Assessment Commissioner Grant is being besieged with queries regarding the workings of the new assessment act in respect of taxation for income. The commissioner has sent out blank forms to be filled in by employers, and those who are assessable for income. The employers, besides giving all information as to their own means of revenue, must also tell the salaries paid to their different employes.

As regards this latter provision of the act Mr. Grant points out that all employers, under pain of a fine of $100, are compelled to furnish the assessment department with a full list of its employes, and the salaries paid them within a period of ten days from the receipt of the notice and an additional penalty of $10 a day may be collected for each day the statement is dlayed after the ten days allowed have

On one other point Mr. Grant wishes to make the business public clear. Under the act, the assessment books and all statements as to income, etc., received by the assessment department, must not be shown to any person or persons except by order of a court of law. Thus no citizen or interested party whatever has the right to go to the city hall and demand to see the assessment of his neighbor or business competitor, or see what salaries are paid by his competitor, the law regarding all such statements handed to the assessment department as being given in good faith and absolute se-creey. This important provision is

His dividends are not assessable, but if he should invest those dividends the income from them would be assessable, the same as would be the interest from them if they were deposited in the bank. If a man is a partner in a firm and is drawing a salary as manager, say, his salary will be assessable for income, the same as the

CONCERT AT THE JUNCTION

The St. George's Choir Provides at Appreclated Programm :.

The concert given by St. George's Church choir, London Junction, last night, was a pronounced success. point of attendance and quality of programme little more could have been desired. The choir, while not large, is in excellent form, and did itself credit, singing among other numbers Nightingale" and "The Vikings" with marked effect. Assistance was also rendered by such well-known vocalists as Miss Pauline Mowat, and Mr. Nicel, of Westminster. Mrs. Mackay sang "Life's Lullaby; Miss Murdoch a duet, and Mr. E. Nuttycombe gave a beautiful violin solo. The Elite or-chestra, a group of Mr. Pocock's young musicians, delighted the audience with several selections. Miss Augus and the choir deserve the thanks of the community for their painstaking work in connection with St. George's Church, Refreshments were served to the choice and the friends who so kindly and ably assisted in the programme. PLENTY OF PRIZES
