but was compelled to give up the notion when he was caught with a ship load of arms on the Yangtse. All the flibusters in London used to gather at our rooms to spin yarns and drink punch. It struck me then that a club of adventurers would be good fun and that it might be extremely useful in bringing together the sort of men who could best serve the empire as guides, scouts, and raiders in warfare. Nothing, however, came of it, and I started hunting trouble again as captain of a pack train in the west. Later, as a IT IS WORLDWIDE IN SCOPE scout in South Africa, during the Boer war, I happened to get punished for feeding grass to a horse by an officer who didn't know that the horse was a grass feeding animal.
