Petersburg, where the Ottoman Bacteriological Institute has been making investigations. The discovery is the result of a protest against the Turkish Government's exclusion of Russian caviar from Turkish territory, for fear of cholera infection. The Institute experimented with a pot of caviar which had been infected with cholera bacilli. In four days it was found all the cholera germs in the caviar had been destroyed.

Proved His Mettle.

Last evening a colored sailor of the Brilliant showed himself to be possessed of more than ordinary pluck and also proved himself to be a pugilist of ability. He was set upon near Adelaide Street by four other sailors of the ship, and though he was pretty badly smashed by their blows, he saluted in and put three of them hors de combat. A St. John's chap, seeing so many odds against the colored man, also took a hand in but was arrested by the police, who arrived when the fracas was pretty nearly over. They arrested the wrong man and should have taken the quartette, who acted in such a cowardly manner.

Cricketana.

BRILLIANT VS. CITY.
There will be an interesting cricket match to-morrow beginning at 1 p.m. on St. George's Field between a city team and a team from H.M.S. Brilliant. The city eleven will be Messrs. R. F. Goodridge, Captain; A. Hayward, F. H. Donnelly, J. J. Grieve, Bernard Ayres, Gerald Harvey, W. H. Peters, J. C. Royley, H. W. Dickinson, G. F. Boone and A. Nother.

Had Hand Mangled.

By Wednesday night's train there arrived here Mr. Chas. Cooper, of Spencer Street. He is running a mill at Cape Dog, where he has seen a good deal of lumber. That morning his hand accidentally became caught in some of the machinery and was terribly mangled. The operators stopped the flow of blood by putting a tourniquet on the arm and on arrival here he went to hospital. To-day he was put under an operation, the better part of the mangled hand being taken off.

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

Reggie, you're a fine young fellow, but you're bound to have your way, and you'll marry Abella spite of all that I can say. Though asked from me is futile, since you're firm as my rock, though the things I say seem brutal, yet I've simply got to talk. Abella is a daisy, smooth-as-a-silk girl I ever saw, but the neighbors say she's lazy, and she will not help her man. She is stylish, and her eyes are simply grand; but the people say she's wassy to her mother, understand? I have lived and loved and suffered, and I've found it is the law that no sane, well-balanced duffer wed a girl who'll sass her man. She may have a thousand graces to adorn her fair young life, but you'll find she'll burst the traces when you get her for a wife. You had better hunt some other damsel in this country wide, for a girl who'll sass her mother will gold brick you as a bride.

"Tim" Shannahan on Wrestling

When wrestlers come from far away to show us "signs" for which we pay, 'twould be a kind of consoling, if when they enter in the ring, they'd try and feel their level best, have plenty sleep and tons of rest; be sure they're feeling extra good, as every bloomin' wrestler should, and not gas off when bout is over, and while for only one chance more.

To Have His Leg Amputated

A man named Peter Edwards, of Lawn, is expected to arrive here to-day to go to the General Hospital. He is 60 years of age, and as the result of an accident one of his legs is in a bad state. When he arrives at the institution it will be amputated.

That Famous Game.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—In yesterday's issue of the Daily News the Cabonier Correspondent of that paper gives what he perhaps considers an answer to our "letter" which appeared in the Evening Telegram some days ago. He, however, struck wide of the mark, and his broad jeers, born apparently of the deepest ire, betray neither the gentleman nor the true sport. He tells us that Western Bay played the best game of football ever seen. Now, Mr. Editor, we of the Western Bay team know that long ago, but as we won the game by a very small margin, we didn't call attention to the fact, fearing that if we did so, Cabonier would see that their team was second to but one of the world. Western Bay taking first place. The Daily News correspondent is, however, a very cute man and saw through our little ruse immediately. He strongly objects to our hiding the light of Cabonier under a bushel, and in order to give his home team its rightful place as second best, he grudgingly admits that Western Bay takes first place in the wide, wide world.

Yet gods and little fishes! Just think of it. The Cabonier correspondent also thinks the names and deeds of the Western Bay boys will be passed down to posterity as are those of the illustrious Nelson. There may be something in it, but we are quite certain that his name and works will not be handed down as those of Nelson or Shakespeare. Much better for him to take a back seat and bathe his troubled temples, and if he wishes to preserve the remnants of respect some of our boys still hold for the sports of Cabonier, he had better quit his jeering and write like a gentleman. He may be a peach, but after reading his note one almost refuses to believe it! He can't be a sound one, anyway. However, if he would only interest himself in finding the football that was stolen from a carriage near Foote's Hotel, we'll send him a cigar and a bouquet for good luck. They shouldn't have swiped our old ball, as we have nothing to do in the evenings now except to scribble in answer to one not worthy of it.

Fearing we are trespassing too far on your valuable space and thanking you for same.
Yours,
COMET.
