A report from Ottawa says: It was stated a few days ago that the deputy adjutant generals throughout the country would be dismissed and the work concentrated. The report is denied by a high military officer here. He says: "The facts are mis-stated, and conclusions are nonsensical. As to the number of D. A. C.s, those of districts 1 and 2 are commanding officers of the permanent units of the Royal Regi- alive the doctors hold out no hopes of ment of Canadian Infantry, at London and Toronto. For this extra service they receive a paltry allowance of $1 a day. The same, by the way, applies as a change for better or worse takes to district commands of Nos. 6 and 8. In No. 4 the assistant adjutant-general at headquarters commands. So that in the whole Dominion there are not six deputy adjutants-general proper and three brigade majors. So much for that. As to reducing the period of ser-vice as D. A. G. to five years, it can-not be done in Canada. That is the period of staff service in the imperial army, and at the end of five years the officer goes back to his regiment. But here, after a service of five years, the D. A. G. would have no regiment to go back to, except, of course, in the case of permanents."

At the Clay Banks-Charlie Fawkes!

Close Call. "The Claybanks" are familiar to all swimming resort. They are on the south branch of the Thames above the hospital, and as the water is deep in spots and is uncontaminated by city sewage, the claybanks are con-stantly graced these warm days by scores of bathers. Yesterday about 11 a.m., the usual crowd was bathing, and Charlie, the young son of Mr. J. Fawkes, baker, East London, started to swim across the river, which is fifteen feet deep in the center. He had reached the middle, when he became exhausted and cried for help. Mr. Patrick Deehan, of Egerton street, was on the bank, and at once plunged in. Charlie sank before Mr. Deehan reached him, but soon came to the surface and was caught by his brave rescuer. The lad was carried to shore, and soon recovered. It was fortunate that Mr. Deehan was on the spot, as the others were small boys, who could have given no aid.
