It is significant that both these great corporations regard Canada as a better vantage ground in the fight for foreign markets. One reason is that Canada is, in some lines, a cheaper in nearly every country in the world. the home market. In Canada the pro- flow." tectionists thrive on the fears of American aggression, and to cap the climax a formidable agitation has sprung up in Great Britain for a return to protection, as a means of fight- your majesty, that you will inflict some ing the American trusts. In punish them by letting them live to this way the American trusts can push their export trade, and at the same time retain their monopolistic grip on the market of the United States. Capital knows no flag; it serves any and all countries from which it can draw profits. The United States cannot continue to maintain its present tariff and increase its hold on foreign markets, but the trusts will not worry about that if they can get the foreign business by manufacturing in Canada or in some foreign land. They intend to keep the American market as their private preserve, and the American people were never more submissive than now to trust control.

AMENDMENTS ARE WITHDRAWN

Concurrence Upon Estimates-They Have Been Passed-Senate Resumes Business.

Ottawa, July 8. - The House Commons devoted the greater part of resterday to the consideration of the question of municipal rights in connection with the operation of electric railways. After spending some time concurrence upon the estimates that have been passed, the House again went into committee upon Mr. Blair's railway commission bill. The bill for the revision and consolidation of the railway act was then taken up, and several amendments were made Section 91 was amended so as to provide that the directors of a railway may, with the sanction of the stockholders, declare a dividend to be paid out of the net profits of the undertaking. The directors before recommending any dividend, set aside out of the profits of the company such sums as they may think proper as a reserve fund to meet contingencies or for equalizing dividends, or for repairing, maintainapproval of the shareholders. The clauses referring to the for-
