New Armies Organized

The Army Order of yesterday marks the absorption of a large portion of Kitchener's new army in the Regular forces. According to the report the regular forces have now been organized in six armies, each one of three army corps, and the commanders-inchief appointed presumably with their staffs. An army corps in the British a first class picture theatre at their Army usually consists of 80,000 men, end of the town and a beautiful clean organized and fitted out ready to take warm and comfortable one at that: make clearer the progress which has been made in the five months of the war. At that time the army organization provided for an Expeditionary Force of Regulars for operations abroad. It consisted of six divisions of infantry of 600 officers and 18,000 men. Their equipment included 54 field guns, 18 4.5 in. howitzers, and four 60-pounder guns. There was also one division of cavalry made up of 485 officers and 9,412 men. There were troops also for the line of communication. The total strength for the firing

NEW YEAR'S DAY AT C. E. OR PHANAGE.

Through the kindness of Messrs. Devling, Summerville, Twentyman and Jackson, yesterday was a red letter day in the lives of the children of the C. E. Orphanage. About 4 o'clock the above named gentlemen arrived and began the programme drawn up by presenting all the children with candy. From then until 9 o'clock the above named gentlemen arrived and equipped, the number of British troops sent to the front will be above named ream up by presenting all the children with candy. From then until 9 o'clock when the children were supposed to be ten infantry divisions and began the programme drawn up by presenting all the children with candy. From then until 9 o'clock when the children were not bed, fed and equipped, the number of British troops sent to the front will be above named gentlemen arrived and began the programme drawn up by presenting all the children with candy. From then until 9 o'clock when the children were sent to bed, they did all that was possible to make it pleasant for the little ones. Santa Claus appeared on the scene every half hour and presented a parcel of good things to each child. The balance of the time was taken up with games and selections on a very fine gramaphone kindly lent by Mr. A. Munn foe the occasion. The children for the kindness of these gentlemen in making th first day of the New Year poss so pleasantly for them. After the children retired the Superintendent and Mrs. Wadland were treated to a bounteous supper kindly supplied by the entertainers of the evening.
